DAVIS FACES FUND QUIZ

Senate Seating Delay Looms

Chairman Nye Will Ask for Holding Up of Ceremony Today Pending Inquiry

Reports Say $520,000 Was Spent by Candidate and Running-Mate Brown

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30. (AP)—Chairman Nye of the Senate Campaign Funds Investigating Committee, announced today he intends to ask Senator-elect Davis, Republican, Pennsylvania, to stand aside tomorrow when he presents his credentials for entry in the Senate until the committee can inquire into reports of new expenditures in his campaign.

This decision was reached today by Senator Nye on receipt of word from Pennsylvania that a supplemental report of expenditures in the Republican primary has brought the total to about $520,000 spent in behalf of the Davis-Brown ticket. Francis Shunk Brown was candidate for Governor of the ticket with Davis in the primary.

SEATING DELAY LOOMS

Nye's request is expected to defer at least temporarily the seating of Davis, who retires tomorrow from the Labor post in President Hoover's Cabinet. Senator Nye said he will give assurance in making his request that the committee will complete its inquiry within "one or two days."

If the $520,000 total is found to be correct for the Davis-Brown expenditures, Senator Nye said he then will leave it up to the Senate to determine what part of these expenditures were attributed to Davis and what should be done about it, if anything. He is not prepared to state that he will ask rejection of Davis as a Senator.

However, there have been many rumors of an effort to deny Davis his seat because of the campaign expenditures and the new report is expected to lend strength to any movement contemplated in this district.

Senator Nye, nevertheless, emphasized the inquiry by his committee had developed that the main contest in the Pennsylvania primary was over the Republican gubernatorial nomination. Gifford Pinchot defeated Mr. Brown in this race and Secretary Davis won over Senator Grundy in the Senatorial contest.

DAVIS WON'T COMMENT

Secretary Davis declined to comment on the action proposed by Senator Nye. He said he knows nothing about the additional expenditures into which the committee seeks to inquire. He added he is not sure whether he will go to the Senate tomorrow to present his credentials.

"I don't know anything about it," he said.

The controversy brings into dispute once more the seat to which William S. Vare was elected in 1926. After years of inquiry and debate, the Senate voted to deny Vare this seat because of expenditure of more than $700,000 on behalf of his ticket in the primary race.

Joseph R. Grundy was appointed by Gov. Fisher of Pennsylvania after the Senate rejected Vare. During the long controversy Vare was not permitted to occupy his Senate seat. Grundy entered office a year ago, but was defeated in the primary for renomination, by Secretary Davis.

PRELIMINARY REPORT

A preliminary report Senate Nye is prepared to submit to the Senate tomorrow lists expenditures of $368,962 in behalf of the Davis-Brown ticket. On the basis of this report, which showed personal expenditures by Davis of only $10,747, Senator Nye did not intend to take any action against the Pennsylvanian, believing the principal amount of this expenditure was spent in the bitter fight over the gubernatorial nomination.

Today, however, he sent special investigators to Harrisburg to check up on reports indicating increased expenditures in the Davis-Brown campaign. Nye said he has been informed the supplemental report filed by Samuel Vauclain for the

MIDWEST'S THAW GIVES WAY TO ICE

Frigid Wave Swooping Down From Alaska Brings Subzero Temperatures

CHICAGO, Nov. 30. (Exclusive) After pseudo-warmth over the week-end which turned ice-coated highways and streets into slush and sleet, the Middle West is in for another frigid wave, according to official forecasts tonight.

The cold wave is sweeping down on this section from Alaska, where exceptional subzero temperatures prevail. Eagle today reported 52 deg. below; Dawson, 46 below, while Fort Simpson, Can., reported minus 40.

Eagle is held responsible for the prospective iciness of the Middle West. It originated the cold wave Saturday. It waved along from there down the Mackenzie River Valley, through Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

It rippled into the United States through North and South Dakota and Minnesota. Devils Lake reported zero Sunday. Other points in the Dakotas and Minnesota shivered at about 10 deg. above.

Throughout the Central States the mercury generally went as high as 39 today, removing a thick and dangerous coating of sleet. By mid-afternoon, however, the mercury began to slip and continued to go down during the earlier part of the night.

Missionary in Chinese Camp

SHANGHAI, Nov. 30. (AP)—Missionary dispatches from Hankow, received here today, said Bert Nelson, American Lutheran missionary from Minneapolis, is being held in a bandit camp near Kwangshan, Southern Honan Province.

The dispatches said the bandits are treating Nelson considerately, although they are impatiently demanding payment of ransom and had threatened to kill the missionary unless the money was forthcoming immediately. Almost nothing had been heard of Nelson's whereabouts since his capture by brigands on October 5.

Italian March of Unemployed Hits at Il Duce

TURIN (Italy) Nov. 30. (AP)—Last week's demonstrations by the unemployed, resulting from erroneous reports the Fiat Motor Company was to close indefinitely, have resulted in a decision by the prefect that all public works programs shall be begun immediately instead of waiting for the new year.

The seriousness of last week's demonstrations became known today. Manifestants dared the authorities by marching publicly with pockets turned inside out to advertise their penniless plight. They rifled a bread wagon and wrote on walls:

"Bread for our children or the head of Mussolini."

Brazil's Capitol Greets Air Mail

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 30. (AP)—S. J. Williamson, flying a Sikorsky amphibian, brought the first United States air mail to the capital of Brazil this afternoon, marking a new era in commercial relations between the two republics. He flew the 860 miles from Bahia in eight and one-half hours, making three stops en route.

His cargo, fifty-two sacks of mail, left Miami, Fla., a week ago, and thus the trip cut the steamer mail time between New York and Rio by six days.

Blast of Gas Burns Fifteen

JOHNSTOWN (Pa.) Nov. 30. (AP)—Fifteen persons were injured, several seriously, when an explosion believed to have been caused by gas wrecked a brick apartment dwelling here late yesterday. Fire followed the blast.

The explosion followed a similar blast an hour earlier in a single dwelling a quarter of a mile away. One side of the latter structure was blown out, but none was injured.

Those caught in the wrecked apartment-house suffered largely from burns. It was a two-story building housing five families.

Pirates' Mines Sink Vessels

HONGKONG, Nov. 30. (AP)—Sea robbers of South China have added mine-laying to their oriental pirate racket. A steam launch towing three trailers from Shunteh to Canton today struck a mine said to have been laid by pirates and all four vessels went down with a loss of eight lives and property damage of $2000.

The outrage is understood to have been the outcome of a bandit threat against launch companies which have refused to pay levies for immunity from such attacks.

MITCHELL (S. D.) Nov. 30. (AP) Bob French, 30 years of age, commercial airplane pilot, his wife and 8-year-old son were killed here today when their plane sideslipped and crashed 400 feet to the earth.

FREIGHTER IN TOW WITH FIRE IN HOLD

Crew First Deserts Ship But Later Returns When Salvage Steamers Arrive

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30. (AP)—The Radio Corporation of America reported tonight the North German Lloyd steamer Ludwigshafen, which caught fire twenty-five miles south of Cape Mala, Panama, is in tow of two salvage steamers.

A fire in the steamer's hold early today drove all of her crew but the captain and wireless operator from the ship temporarily in small boats, messages said. They later returned, with the British steamer Benvorlich standing by, R.C.A. reported.

The salvage steamers Sciota and Manizales took the distressed craft in tow for Balboa, messages from Cape Mala said, but failed to indicate whether the fire in the hold has been extinguished.

The Ludwigshafen early today sent out distress signals reporting a fire in her hold. She gave her position as thirty-five miles south of Cape Mala, Panama. Two hours later she reported the crew of between thirty-five and forty, had taken to the lifeboats when they found the fire was gaining on them. The Ben Line Steamers, Ltd., vessel, the Benvorlich, turned from her course to go to the assistance of the stricken freighter.

The Ludwigshafen, the Cape Mala station said, was twenty-five miles south of there when the Benvorlich arrived, the R.C.A. reported, having moved ten miles during the hours that passed between the first SOS message and the rescue.

BONES FROM GIANT RACE UNEARTHED

Excavations in Mexico Tell Story of Eight-Foot People of Early Days

TUCSON (Ariz.) Nov. 30. (AP)—Discovery of remains of what is believed to be an hitherto unknown race of giants was disclosed today by J. E. Coker of Sayopa, Son., a mining town 300 miles south of the Mexican border.

Coker, a mining engineer, arrived here today for a visit. He said laborers clearing ranch land near the Yaqui River in the vicinity of Sayopa dug into an old cemetery where bodies of men averaging eight feet in height were found buried tier on tier.

The heads of the ancient skeletons, Coker said, were especially large. Carved native stone bracelets were found on the bones.

Beside the bodies, Coker said, the "crudest kind of stone weapons and implements" were buried.

After the first skeleton was unearthed owners of the ranch redoubled efforts to excavate the cemetery. Coker said when he left Sayopa the work still was in progress. The first tier of bones was found only a few feet from the surface of the ground.

TWO TEXANS KILLED IN AIRPLANE CRASH

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 30. (AP)—A. P. Taxman, 22 years of age, of Wichita Falls, Tex., and O. P. Waldrop, 31, of Sherman, were killed in an airplane crash forty miles north of this city today while flying from Tulsa, Okla., to San Antonio.

CRIME TIDE HEIGHTENS

Federal Survey Shows Gain

Burglaries, Robberies and Small Thefts Increase Rapidly

Detroit Leads Los Angeles; Chicago Only Partly Reported

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30. (AP) — A rising tide of robberies in the United States since last June was disclosed today in a bulletin issued by the Bureau of Investigation of the Justice Department, based upon statistics from approximately 700 cities.

A slight increase in the total of all crimes reported to police also was recorded by the October report, compiled by the bureau under leadership of J. Edgar Hoover as part of an effort to obtain a uniform system of crime statistics for the country. The situation during the past months was described tersely as follows:

OCTOBER REPORT

"The increase in robbery, apparent since June, but practically at a standstill at the time of the last monthly comparison, is resumed decidedly in October. Aggravated assaults showed a noticeable decrease, while offenses of larceny-theft under $50 increased in about the same ratio. Burglary declined somewhat, though not enough to warrant any special comment."

The bulletin reported that despite the decided increase in robberies there were three times as many burglaries reported for the nine months' period, beginning in January.

DETROIT LEADS

The report for October, based upon returns from 879 cities, located in every State in the Union as well as the District of Columbia, showed Detroit to have the largest number of crimes reported, with a total of 2677 for the month. These included four murders, eight manslaughters by negligence, 24 attack cases, 146 robberies, 64 aggravated assaults, 172 burglaries, 1333 cases of larceny under $50 and 810 automobile thefts.

The total of all crimes reported during October in other cities follows: Los Angeles, 2387; Cleveland, 1684; San Francisco, 1549; Philadelphia, 1430; St. Louis, 1363; Boston, 1301; Baltimore, 1001.

NEW YORK EXCLUDED

Statistics were not included for New York, while only partial returns were given for Chicago. The midwestern city on only partial returns, however, would rank third in the list with 1968 reported crimes, excluding all attack cases, aggravated assault, and larceny-theft.

Chicago stood at the top of the list of reporting cities in the number of homicides, having twenty murders and twenty cases of manslaughter by negligence during the month. Philadelphia was next, with thirteen murders and twenty-eight cases of manslaughter by negligence. There followed St. Louis with twelve murders, Houston with nine and San Antonio with eight.

Quick Take-off Death to Two

STOCKTON, Nov. 30. (AP)—An attempt to make a quick take-off in a rented airplane cost the lives of two men on the Orange Brothers' airport, near Stockton, late today.

The dead are Frank W. Reed, pilot, and Orlando Williams, passenger, both of Stockton.

Immediately after leaving the ground, observers said, Reed tried to climb too rapidly and his plane stalled when only 200 feet above the airport. It crashed, demolishing the ship. Both men were killed instantly.

POLICE SLAIN IN BATTLE

Two Officers and Thief Killed

Another Pair of Patrolmen Wounded in Gun Play at Door of Station

Desperado Shoots It Out at Macomb, Ill., With Pistol Hidden in Sleeve

MACOMB (Ill.) Nov. 30. (Exclusive) A small-town thief, arrested for loitering here early this morning, suddenly turned desperado, slipped a hidden automatic from his coat sleeve and in three minutes of swift gun play at the door of the police station killed one patrolman, fatally wounded a second and shot two others.

Untouched by the return fire, he was escaping in a police car with the mortally wounded patrolman slumped in the rear seat when the officer regained momentary strength, rose and shot him to death. Late tonight his body was identified as that of Edwin Zerell, 28 years of age, "bad boy" of Canton, Ill., with a record there as an auto thief, petty burglar and highway prowler.

The dead policemen were Officer Edward Hittlesey, 60, and Officer Ernest Bowman, 36.

ANOTHER DYING

Officer Al Links, shot through the abdomen, is dying in a Macomb hospital. Officer Luther Jackson, who rushed from the station to join the battle, is wounded through the right hand.

The action began in a garage here, a town of some 10,000 inhabitants 130 miles southwest of Chicago. Zerell was loitering about the place and explained he was "waiting for a guy."

Suspicion of the garage attendants was aroused and they phoned the police station. Whittlesey, Bowman and Links responded, arriving in a police car.

Zerell willingly raised his hands to be searched when the officers accosted him. All that was found in his pockets was a short piece of steel, a sort of pocket "pinch-bar."

PISTOL IN SLEEVE

But unknown to the police, a Spanish automatic pistol was concealed in his right sleeve. Finally, the officers ordered Zerell into the car and started toward the station. As they halted in front of the building, Zerell who had gradually been slipping the gun down his sleeve into his hand went into action, his gun blazing.

Whittlesey, who was just stepping out of the machine tumbled to the roadway, shot through the back of the head.

Whirling savagely the gunman sent a slug through Bowman's abdomen and the officer toppled over mortally wounded.

Links in the front seat, had drawn his own gun and turned toward the back seat, but before he could fire Zerell shot him.

GUNMAN SEIZES WHEEL

With the agility of a cat the gunman leaped into his front seat, hurled Links's unconscious form to the street and started to drive the police car away.

At that moment Jackson ran from the station and emptied his gun toward the speeding car, hitting Zerell once but failing to halt his flight. Zerell shot Jackson through the hand.

Two blocks away Bowman, dying in the back seat, roused himself for a moment—long enough to draw his gun and empty it into the bandit's back. Zerell fell to the floor of the car dead.

Bowman died within an hour. Links is believed to be mortally wounded.

The meeting was held at the Biltmore.

WEDDING CHIMES IN RHYMES

Illinois Justice Turns to Verse to Tie Up Couple for Better or for Worse

AURORA (Ill.) Nov. 30. (AP)—Justice Galvin turned to verse to bind a couple for better or worse.

Spurning the prosy legal forms today, a couple heard the justice say: "Do you this lady for your wife take, to pay her bills and praise her steak? To honor and love and keep her well from the marriage hour to the funeral bell? Cherish her well in sickness or health, to share in poverty or in wealth? Walk the floor when the baby comes? Buy it rattles, bottles, drums? Love her well enough for this?—Take the lady with a kiss."

The groom: "I do."

The justice: "Now sweet lady, do you say, you will promise to obey? Love your husband, honor him, for his sake risk life and limb? Never look at other men, pledged yourself to him; and then, faithful for the rest of life, be his gentle, loving wife?"

The bride: "I do."

The justice: "Then, by the law of Illinois, you two are wed; may all be joy; the justice you I give, you're wed, the while you both shall live."

In this manner, the justice said, David Livsey and Faye Sutcliffe wed.

Davis Proposes Quota Law Change to Admit Only Those for Whom There is Economic Need

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30. (Exclusive)—Rigid restrictions on immigration into the United States are advocated by Secretary of Labor Davis in his annual report made public today.

He states that he formerly advocated nothing further than the expedition of the entry of those immigrants for whom there was an economic need in this country.

"In the light of experience during the past year, however," he declares, "I am now convinced that no new and unattached immigrants coming for the purpose of seeking employment should be admitted to the country unless it has been previously determined by the Department of Labor that there is an actual need for the kind of service they are qualified to render in this country.

"I would apply this rule to all immigration, whether it is subject to quota limit control, as in the case of natives of European countries, or outside such control as is the case with natives of New World countries. I would exempt from this plan of control immigrants coming to join near relatives already in the United States."

This pronouncement of Secretary Davis, coming so shortly after the proposal of Senator David A. Reed, Republican of Pennsylvania, who advocated a shut-down of immigration for two years and in view of the administration's policy of restricting consular visas during the past several months, makes it probable, it is believed, that further immigration control—perhaps patterned after Secretary Davis's proposal—will come up for consideration and possible enactment at the coming session of Congress.

In previous reports and in various ways he says in his report, "I have

HOPE GIVEN UP IN FLYER HUNT

One Friend Alone Seeks Mrs. Keith-Miller

Others Regard Death in Gulf Certain

Last Seen Friday When She Hopped From Cuba

MIAMI (Fla.) Nov. 30. (AP)—Aviation officials today agreed in expressing belief Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, Australian aviatrix, perished on an attempted flight in adverse weather conditions from Havana to Miami.

No word has been received of the Australian flyer since she left Havana in her reconditioned plane, the Bullet, at 9:11 a.m. Friday.

Capt. W. M. Lancaster of the British Royal Flying Corps and a former flying partner of Mrs. Keith-Miller, is en route here by plane to assist in the search for her. With him is John Liggett, III of Pittsburgh, one of the backers of Mrs. Keith-Miller's recent Pittsburgh-Havana flight.

The naval station at Key West said no ships in Gulf or Atlantic waters have reported information on the missing aviatrix, and orders for a search by Navy boats will have to come from the Navy Department at Washington.

Local flying companies said no word of Mrs. Keith-Miller has been received and no plans for a continued search are under consideration.

Mrs. Keith-Miller is believed by local flyers to have been blown over the Gulf of Mexico by a high wind that swept in from the east.

LANCASTER FORCED DOWN IN SOUTH CAROLINA

GEORGETOWN (S. C.) Nov. 30. (AP)—Capt. W. N. Lancaster, associate of Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, Australian aviatrix, missing since Friday on a Havana-Miami flight, was forced down here late today because of darkness. He was on his way from Pittsburgh to join the search for Mrs. Keith-Miller, and plans to leave for Miami at daybreak tomorrow.

BORROWED PLANE BEING USED BY CAPTAIN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30. (AP)—Capt. William N. Lancaster, former flying companion of Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, took off for Miami, Fla., at 11:45 a.m. today to join in the search for the missing Australian woman flyer whom he believes still may be alive on some remote key.

The former British Royal Air Force officer arrived here yesterday from Pittsburgh in company with John Liggett, member of the aerial enterprise organization which sponsored Mrs. Keith-Miller's recent flight to Havana.

Together they made arrangements with Navy officers for the flight from Anacostia Station.

Lancaster's borrowed plane was piloted by Chief Aviation Pilot Gunn. The pair took off in the face of adverse weather conditions.

Once in Miami Capt. Lancaster will attempt, through the Pan-American Airways, Inc., or any other available means, to continue the search for Mrs. Keith-Miller.

"We haven't given up hope yet," Liggett said. "Capt. Lancaster has implicit faith in Mrs. Keith-Miller's flying ability and believes it quite possible she may have landed without serious damage in some remote place after finding herself off her course and out of gasoline."

Capt. Lancaster shared adventure with Mrs. Keith-Miller in a 13,000-mile flight from Croydon Field, London, to Australia in October, 1927. This flight first brought her into prominence as an aviatrix.

With her the Royal Force officer faced sandstorms between Bagdad and Palestine, forced landings in India and Batavia and an exciting air battle with a snake which crawled into the cockpit of their light two-seater plane in Burma.

Canine Saves Master's Life When Enraged Boar Attacks

LEADSTONE (Idaho) Nov. 30. (AP)—"Spike," a German shepherd dog, attacked an enraged boar today and probably saved his master's life.

Orrie Hamilton, a farmer, said he was goading the boar through a pasture gate when the animal turned on him.

Hamilton leaped back but not before a tusk had sunk into his leg and ripped it open. Hamilton went down and the boar charged him.

Spike, on the other side of the fence, leaped to Hamilton's assistance. He barked and bit the hog until the animal retreated. Meanwhile Hamilton crawled to safety.

FRIEND OF UNIONISTS SUCCUMBS

Mother Jones, 100-Year-Old Militant Crusader, Dies at Maryland Home

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1. (AP)—Mary (Mother) Jones, militant crusader, died last night at her home in near-by Maryland. She was 100 years of age.

Mother Jones succumbed to the ravages of old age only after her death had been expected a number of times during the past year.

In her battle against death she had displayed the same indomitable spirit she showed in her labor activities when she refused to be stopped even by militia or governors.

"Mother Jones," as she was known to union labor men and women all over the country, had been confined to her bed for more than a year and during the past few months had been unable to take solid food. She lived at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Burgess, near Silver Springs, Md.

Mrs. Burgess was alone with Mother Jones when the end came. Dr. Howlett had been at the bedside earlier in the evening but had gone home for a short rest.

Pair Trapped in Blackmail

NEW YORK, Nov. 30. (AP)—Four attempts within the past two weeks to extort $10,000 by blackmail from Richard Clemson, wealthy tool manufacturer of Middletown, N. Y., had resulted today in arrest of two men. They said they are John Rhodes, 36 years of age, of Irvington, N. Y., and John Brady, 36, of Harrison, N. J.

Detectives trapped them by means of a decoy package supposed to contain the money.

HOOVER CALLED DRYS' BULWARK

"Christian Herald's" Editor States Situation

Wet Republican Journalist Confirms Opinion

New York Party to Prevent Renomination, He Says

NEW YORK, Nov. 30. (Exclusive) Notwithstanding the announced dissatisfaction of some drys with Mr. Hoover's handling of prohibition, the President remains the chief obstacle to repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and the drys' chief political asset, according to Stanley High, editor of the Christian Herald, in a signed statement in the current issue of that paper. "To defeat Herbert Hoover for the Republican renomination is the first and major point in the present strategy of the wets," asserts Mr. High.

"The drive against him is already well under way, its leadership provided by the liquor politicians and the liquor press of the nation's larger cities. Encouraged by Republican reverses in the recent election, the undercover campaign against him is being abandoned for open opposition. Last week the New York Evening Post-Republican, wet Republican, but more wet than Republican, declared editorially that Mr. Hoover is certainly opposed today by an overwhelming majority of city Republicans.

NEW YORK'S VIEW

"We do not believe that the Republicans of the State would at all approve of putting into party control a chairman or a faction that would commit them today to Mr. Hoover's candidacy for a second term," says the writer.

"We are quite aware of the fact that prohibition is not solely responsible for this opposition of city politicians to Mr. Hoover. They oppose him on other scores. They are acutely conscious of the fact that as long as he dominates the party their political position is insecure. Mr. Hoover is decidedly not of their political breed and they have an ill-suppressed belief that he cherishes the conviction that the party would be better off if it were rid of them. Two years of the Hoover administration, to be sure, have not brought this clean-out. None the less, and, we believe, with good reason, the city politicians view with dread the possibility of six years more of the Hoover ascendency.

HOOVER WET'S TARGET

"But as far as prohibition is concerned it is obviously wise strategy to oppose Mr. Hoover. The Democratic party in the prevalent wet opinion is certain in 1932 to declare for repeal and for a repeal candidate. This, of course, can only be accomplished over the opposition of the dry Democracy of the South. But once it is accomplished it can be confidently predicted that with a greatly improved chance to carry the nation, the South will temporarily suppress its dry convictions and line up with the party. This may or may not happen, but wet strategy is based on the assumption that it will happen. The chastening of party bolters in the last election seems to give good grounds for that belief.

LOOKING AHEAD

"With the Democratic party safely repealist, the antiprohibitionists are prepared to turn their attention and their money toward the Republicans. And the major obstacle in the path of the repealist Republicans is Herbert Hoover. The success of their program requires that he be gotten rid of. This, we believe, is an entirely accurate appraisal of the situation.

"In our opinion the success of the dry cause in the next Republican convention and likewise, in the next Presidential election is very definitely involved with the success of President Hoover. If the wets can prevent his renomination they believe—and rightly, in our opinion—that any other candidate who might be chosen will be either an out-and-out wet or if dry, a much easier victim for a wet Democrat.

PROHIBITION HOPES

"Here, of course, this analysis runs into conflict with the recently declared convictions of certain dry leaders. There are drys who believe that if the two major political parties go wet prohibitionists could carry the Presidency with a third-party ticket. We do not share that conviction. Historical precedent is against it.

"Granted that the drys could secure a third-party candidate of unquestioned national strength—and that would be an exceedingly difficult achievement—it would still remain unlikely that even so vital an issue as prohibition could destroy the nation's political line-ups."

British Launch World's Largest Armed Air Boat

LONDON, Nov. 30.—What is said to be the world's largest all-metal armed military flying boat was launched today by the British Air Ministry at Brough, near Hull.

The boat, which is the first of the "Sydney" class adopted by the Air Ministry, was built in the Blackburn works under the greatest secrecy. All tests were carried out secretly on the Humber. The flying boat weighs nearly ten tons unloaded, and is built of duralumin. It carries a crew of five and sixteen passengers.

The new air boat is specially designed for reconnaissance and coastal patrol. It is driven by three engines.

DAVIS INQUIRY WILL BE ASKED

Brown-Davis campaign committee showed expenditure of almost $150,000 more than originally was reported. When he appeared before the Senate committee, Vauclain listed expenditures by his committee of $129,693, but said then he would have to supplement this with a final report.

NO OTHER PROTESTS

Senator Nye expressed apprehension if Vauclain's final report shows a considerable increase over first expenditures, the final reports of the other Pennsylvania committees may do likewise.

The expenditures reported to the Senate committee in its inquiry of the Davis primary, follow:

Brown-Davis campaign committee, $129,693; Brown-Davis Citizens' Republican Committee of Philadelphia, $62,575; Brown-Davis Western Pennsylvania committee, $77,425; Allegheny county committee, $38,460; Davis personal expenditures, $10,747.

No other protests against new members eligible to be sworn in tomorrow are contemplated by the Nye committee. The new members include: Morrow of New Jersey, and Carey of Wyoming, Republicans; Bulkley of Ohio, McGill of Kansas, and Williamson of Kentucky, Democrats.

TIGHTER ALIEN BAN PROPOSED

repeatedly advocated the adoption of a scientific system of selecting our immigrants within the established quotas, with a view of meeting demonstrated needs for the service of such immigrants in the United States. The industrial depression during the past year has more clearly than ever shown the need for this departure from our present haphazard method of immigration control."

Under his plan immigration visas would be issued only when specifically authorized by the Department of Labor.

Such a plan might officially settle, as the administration policy of withholding visas has practically settled, the sentiment aroused over immigration from Canada and Mexico, which are nonquota countries. It would give statutory backing to the method now in operation of withholding visas except in the case of privileged classes or where the applicant would prove a job was waiting for him.

It would, Secretary Davis points out, obviate such a situation as existed during the depression of 1921 when despite the fact that 5,000,000 American workers were jobless, 805,000 immigrants were permitted to enter the country under the existing laws.

Secretary Davis would have the quota system so amended as to supply "an acceptable substitute for the laws and parts of laws that relate only to Chinese and other oriental immigration."

And he urges amendments to make possible the deportation of alien habitual lawbreakers now immune from deportation.

Barth, with his son Robert, 13, and daughter Shirley, 10, the other members of the party, removed it and the girl was freed in a few minutes, the quick action probably saving her life.

She was rushed in an ambulance to a hospital at San Mateo, where physicians said she had suffered internal injuries. It is doubted whether she will recover.

President and Democratic Leader in Conference

Party Differences Sunk for Economic Crisis

Hoover to Send Message to Congress Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30. (AP)—On the eve of the opening of Congress President Hoover and Senator Robinson, Arkansas, the Democratic leader, today discussed and agreed in part upon a nonpartisan program seeking to lift the nation from economic depression.

The White House conference was in line with the pledge of the Republican and Democratic parties after the recent election to co-operate at this session on legislation of public welfare in the present economic crisis.

Senator Robinson as the Democratic leader will sponsor legislation to provide relief for drought-stricken farmers. A measure drafted by him is understood to have administration approval and will be introduced immediately. Its terms were withheld pending introduction.

Bills to expand public buildings construction, Federal road aid and improvement of inland waterways also are included in this nonpartisan program and will be submitted as soon as President Hoover's recommendations to Congress are received in his annual message Tuesday.

There appears to be every assurance of a political truce in Congressional ranks on unemployment and drought relief legislation and to the immediate accomplishment of this Congress will direct its efforts after the opening ceremonies tomorrow.

But beyond this the course for the limited sessions ending next March 4 seemed clouded. President Hoover today again emphasized his desire to avoid an extra session in the spring. Senator Robinson along with other Democratic and Republican Congressional leaders, reiterated a desire to avoid such a meeting. But there is no assurance the dreaded extra session can be escaped.

CHIEF ANSWERS LAST CALL

Kahquados, Titular Head of Pottawatomies, Dies Thanksgiving Day in Squalid Hut

WABENO (Wis.) Nov. 30. (AP)—Chief Simon Kahquados, 79 years of age, said to be the last of the Pottawatomie Indian chiefs, died Thanksgiving Day on a bed of rags in a hut, fifteen miles east of here, it became known today.

Through the intervention of the State Historical Society his body will be sent to Green Bay, where it will be held until spring and buried in the "happy hunting ground" he chose—Peninsula State Park in Door county.

The title of "Chief" came to Kahquados down through 600 years of Indian legend. He was the son of Chief Gauson Queetoos, long ruler of the tribe in Door, Kewaunee and Manitowoc counties.

He was the grandson of Chief Keedos, who was buried beside East River, nine miles south of Green Bay, and the great-grandson of the great Chief Onaningason, who is buried near Ephriam in what is now the State Park.

Old Chief Kahquados was well known among the Indians nationally. He often made journeys to Washington to defend their rights. He was often seen in near-by cities at Fourth of July and fall harvest celebrations, dressed in full regalia and notable for his solemn and regal appearance. He spoke English fluently.

Chief Kahquados had often asked that he be buried near the great Onaningason, who was credited with saving Robert Lasalle, French explorer, from starving to death in the North Woods.

LUXURY GROWS IN AUTO DESIGNS

Gold Inlays Take Prominent Part in Latest Cars

New York's Annual Salon Shows Costly Models

Sloping Fronts and Sweeping Tails Newest Vogue

NEW YORK, Nov. 30. (AP)—The twenty-sixth annual Automobile Salon, at which the luxurious handicraft of master motor-car coach makers is exhibited, opened tonight at Hotel Commodore. The prices of models displayed ranged from $5000 to $25,000, with the top moving as high as $50,000 for those who might care for inlaid gold designs.

The effort of the carrossiers this year seems to have been to appeal to the eye and taste for luxury of those able to afford these specially designed coaches.

Narrow front-corner pillars, which eliminate the "blind spot," in driving, are found on most of the "jobs," exhibited. Visorless sloping fronts are numerous. Stationary setting of the windshield glass, though still rare, is increasing.

Large trunks appear definitely to have arrived. More sweeping tails and "designed rears," also are in evidence. Many convertible bodies are being exhibited this year, convertible coupes predominating.

Modern art motifs, used in the interior for several years, are beginning to find application to exterior treatments. This is observable in the numerous bright metal effects and in the use of simple contours depending on light and shade for decoration and omitting stereotyped mouldings.

Interiors of the town cars remain conservative for the most part, but numerous novelties are embodied in owner-driven and sport models.

DO-X CREW DEPARTING TO HOMES

Captain and Few Aides Remain at Lisbon to Supervise Repairs

LISBON, Nov. 30. (AP)—Their dream of a flight across the Atlantic gone up in smoke, the crew of the German flying boat DO-X today started scattering in various directions while their ship lay crippled, one wing destroyed by fire.

Capt. Frederich Christiansen, commander, said he will remain in Lisbon with a reduced crew to supervise repairs to the plane. The DO-X was towed by submarine this morning to the docks at Beluem. It is expected repairs will take a month.

Maurice Dornier, designer of the plane, plans to leave tomorrow for Friedrichshafen. Lieut. Clarence A. Schildhauer, American copilot, will leave within the next few days for the United States. The German members of the crew, except for the skeleton crew kept with the ship, have started back to Germany.

The American engineers, Harvey Brewton and H. Gody, in charge of the Curtiss motors with which the plane is equipped, will leave in a few days after they have completed an inspection of the motors. Brewton plans a vacation trip in Northern Africa, while Gody will join the Dornier Works in Holland.

Sinn Fein Hits Government of Irish Republic

DUBLIN (Irish Free State) Nov. 30. (AP)—The Sinn Fein organization opened its annual conference today by adopting a resolution which declares allegiance to "the government of the Irish republic," an imaginary ideal.

This action followed a raid yesterday on the head offices of the group in Dawson street, where documents were removed but no arrests were made.

M. J. O'Kelly was elected president of the organization today. Miss Mary MacSwiney, Rev. M. Flannigan and Brian O'Higgins were chosen vice-presidents. A decrease in the number of branches in Ireland was reported.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30. TARDIEU'S TALK STIRS INTEREST

Economic Partnership With United States Seen

Nations Controlling World's Gold Supply Supreme

American Entente Trump to Play With Italy

PARIS, Nov. 30. (AP)—Premier Tardieu's call for a real working financial and economic agreement between France and the United States, made in a Thanksgiving Day address before the American Club, has aroused nation-wide interest.

It was observed tonight that while French statesmen of other days have sought ententes with Great Britain or Russia, as circumstances suggested, Premier Tardieu appears to have thrown his force, particularly in working out what might be called a nonpolitical agreement, with the American republic.

PARTNERS IN JOB

Friends of Tardieu pictured him as not having any great interest at present in disarmament agreements because he deems that France and the United States have before them the more pressing problem of international economic ills and the necessity of putting on their feet nations which are being crushed by disturbances, economic laws and by overproduction of raw materials.

Tardieu welcomes the exercise of American political influence in Europe because he is convinced it is disinterestedly beneficial.

A correspondent of the Associated Press was informed today that Hugh S. Gibson, United States Ambassador to Belgium, already has achieved considerable success in paving the way for eventual settlement of outstanding questions, including the naval problem, between France and Italy.

This, however, does not mean an agreement is in sight and there is no confirmation of a report spread in international circles that Tardieu and Premier Mussolini of Italy will meet on a warship in the Mediterranean Christmas and get down to brass tacks on Franco-Italian difficulties.

SINEWS OF WAR

An economist remarked tonight since France and the United States have the largest gold hoardings in the world they possess between them a card against war.

It is insisted this card can be held in hand by refusing credits to nations which indulge in war talk. It is argued that without joining the League of Nations and entering an official league for economic and financial blockades against nations menacing the world with war, the United States potently can reinforce the Kellogg peace pact by refusing financial aid to countries which talk belligerently.

TWO MORE VICTIMS OF BLAST DIE

Explosion in Oklahoma Coal Mine Kills Fifteen; Red Cross Aid Sought

LUTIE (Okla.) Nov. 30. (AP)—Fatalities from yesterday's explosion at the No. 5 mine of the Hailey-Ola Coal Company here had increased to fifteen tonight with deaths of two injured men in a hospital at Harthorne.

Thirteen were killed outright by the blast. Lon Swindley died late last night and Burl Boyd died this morning.

Louis Pate and Louis McMahan, the only others injured, are reported to be recovering in Harthorne Hospital. Thirty-eight men working in parts of the mine other than the ten-and-a-half entry, where the explosion occurred, escaped unharmed.

Relief plans await arrival in Wilburton, the Latimer county seat, two miles west of here, of Mrs. C. V. Shuman of St. Louis, representing the western division of the American Red Cross.

Dr. J. M. Harris, physician for the Hailey-Ola Company, said some of the families of the victims are in destitute circumstances, while others are comfortably provided for.

It is expected a Red Cross appeal for aid will be made soon after the arrival of Mrs. Shuman.

Many Students Suspended for Injuring Youth

LYNCHBURG (Va.) Nov. 30. (AP)—Twenty-six students of Lynchburg College were suspended today by a faculty committee investigating an episode Monday night which resulted in a freshman losing the sight of one eye.

Five students were suspended for three weeks and twenty-one for one week.

The injured student, Harrison Whitaker of Capon Bridge, W. Va., had submitted to having his hair cut by upper classmen and was assisting the older men in an attempt on three more freshmen's heads. As the other first-year men were resisting, a window pane was broken and glass splinters struck Whitaker in the eye.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30. (Exclusive)—What is believed to be the latest in a long series of "hoax" messages picked up from persons lost in the Dole flight was found today at the beach here by P. M. Couch.

Couch, a butcher, found a bottle floating nearly opposite Fleishacker pool containing a card on which was written:

"In the name of God, I am on the island." It was signed "Miss Doran." On the other side was the business card of a local lunch counter, no longer conducted under the name the card bears.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30. (AP) The lowly potato has thrust out its chest in the Far West and started a friendly argument between Elwood Mead, commissioner of reclamation, and W. W. Robertson, Yakima (Wash.) publisher.

The dispute centers on whether bigger and better ones grow around Yakima or in the recently developed Kittitas (Wash.) reclamation project.

The first crops were harvested from the Kittitas area last summer and a farmer sent Mead some potatoes "so big that people couldn't recognize them." They averaged eleven inches long and one was fourteen inches, with the average diameter better than three inches.

The commissioner notified Robertson, an old friend, that anything around Yakima must be small potatoes to fellows in the Kittitas.

Robertson's comeback arrived today, and the tales he told opened the eyes of the Kittitas potatoes!

So certain is he that Yakima's spuds are larger that he said dealers in his home town won't even grade them.

"Why, I've seen potatoes grown around here that were eight feet long and two feet thick," he contended, adding he once "entertained nine people with one potato."

FIVE-YEAR PLAN SUCCESS HAILED

First Two Years' Operation Exhaustively Analyzed

Man Responsible for Soviet Task Dispels Doubts

Goal May be Attained in Four Years, He Says

(Copyright, 1930, and all rights reserved by the Associated Press.)

MOSCOW, Nov. 30. (AP)—Claims of full success for soviet Russia's momentous five-year plan and the confident prediction it will be fulfilled not in five years, but in four, are contained in an exhaustive analysis of the plan's first two years of operation by Valerian V. Kuibyshev, president of the State Planning Commission.

In a study of comparative figures giving estimates for the first two years and what he described as the actual results, the man responsible for the operation of the plan told the Associated Press the question of fulfillment in scheduled time is no longer a problem, as this task already has been exceeded.

"The present task," he said, "consists of fulfillment of the plan before schedule, that is in four years."

SOVIET REBELS DEFEND POLICE

Deny Confessions Were Forced From Them

Self-Abasement Continues as Trial Proceeds

French Attitude Toward Intervention Told

MOSCOW, Nov. 30. (AP)—The self-abasement of eight prominent engineers, on trial under charges of conspiring to overthrow the soviet government, continued today as the prisoners gave a spirited defense of the Ogpu (secret police.)

All last week the eight appeared on the stand and told their stories into a microphone, admitting all charges of plotting with foreign countries and declaring they deserved punishment.

Today—since Sunday means nothing in the new Russia and the trial went on as usual—the proceedings were enlivened considerably when N. B. Krilenko, prosecutor, stopped cross-examination long enough to read an article from a recent Warsaw emigre newspaper charging the confessions were obtained by an Ogpu third degree and the whole case was a frame-up.

Krilenko, with fiery tongue, indignantly demanded it that were the truth.

STORY REPUDIATED

One by one the eight prisoners took the stand, each declaring the story was "all lies" and the confessions had been made of their own free will, without inducements, promises or threats. They said they had been well-treated in jail.

The prosecutor questioned Prof. Leonid Ramsin, leader of the conspirators, extensively on his visits to Paris and as to the conversations there with exiled Russian capitalists and members of the French general staff. As in recent sessions, however, he took care not to involve the French government directly, Ramsin's testimony referring to "agents of a certain French institution in Moscow" simply by the initials "K.A.R."

Ramsin said he met V. Ryabushinsky, former Czarist industrialist, in Paris in 1927 and discussed with him the question of foreign interventions and aid in deposing the soviets.

FRENCH POSITION

"What was the position of the French ruling circles at that time?" cut in the prosecutor.

"I had an idea French circles then were more active about intervention than members of the Industrial party in Paris," Ramsin replied.

Questioned further, the former president of the All-Union Heating Institute, testified:

"I established my first direct contact with the Torgprom (Industrial party) in Paris in 1927. It was then I met Cols. Janville and Richard of the general staff and was instructed to communicate with them in the future through 'K' in Moscow."

He added he did communicate with French circles and the Torgprom thereafter through the mysterious initialed French agents in the Red capital.

TRIAL LIKE SHOW

Here the prosecutor, in order to show allegations of intervention plotting in Paris were not a dream of the defendants, read an article by the previously mentioned Ryabushinsky in Vzroudenie, a White Russian newspaper published in Paris. In this the author declared intervention was necessary, adding "while every year makes the destruction of the soviets easier and less costly, still, from an economic standpoint, it would be much more profitable to destroy them now."

The veteran Alexander Fedotov, 67 years of age, and oldest of the prisoners, spoke briefly, criticising the article and calling the Torgprom and French circles foolish.

The trial still resembles a big show, with large numbers of motion-picture and still-camera men crawling about the stage of the old ballroom, arranging their sputtering lights and shooting pictures almost in the faces of the defendants and lawyers, who apparently take it all as a matter of course.

Wales Exhibits Film He Made on Africa Trip

LONDON, Nov. 30. (AP) — The Prince of Wales today assumed the role of film impresario.

In Lambeth Road in South London he exhibited his own film of African adventures before 700 former service men.

"It's entirely an amateur effort," the Prince told them. "Some of the captions are rather short, but that's not my fault."

The Prince expressed hope the spectators would "get some of the enjoyment at seeing the pictures which I got by taking them." At his special request no details of the film itself will be published.

Capital Liquor Supply Bases Target of Dry Chief

Plants Declared Located in Southern Maryland

Section Described as One of Nation's "Sore Spots"

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30. (AP)—The prohibition bureau is moving to cut off at least one source of the capital's illicit liquor supply through a systematic drive against the stills of Southern Maryland.

Prohibition Director Woodcock described this section today as "one of the sore spots of the United States," and asserted the drive will be conducted with a thoroughness that is expected not only to furnish valuable data for use in other sections, but possibly a precedent also.

So complete are the laws, he said, that one of the things to be established will be "just how many dry agents it will take to ferret out the number of still sites in a square mile."

Southern Maryland is sparsely inhabited, criss-crossed by streams, heavily wooded and possessed of numerous paved roads and even more unpaved and uncharted byways. One of the dry agents' tasks will be to map these roads. A large squad of Federal agents has been dispatched from Washington and augmented by twenty agents from Baltimore and thirty capital policemen.

Woodwock said he does not wish this to be regarded as a spectacular drive, adding:

"The policy I always have held is for a steady, unrelenting, unspectacular pressure against commercial violators. I am not in favor of spectacular drives and have issued no orders for any during the coming holiday season. But they are making liquor in Southern Maryland and shipping it into Washington—a commercial violation—and we intend to keep men there as long as they are needed."

SON BEATS PAPA'S TIME AND WEDS STEPMOTHER

NEW HAVEN (Ct.) Nov. 30. (Exclusive)—Young Earl Bailey, who was so outraged when his rich widower-father married again that he wouldn't go to the wedding, became so reconciled to his stepmother that he took her as a wife himself.

The extraordinary tale of how the 26-year-old stepson beat his own father's time with Mrs. Sadie Orr Bailey, who looks young for her forty-three years, was revealed here today when the erstwhile stepson and his erstwhile stepmama were discovered living happily in the home that once was Jacob M. Bailey's.

And Jacob M., the father who lost his bride to his son, apparently is reconciled to his second wife's preference for her stepson.

The somewhat scrambled relations of the Baileys were simplified on the 13th inst., when Rev. Theodore Fischer married young Earl and the woman his father had divorced on a desertion charge six months before.

A curious feature of the unscrambling is that young Bailey now is the stepfather of his middle-aged bride's son by her first marriage, Clyde Overton Orr. Clyde is almost as old as his steppapa and a sophomore at Yale University.

Let The Thomas' examine your scalp today, without charge or obligation, and start your scalp on the road to health by their own original fifteen-year proven treatment.

You, Too, Can Have a Good Head of Hair

Gentlemen:

When I started the Thomas' treatment my hair was falling excessively and becoming very thin. I was also troubled with itchy scalp and dandruff. Now my hair has stopped falling, the dandruff disappeared entirely and I am pleased to say a new growth of hair covers my entire scalp.

MEXICO WILL SHIP ORANGES BY WATER

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 30. (Exclusive)—The Ward Steamship line announces that it has completed arrangements to ship Mexican oranges from Vera Cruz to Canadian ports. Shipping by steamship was made necessary because of the restrictions of the United States government which prohibit railroads to carry Mexican oranges across that country. The steamship company has established a rate of 65,69 pesos for carrying the fruit. Mexican orange shippers have been assured a good market in Canada and expect to make heavy exportations during coming months.

Eighteenth Amendment Test Put Up to Congress

Drys May Stand With Wets to Settle Question

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30. (AP)—A national referendum on repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment will be proposed in the House tomorrow by Representative Andrew, Republican, Massachusetts.

The antiprohibitionist announced today he had prepared a resolution which he said was along lines suggested by Dr. Clarence True Wilson of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals. He added it will provide seven years for ratification of repeal by the States through conventions.

Dr. Wilson was represented at a recent secret meeting of dry leaders in Washington at which a proposal along the same lines was discussed.

DRYS TO AID

The plan advanced at that time, to which many of the dry leaders present voiced vigorous dissent, was if the wets could agree upon a proposal for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment or a substitute for it the drys would attempt to obtain sufficient votes to get the measure through Congress and before constitutional conventions to be elected by each of the forty-eight States.

Andrew, explaining his action said, "opinion in the United States is deplorably divided as to the advantages and shortcomings of national prohibition and doubt exists as to whether the majority of the people in the several States favor or oppose a continuance of the Eighteenth Amednment."

VOICE OF PEOPLE

The resolution asserts "this doubt can only be resolved by submission of the question to the people themselves."

"I have long had the idea that sooner or later we should have to resort to such a referendum," Andrew said, "but my proposal of it at this time is due to the advocacy of it by Dr. Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the Methodist Board of Temperance and Morals.

"When I read in last Wednesday's papers Dr. Wilson's statement that there was nothing he would so like to see as a national referendum on the Eighteenth Amendment," I felt the moment was opportune for, with the backing of so influential a supporter of the amendment, there ought to be little difficulty in getting the necessary resolution through Congress.

TO GET INFORMATION

"Irrespective of what our own individual opinions about the amendment may be, we all agree the will of the people is the only reasonable basis for legislation and this resolution, framed along the lines of Dr. Wilson's interview, offers a means of determining what is the people's will in regard to this tormenting problem."

Andrew said State conventions would reflect the attitude of the people and since the Eighteenth Amendment had seven years in which to be ratified, its proposed repeal should be given equal time.

EINSTEINS START TRIP TO AMERICA

Great Scientist and Party Leave for Antwerp Where They Plan to Set Sail

BERLIN, Nov. 30. (AP)—Albert Einstein, accompanied by Frau Einstein, his secretary and a scientific assistant, left tonight for Antwerp, where the party will embark on the steamer Belgenland for a visit to the United States.

One of the last problems to be settled was the acquisition of a new raincoat for the father of the theory of relativity.

Finding her husband more than busy, Frau Einstein entered a men's clothing shop and attempted to give a description of her husband's measurements.

"Would it not be more practical," said the salesman, "to have the herr professor come here so we can give him an exact fit?"

The reply left him flabbergasted.

"If you knew how hard it was even to persuade my husband he needed a new coat," the wife answered, "you wouldn't expect me to fetch him here. I wish you had my worries."

Chemist Makes Fine Champagne of Sugar Cane

HAVANA, Nov. 30. (AP)—Champagne soon may be as common as table wine in Cuba as a result of three years of scientific research here by a Spanish chemist, who announces a new concoction made almost entirely of sugar cane.

Officials of the Department of Agriculture see in the discovery not only an important new industry for Cuba, but an important outlet for the present sugar surplus.

The discoverer of the new beverage is Leon Elso Blasco, a Basque. The new champagne, made without grapes, is amber in color.

Road and Trail Work Features Park Service

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30. (Exclusive)—One of the biggest achievements of the past year in national park work has been the putting into use of spectacular new roads and trails, Director Horace M. Albright of the National Park Service, stated in his annual report to the Secretary of the Interior.

Last season, for the first time the excellent results of careful landscape planning of highways was apparent to park visitors generally. The elimination of dust from the park roads through oiling added greatly to the comfort of the visiting public.

In his report Mr. Albright recommended strongly the speeding up of construction of approach roads whose primary value is to carry national park travel. It is essential, from a strictly business standpoint and to obtain a well-balanced national road program, that provision be made for financing the necessary approach roads in order to permit maximum use of the national parks.

NEWTON (Mass.) Nov. 30. (AP)—John J. Barry, 17 years of age, Newton High School athlete, was drowned tonight after going through thin ice on a pond near here, despite the efforts of Mary Lee, novelist, and others to save him.

Miss Lee and a companion pushed a ladder out to the hole through which the youth disappeared but they could not locate him.

Murdered Man at Auto Wheel

CHICAGO, Nov. 30. (Exclusive)—Early churchgoers and motorists were terrified this morning by the wild girations of an automobile, veering crazily across the street and finally crashing into a tannery building. Crumpled over the wheel was John Roman, dead, shot twice through the heart.

OCCUPANTS OF FRENCH SEAPLANE RESCUED

ROME, Nov. 30. (AP)—Passengers and crew of the French seaplane Faiyz, which landed on the ocean near the Island of Monte Cristo yesterday afternoon, were rescued today and taken to the island. The plane was forced down by motor trouble and ships from Leghorn went to her assistance. Monte Cristo is Italian territory in the Mediterranean lying twenty-six miles south of Elba.

Poison Liquor Fatal to Two

RICHFIELD (Idaho) Nov. 30. (AP)—Poison liquor at a Thanksgiving Day party here is blamed by officers for the death of John Miner, 22 years of age, and Loren Newby, 25.

SHIPPING LAWS REFORM URGED

Merchant Marine Conditions Told in Report

Amendment of Jones-White Act Recommended

Higher Rates for Mail Load Asked of Congress

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(Exclusive) — Readjustment of shipping laws to meet conditions confronting the American merchant marine is strongly urged by the United States Shipping Board in its fourteenth annual report as submitted to Congress yesterday. The board recommends that the rates of mail compensation authorized under the Jones-White Act be revised to provide higher pay for vessels in excess of twenty-four knots speed and that the principles embodied in the so-called White clarification amendment, which provided for the award of mail carriers to purchasers of Shipping Board lines, be enacted into law.

In this report the board is able to point out specific progress which has been made in strengthening and improving American shipping along the lines directed by the Jones-White Act. This is particularly noteworthy in the provision which has been made for the construction of new tonnage and the improvement of existing vessels through use of the board's construction loan fund.

At the close of the fiscal year, June 30, 1930, the board had authorized loans to twenty-two steamship companies for the construction of forty-nine new vessels and for the conversion or improvement of thirteen vessels. These authorized loans totaled $114,564,751, of which $43,050,890 was advanced before June 30. Since that date the total amount of loans authorized has been increased to $131,793,003.25.

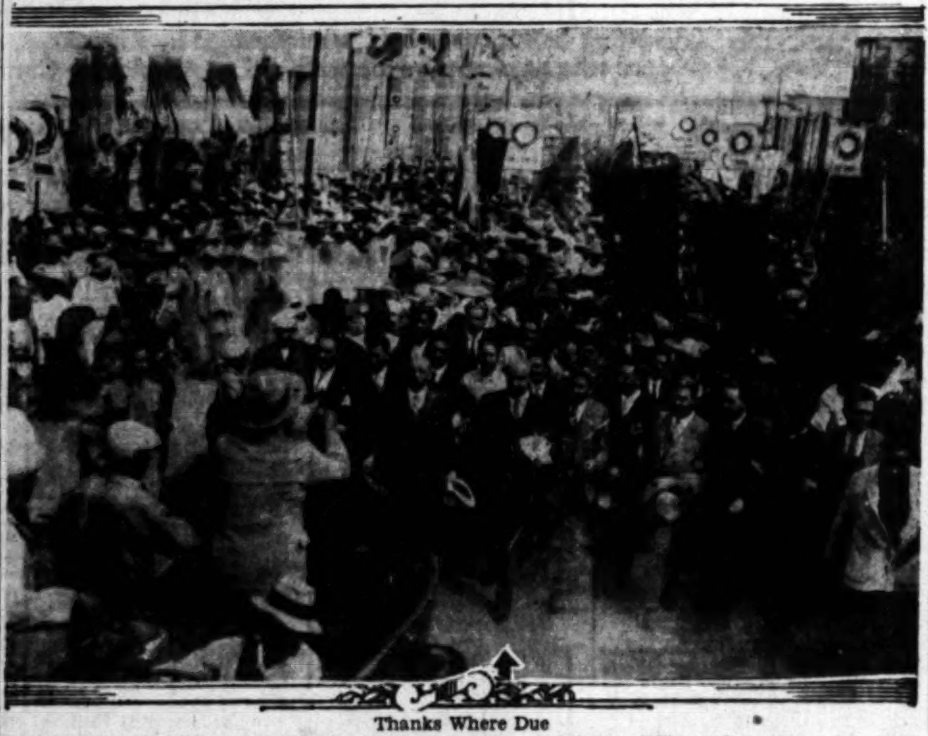
New developments during the fiscal year also included the consideration of three routes hitherto not served by American flag steamship lines as routes essential to American foreign commerce, as provided by Sec. 7 of the Merchant Marine Act of 1920. These routes are as follows: Baltimore and Hampton Roads to Bremen and Hamburg; Pacific Coast to European ports and Pacific Coast to South Africa.

The first of these has been certified by the board as an essential route and, following negotiations with the Roosevelt Steamship Company of New York, the board has sold that company five large steel freighters to be converted into combination passenger and cargo vessels for the inauguration of this service next year. The line will be known as the Baltimore Mail Steamship Company and will be operated under an ocean mail contract awarded the Roosevelt company.

The second of the above routes has been under the board's consideration for several months. In September, 1929, the board sought bids from private companies for the purchase of vessels to be used in creation of a Pacific-European line. Offers were received for operation under Shipping Board ownership but there was no bid looking to the establishment of the service with private capital. Since that time, however, the Interocean Steamship Corporation has established regular direct service over this route with sailings every twenty-six days.

ADAGE REVERSED FOR MEXICAN CHIEF

Prophet of Highway Given Honor in His Own Country



Thanks Where Due

Photograph shows portion of thousands of enthusiasts who greeted Gov. Filiberto Gomez upon his return to Mexico City from the first conference of the International Pacific Highway at Los Angeles recently. The arrow points to Gov. Gomez.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 30. (Exclusive)—The popularity of Gov. Filiberto Gomez of the State of Mexico was strikingly illustrated on the occasion of his return from his trip to Los Angeles, where he acted as personal representative of President Ortiz Rubio at the conference held there to make plans for the building of the Mexican section of the International Pacific Highway.

Both in this city and in his State capital, Toluca, he was escorted through the streets by a large parade of welcomers while the sidewalks were packed with cheering citizens along the line of march. The welcoming ceremonies were arranged not only as a tribute to his personal popularity but also as an expression of popular appreciation to the decisive steps he took at the Los Angeles conference to assure success of the road project.

It is remembered that at the conference it was he who presented the plan for the formation of a special association in Mexico to sponsor the building of this country's section of the great highway and that the conference accepted his outline of the objectives and methods to be followed by the new association. He was named temporary active president of the association while Ortiz Rubio was made honorary president.

WOOD CARVER DEAD

CAMBRIDGE (Mass.) Nov. 30. (Exclusive) — John Kirchmayer, famed wood carver of Cambridge, whose religious statues adorn churches in nearly every section of the country, and who was one of the founders of the Society of Arts and Crafts, is dead in East Cambridge.

McCORMACK FINISHES CONCERTS IN LONDON

LONDON, Nov. 30. (AP)—John McCormack was given an enthusiastic reception today at his last London concert for two years. The audience applauded wildly and the noted tenor responded with encores despite the fact he obviously was suffering from a cold. He will sail for the United States December 31, next, and will make a tour of the eastern States before going to Hollywood. His accompanist, Edwin Schneider, said it is problematical whether he will make another picture.

MANY INJURED IN BOMBAY RIOT

BOMBAY (India) Nov. 30. (AP)—Sixty-five persons were injured today in clashes between demonstrators and police.

The casualties occurred when police charged with bamboo staves a crowd in front of the police station after a ceremony of salute to the "national flag."

OKLAHOMA STUDENTS WIN STOCK JUDGING

CHICAGO, Nov. 30. (AP)—College boys from Oklahoma won another point today in their apparent effort to show that the intercollegiate live-stock judging championship should be theirs permanently. The Agricultural and Mechanical College from that State was triumphant again at the thirty-first International Live-Stock Exposition. After having been victor in 1925, 1926 and 1928 they led twenty-two other institutions in a contest which saw Kansas win second place and Kentucky third.

TRAIN ROBBERY SUSPECT SLAIN

Man Held in Espee Hold-up Shot in Break

OAKLAND, Nov. 30. (AP)—A suspect in a Southern Pacific train robbery at Albany was shot and killed here tonight while attempting to escape from police. He was being taken into the Postoffice Building for questioning when he made a break for freedom. He was shot just below the heart by Inspector Garrett of the Oakland police.

RD BELIEVES SLUMP HELPFUL

manent Lower Costs of Living to Result

Prices Blamed for Prolonging Depression

d Times Declared Due to Flow of Goods is the sixth of a series of articles by business men of the nation discussing ial conditions and the general trend. articles will appear in The Times from time.

BY HENRY FORD
As Told to A. M. Smith
ight, 1930, by North American Newspaper Alliance)

TROIT, Nov. 30. (Exclusive)— will know when we have hit the m of the business depression the fact that living expenses become lower than this genera- has ever seen them, in the m of Henry Ford.

hat," said Mr. Ford, "is going one of the permanent gains is period the United States is g through—the necessities of will never cost so much again. u will know that the depres- has begun to lift when you food and clothing, fuel and g plentifully and easily ob- le at greatly reduced prices. g except high prices of basic dities is prolonging the de- sion."

FACTS FACED

Ford said he would not dis- the present situation if he expected to indulge in the eva- of hard facts.

ooth words butter no pars- he said, "and the sooner we calling a spade a spade the Prosperity in the United is nothing more or less than ssing of goods from person to n. Prosperity is not in Treas- balances or bank balances, but steady and full exchange of . Anything that hinders this ys prosperity. Anything that es such exchange restores pros- .

sperity does not even consist profit which industry makes. ustry operated without a cent fit, and the full and steady of goods continued, we should have prosperity. The only prof- work, after all, is life. That t all our operations exist for— keep life going. re people see this today than before and one immediate result is going to be lower prices on all necessities of life. There can be no great progress of any kind until the people are assured beyond anxiety of a low cost of livelihood. We cannot go on exploiting the necessities of life and expect any kind of advancement in the United States. Making a living should be the easiest thing we do. And the only high-priced commodity we have any right to is a day's work; that should never be low priced."

Mr. Ford was asked if he thought the tariff had anything to do with the delayed return of prosperity.

"As you know," he said, "I was against the tariff. I am essentially a free trader for the industry of the United States. We are all big enough to forego protection. If there are any business interests that wanted the tariff, all I can say is that they got it, but they will not get what they expected out of it.

OTHER COUNTRIES AIDED

"At the same time, the tariff has not been entirely without benefit. It has helped other countries. When they raised their tariff walls against the United States they made it necessary for American industry to emigrate and build factories behind the tariff walls and give employment to foreign workmen. That is going to prove a considerable factor in the prosperity of other countries. And we have got to take a wide view of these matters, because no country is prosperous to itself alone; all of us must prosper together, else none of us prospers very much.

"I have a belief that when anything is permitted to occur, on such a scale that it affects the life of the people, there is usually some good result lurking in it, if you can find it.

"The tariff in the United States enables the food and clothing and fuel and housing exploiters to keep their prices a little higher a little longer, but at the same time it creates conditions which will inevitably bring those prices tumbling down.

SLUMP UNNECESSARY

"Those people who wanted the tariff thought they were doing something in their own interests; it will turn out that unintentionally they were starting forces that will work directly in the interests of the people they thought to exploit.

"It is too bad that our good results must come by such indirect and costly means, but they come; there is no stopping them.

"Unless our people are far less intelligent than I credit them with being, they are through with false leaders and that means that after this we shall be through with depressions for a long time. What we are going to get out of this one is a lower-priced livelihood and a larger family margin for investment in permanent things."

PROSPERITY LOAN URGED

Group Organizing to Advocate Congressional Aid of Unemployment With Billion-Dollar Bond Issue

NEW YORK, Nov. 30. (AP)—Formation of a group which will urge Congress to float a billion-dollar Federal "employment" bond issue or "prosperity loan" was announced today by Harold S. Buttenheim, editor of the American City Magazine and acting chairman of the emergency committee for Federal public works.

The committee's plan would apply the wartime "Liberty loan" method to the present problem of unemployment.

"If we were facing a great war," the committee said in a statement, "Congress would authorize billions of dollars of 'Liberty bonds;' everyone would begin feverishly to produce and use machinery and other resources to the utmost capacity, and the general standard of living would be materially raised. Confronted now with this great problem of peace—this 'war' against human misery,' as it has been termed by Col. Arthur Woods, director of the President's emergency committee for employment—should we not act with similar patriotism and courage?"

The committee proposes proceeds of the "employment loan" be put to the task of building necessary Federal public works on so vast a scale that employment will be given to several hundred thousands of men directly on the projects themselves and to many thousands more in factories, railroads and elsewhere.

Among those named as supporting the program are James H. Post, Frank C. Munson, Amos Pinchot, Daniel J. Meserole, Richard S. Childs and Paul U. Kellogg.

CHICAGO RAIDS CAPONE HAUNTS

Judge Lyle Leads Squad in Search for Gangster

Five Hideouts Combed, But Quarry Just Missed

Federal Secret Service Man Accompanies Police

CHICAGO, Nov. 30. (AP)—Five establishments supposed to be secret hiding-places of Al Capone were raided today by detectives led by Municipal Judge Lyle and Clarence Converse, special Federal intelligence officer.

The forces swooping down on suburban Berwyn failed to find the No. 1 public enemy for whom Lyle has issued a vagrancy warrant. They did come upon signs which indicated Capone had left just a short time before the raids.

The presence of Converse was not explained. He has been detailed to inquire into the income-tax reports submitted by Capone. He denied, however, he sought to take the gangster into custody.

HELP FOR HAITI SCHOOLS URGED

United States Aid Advised by Commission

Cessation of Farm Education Outlay Suggested

"Service Technique" Step in Proper Direction

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30. (AP)—The United States Commission on Education in Haiti today recommended to President Hoover that the United States assist in establishment of an adequate educational system for the Caribbean republic.

The recommendation was based on the belief the United States should do this "in consideration of its vital interest in the progress and stability of States contiguous to the approaches of the Panama Canal."

It was embodied in a report on Haitian educational conditions made by Dr. R. R. Moton, chairman of the commission, after a sojourn of several months with the other four commissioners in Haiti.

The commission recommended immediate cessation of capital outlay for more farm schools in Haiti, which it said are not needed as much as progress in other educational lines.

Speaking of the service technique, which is the name for the American-inspired system of elementary vocational schools operating under the Haitian Department of Agriculture, the report said this is a "step in the right direction." At the same time, it said the present organization of the service technique leaves much to be desired.

The report said Haitians are disposed by tradition to favor cultural rather than vocational education. It questioned the wisdom of too much emphasis on the service technique while the secondary junior colleges and colleges operating under the national government are without adequate funds.

The commission said it found too much tendency for Americans in charge of the service technique to elevate the system to American standards, which were found extravagant in comparison to those of the other systems and it is feared the whole structure of the service technique might collapse as soon as American occupation is withdrawn.

SCOTS BEGIN COAL STRIKE

Ninety-two Thousand Quit, But Great Britain as Whole Staves Off General Walkout

LONDON, Nov. 30. (AP)—A strike of 92,000 men in the coal fields of Scotland began today. Great Britain as a whole, however, breathed a sigh of relief as it now appears certain there will be no general stoppage of work in the coal fields tomorrow when the new coal mines' law goes into effect.

Friday the situation appeared as dark as it could be. The miners' leaders in a great majority of the districts as well as the delegate conference meeting in London decisively had turned down the plan of ninety hours work per fortnight—the "spreadover" system—the only alternative the owners could propose to a wage-cut when the seven and one-half hour day becomes compusory under the new Mines Act.

Then Friday night, the government intervened and in telegrams to owners and miners in all districts urged a temporary working agreement until further negotiations can be completed.

The Scottish situation admittedly is grave but just how grave no one at present can say. E. Shinwell, Minister of Mines, has been working since Friday to bring Scottish owners and miners into line with the rest of the country to come to some arrangement whereby the pits may be kept open if only on day-to-day basis.

Optimists believe the men will be back at work by tomorrow night. On the other hand strikes of these dimensions obviously contain potentialities both for a local upheaval and for extension of trouble to other districts.

VAN DYKE SAYS HE'S MISQUOTED

Denies Saying Novel Award Insult to America

Comments on Lewis Prize Explained as Mild

Princetonian Declares His Remarks Not Personal

PRINCETON (N. J.) Nov. 30. (AP) The Daily Pricetonian will say tomorrow that Dr. Henry Van Dyke denies having called the recent award of the Nobel literature prize to Sinclair Lewis "an insult to America."

The Princetonian will quote Dr. Van Dyke, professor emeritus of English at Princeton University, as follows:

"I never said that the award for the Nobel prize for literature to the author of 'Main Street' and 'Elmer Gantry' was an insult to America. I said it was a back-handed compliment.

"There was nothing personal in my remarks. They were a comment on that school of literature which fouls its own nest."

Dr. Van Dyke was reported as having denounced the Nobel award at a recent business luncheon in Germantown, Pa.

Uruguay Quiet as Voters Pick New President

MONTEVIDEO (Uruguay) Nov. 30. (AP)—Uruguay apparently conducted an orderly election today to choose a successor for President Juan Campisteguy, whose four-year term will expire next March.

Because of heavy rains yesterday it was estimated not more than 300,000 of the eligible 416,000 electors cast ballots.

There was some lively pre-election campaigning, with a split in both major parties, the Colorados and the Nationalists. Dr. Pedro Minini Rios was the candidate of the major Colorado faction, with Dr. Gabriel Terra and Dr. Federico Fleurquin representing other factions.

The chief Nationalist candidate was Dr. Luis Alberto De Herrera.

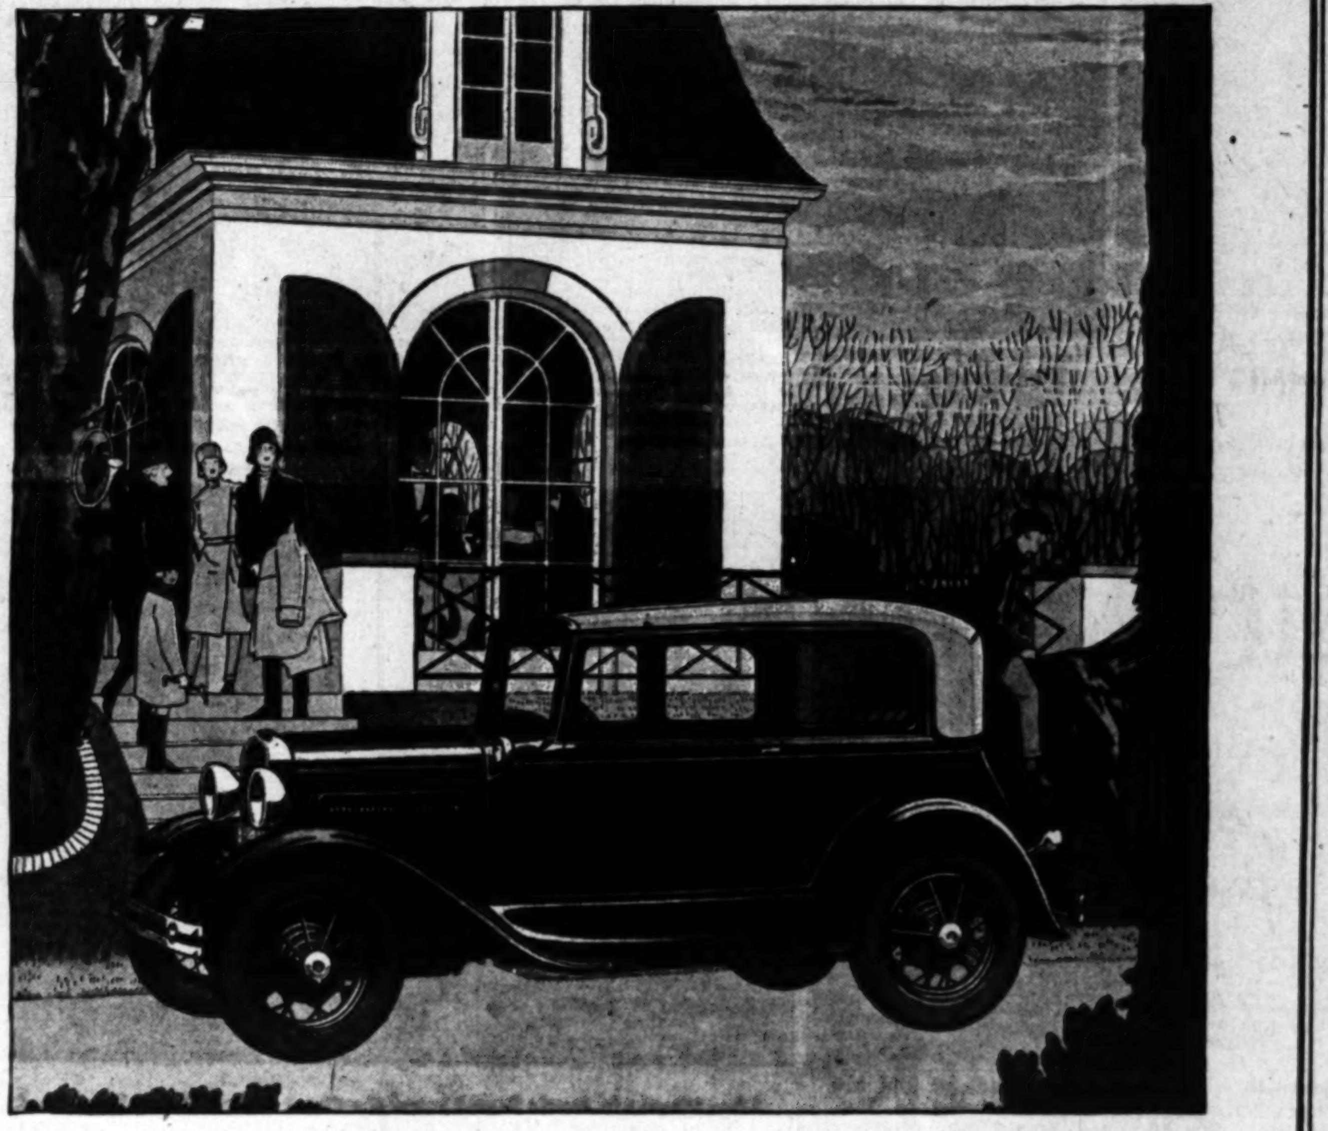
ON DISPLAY TODAY

The Ford Victoria



A NEW FORD BODY TYPE OF DISTINCTIVE BEAUTY

TODAY, a new Ford body type of distinctive beauty is on display by Ford dealers in this city and throughout the United States. It is called the Victoria and is distinguished by many features of design, comfort and convenience. It marks a new degree of value in a low-price car.

The striking lines of the Ford Victoria are especially apparent in the graceful sweep of the straighter, lower top, the slanting windshield and the curving bustle back, with the spare wheel set at a conforming angle. There is a suggestion of continental design also in the shape and size of the side windows and the intimate four-passenger seating arrangement.

As you open the door and step within the car you will be impressed by the dignity and richness of its appointments. Many details of finish reflect the mode and manner of a custom-built automobile.

The ample, deeply cushioned seats are carefully tailored and upholstered in luxurious mohair or fashionable Bedford cord, optional with the purchaser. Both of the individual front seats have form-fitting backs and fold forward. The rear seat is low and comfortable, with side arm rests that contribute to easy riding. Satin-finish hardware gives a quiet touch of brightness.

Another appreciated feature of the new Ford Victoria is a choice of attractive body colors in rich pyroxylin lacquer. They complement its fresh new lines and contour and help to give it distinctive place on every highway.

See this beautiful new car today at the showrooms of the nearest Ford dealer and arrange for a road demonstration. You will find much to admire in its safety, comfort, and alert, capable performance.

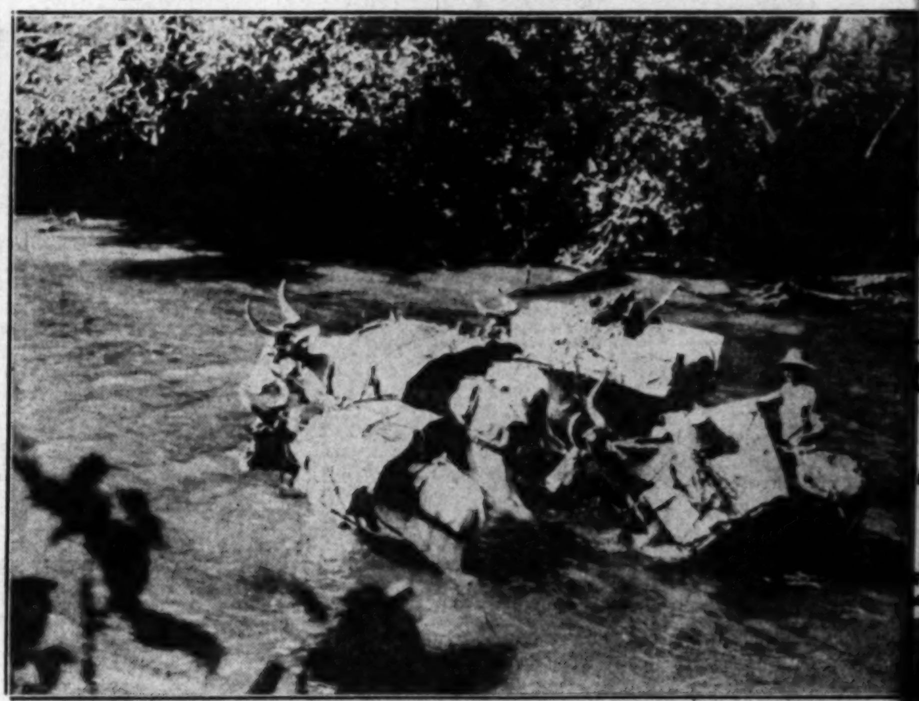
Dyott to Lead Expedition into Unexplored Jungles of Interior Brazil

An Attempt to Solve the Mysteries of the Dense Jungles of Interior Brazil is to be made in the near future by Commander Dyott, noted flyer and explorer, who plans to cover the vast area by airplane. Dyott has before tried to penetrate the jungle on foot. This photo shows him paddling a canoe on an uncharted river in the interior. (P. & A. photo.)

The Largest Rodent Known to Science is the capibara of the Amazonian jungle, where the Dyott expedition plans to penetrate. The capibara often attains the size of a donkey, has web feet and no tail and is as much a home in the water as on land. (P. & A. photo.)



An Idea of the Difficulties With Which the Expedition Will Meet is conveyed in this photo, which depicts the former Dyott party making its way up a stream in the heart of the interior. It took the party two months to traverse 150 miles. Using planes, it is believed a vast knowledge of the unknown country may be gained. (P. & A. photo.)

NATIONAL GRID RACE NARROWS

Three Teams Fall From List of Undefeated Elevens

Army, Dartmouth Beaten in Crucial Contests

Notre Dame, Washington State, Alabama Best Bets

BY RALPH HUSTON

Three more unbeaten teams fell from the national championship quest last week, but two new teams, of the minor variety, arose to present unbeaten and untied records which admitted them to the select list.

Army and Dartmouth, unbeaten, but tied, fell before Notre Dame and Stanford, respectively, while Oklahoma City, winner of nine straight games, fell over its tenth hurdle, "Gloomy Gus" Henderson's also unfeated Tulsa outfit.

Mt. Morris College, of Mt. Morris, Ill., and Fresno State College, are the two newcomers. Both have finished their schedules.

Notre Dame, which plays the Trojans here Saturday, and Alabama and Washington State, which play the January 1 game in the Rose Bowl, are the only important squads still undefeated and untied. Both of the latter have finished their regular schedules. Utah also is unbeaten, but may play a charity game soon.

Nine teams have not suffered defeat or tie, all told. In addition to those mentioned, St. Olaf and Heidelberg have spotless records. Ohio University, Western Maryland, Marquette, Michigan, and Bowling Green (Ohio) are unbeaten, but tied once. Records of the teams follow:

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—The Army-Notre Dame clash and splash in Chicago on Saturday will go down as one of the most remarkable contests any football season has ever seen.

First, the unspeakable conditions of the weather and playing field, and the suffering of 100,000 or more spectators, soaked to the skin by a cold wind and colder rain, gave the early part of the battle a drab and forlorn outlook.

Then, with both attacks bogged down and broken up by the mud and muck and mire, where for more than three quarters of the game it looked as if neither team could ever score, the sudden rush of action through the last five minutes brought out two of the finest plays football will ever see.

The winning play of Notre Dame would have been a marvel on a fast field against an alert, charging Army defense. Under the conditions it was something of a world beater.

FAILED TO WORK

When this play began Notre Dame had the ball on her own 46-yard line near midfield. Time after time Carideo had called for his "going home" or touchdown play, but it had never worked. Then the crash came. Schwartz, a great ball carrier, took the ball and started for the left side of the Army line. As he swung into action over the slippery, treacherous turf, Brill spun out and blocked the Army end. Conley, the Notre Dame end, swung in and blocked the Army's left tackle. This gave Schwartz his first chance and he held his feet at top speed. As Schwartz came to the line of scrimmage with the Army end and tackle blocked, Carideo and Metzger got busy. This great pair of blockers took out the Army secondary, leaving only Carver on guard. Then O'Brien, Notre Dame's left end, swung down the field from the other side and nailed Carver.

Here was a play that demanded fast and perfect execution on the part of six men—Schwartz, Brill, Conley, Carideo, Metzger and O'Brien, and not a one of them failed. They clicked as perfectly as if each maneuver had been made over a fast, dry track, as if the footing had been perfect.

It is no easy job to block out two good men. Notre Dame had to block five on one play, all widely scattered. And when this was done Schwartz held his feet in remarkable fashion. No Army man touched him. Not a hostile hand was laid upon him. He was given the right of way by as fine a development of team play as one could look for. It was a perfect job carried through under imperfect conditions, against a heavy handicap.

FORCED TO KICK

This was the first startling development. The second came only a few plays later. Notre Dame was forced deep into her territory after the Army kick-off. Carideo had to fall back to his own 15-yard line to kick. As he got the ball King, the Army end, was on him. King blocked the kick and the ball bounded over the Notre Dame goal line. King was after it with a rush. But as he got near the ball he saw Price, an Army forward, was at his side with a Notre Dame pursuer only two steps away. It was here that King did his finest work. In place of diving for the ball he whirled and cut down the rival to allow Price a free shot. This was quick thinking and quick action, for if King had missed his man the scramble for the ball would have been an even thing.

Brohus, who attempted to kick the goal that would have tied the score, never had a chance. The kick was blocked just as it left the ground and there must have been three or four South Bend chargers on top of the kicker.

So a football game that for fifty-five of the sixty minutes looked to be a dull and hopeless affair as far as any form of contest might go, suddenly turned into one of the season's thrillers with two or three great plays in succession. The play Notre Dame used was exactly the same that gave Flanagan his chance to run for a touchdown against the Army some years ago. It was first devised by Jess Harper at Notre Dame in 1913, which happens to be seventeen years ago. It was later perfected by Knute Rockne and it has won many a game for Notre Dame ever since. It is the type of play that calls for great blocking by at least five men. If all do their job in the right way it means a touchdown with a ball carrier of the Flanagan or Schwartz type who can't be cut down from behind.

IRISH TEAM BEST

The Army fought a great fight against a better football team. The line battle was almost even, but Notre Dame had more driving power in the backfield and somewhat better blocking. And Notre Dame had a touchdown play that finally rose above the handicap of a sodden field and slippery turf.

As it is, Notre Dame starts for Los Angeles tomorrow, to face Southern California, with its great record still intact. It was a close call, but there it is and this next game should be the star contest of many seasons, since both teams are exceptionally strong.

The Army finished a great year, only 1 point away from an unbeaten season. Maj. Sasse and his staff did a fine job. Their one defeat was by the margin of a goal after touchdown, missed with a muddy, heavy ball that made accurate kicking largely a matter of luck. Carideo came through, but even Carideo missed his first chance with a favoring wind from the 15-yard line when he tried for a goal from placement.

Both Army and Notre Dame deserved great credit from the football they played under terrible conditions, overhead and underfoot.

And the 100,000 who risked pneumonia and took a two or three-hour soaking broke all records for stamina, durability, and the ability to absorb punishment.

But they saw a great finish, something to talk about for a long time to come.

Notre Dame Squad to Reach Tucson Wednesday

Three Practices Planned in Arizona Town

Players All in Good Shape for S.C. Team

CHICAGO, Nov. 30. (Exclusive)—After practically a two day's rest here following their tussle with the West Point Cadets, thirty-eight members of Notre Dame football squad will entrain tomorrow afternoon for the first half of their trip to Los Angeles, where they meet the University of Southern California gridders next Saturday. This battle between the Trojans and the Fightin' Irish, one of country-wide interest, will be Notre Dame's final game of the season. Victory for them means that for the second year they will be hailed as the mythical national football champions.

FRANK CARIDEO

The Irish gridders will arrive in Tucson, Ariz., Wednesday afternoon, where they will detrain for their first practice and limbering up exercises. They will hold practice sessions there again Thursday in the morning and afternoon before boarding a train that evening for the second half of the trip. The team will arrive in Los Angeles Friday evening.

The Rockne raiders will leave Chicago in first-class condition. None of the players was hurt in last Saturday's game, the mud and slush preventing injuries as much as good football.

Approximately 500 boys and girls, who had not reached their sixteenth birthday at the start of the tourney, competed in this year's event. The final results follow:

ERNY PINCKERT READY TO RESUME PRACTICE

Jones Expects All but Sparling and Wilcox on Deck Today; Irish Not Impregnable

BY BRAVEN DYER

Every so often in the realm of sports there comes a gigantic, a natural or a titanic, choose whichever word you will. Such an event catches the public's fancy from its inception and interest mounts from day to day with increasing volume. The affair is talked about, raved about, cussed about for months both prior to and after its occurrence.

Such a titanic is the football game between Southern California and Notre Dame at the Coliseum next Saturday afternoon. Public interest in the engagement is so great that 50,000 disappointed ticket seekers will seek solace in the radio. The attendance will exceed 90,000, the largest crowd that ever saw a football game in Los Angeles.

ERNY PINCKERT

In one final drive of preparation for this gridiron gigantic, Howard Jones, coach of the Trojans, will call his charges together at Bovard Field this afternoon. Thankful is the Trojan mentor that his team had two extra days of rest following that bruising victory over Washington. For the Huskies were bent on doing a lot of damage even if they couldn't score any touchdowns, and so furiously did they fight that a full dozen Trojans were more or less incapacitated.

Chief concern today centers around two players, Halfback Erny Pinckert and End Ralph Wilcox. Pinckert, after receiving a badly bruised pelvic bone, was released from the hospital Saturday afternoon, stating that he would be more than ready for the Irish. Erny is a tough baby to keep down and I doubt if the absence of a leg would prevent him from playing in the Notre Dame game. At least he would still want to get in there.

If Pinckert is able to play Saturday a great load will lift from Jones's shoulders. If Erny cannot play then Harold Hammack steps up to the first-string position. And Hammack did right smartly against the Huskies last week. For a chap who has played as little varsity ball as Hammack, the boy was a riot. True, he looked only fairish on passes a few times, but that might be expected from a player who had gained most of his experience absorbing bench splinters. Hammack will do.

The left end position is more perplexing. If neither Sparling nor

KNUTE SEES DEFEAT FOR IRISH TEAM

Speaks Over Radio and Says Trojans Will Win Saturday's Game

Speaking over the radio from Chicago last night, Knute Rockne, coach of the Notre Dame football team, opined that he was "afraid we are going to take a beating from Southern California at Los Angeles next Saturday."

KNUTE ROCKNE

"But," continued Rockne, "I am willing to wager we will not be defeated by four touchdowns as some of the Los Angeles newspaper men seem to believe. If we hold the Trojans to a two-touchdown difference we'll go home feeling pretty good."

"Where one football player grows in the East we have two in the Midwest and they have seven out on the Pacific Coast," was one of Rockne's sallies.

The famous Irish coach introduced Frank Carideo, star quarterback, who spoke a moment about the Army game, saying it was a "tough battle, but that we expect a much tougher one next Saturday."

During the course of his talk Rockne mentioned more than a score of players from all over the country, these men being the ones he, Tad Jones and Pop Warner are considering for their all-American eleven.

Johnny Baker and Erny Pinckert of the Trojans were listed as possibilities, as was Ted Beckett of California, Glenn Edwards of Washington State, Phil Moffatt of Stanford, Mel Hein of the Cougars and Brill, Schwartz and Carideo of his own team.

SOCCERITES IN WRANGLE

Hollywood and Sons of St. George Game Called Fifteen Minutes Before Regular Time

With the referee's protested decisions marring the feature game out at Loyola Field yesterday afternoon, the Hollywood Sheiks defeated the Sons of St. George, three goals to one, in the main battle of the day, while Johnny Bain's Richfield Oilers rose in all their glory to fight the highly touted Magyars to a 1-all standstill in the preliminary encounter.

The game between Hollywood and the Sons caused a great deal of comment from soccer fans, especially when the umpire called the game approximately fifteen minutes before time. The Sons left the field when the referee blew his whistle and refused to return to finish the game. According to soccer officials, the affair will be thrashed out at the committee meeting Wednesday night. The Sons will most likely try to get a no-contest decision on the battle, with hopes of playing the game over at a later date. The Sons met the Sheiks last Sunday in a City Cup game, the Hollywood boys winning, 3 to 0.

Things blew much quieter over at Tournament Park, Pasadena, with the Scots and the Vikings each garnering two goals to tie matters up in the main game of the program, while the strong L.A.A.C. Mercury men trounced the Victorias, 6 to 1, in the opener on the bill.

In the main affair out at Loyola yesterday, Joe Close started the scoring when he placed a beautiful kick in the Sons' net. Not to be denied, the Sons, fired with ambition, played the Sheiks off their feet during the last part of the first period. McCollough scored the Sons' goal in the opening half. At the start of the second half, the Hollywood cohorts tallied with Charley Cowie on the scoring end of the goal. This broke the morale of the Sons, combined with the referee's decisions, and they let down with the result that Close again tallied a few minutes later.

Fans were really impressed with the excellent showing of the Rich-

OLYMPIC CLUB GRIDMEN DEFEATED IN NORTHWEST

SEATTLE (Wash.) Nov. 30. (AP)—Ten thousand persons turned out on a cold miserable day here this afternoon to witness the West Seattle Athletic Club of Seattle conquer the Olympic Club of San Francisco, 13 to 6, in an all-charity grid game.

The Seattle eleven, bolstered by the addition of "Chuck" Carroll, former all-American halfback, scored touchdowns in the first and second periods, while the Olympic Club tallied in the dying minutes of the fourth quarter.

The San Francisco team virtually handed the West Seattle its first score when Fredericks, quarterback, fumbled a punt deep in his own territory and Capt. Schuh recovered the ball in the end zone to give the Seattle aggregation a touchdown. Schuh converted the try for point from placement.

One of the most spectacular plays ever seen in Seattle was performed by the Olympic Club in the last minute, but it did not count. Putting the ball into play in midfield, J. Wilson, fullback, completed a short pass to Ford, who in turn started a series of five lateral passes which carried the ball to West Seattle's 3-yard line, but the ball was brought back when the officials decided that the referee's whistle had blown before the laterals were put into play. The San Francisco team had time for only one more play and its long pass was knocked down.

BUCCANEERS COP POLO BATTLE AT UPLIFTERS'

ccaneer poloists led by T. Lyell kett, a Southland citizen, who automobiles during the week d rides horseback on Sunday, deted the Rovers yesterday at the fters' Field in a hectic battle by 11-to-10 score. Puckett was the of the contest, scoring five one of them being the win- tally in the final chukker. A city crowd turned out for the h and seemed to enjoy the fes- ies from start to finish.

At half-time the teams were dlocked, 4 to 4, with both des battling like strange bull- s. Hal Roach, playing No. for the Buccaneers, and Lionel dley of the Rovers engaged a number of thrilling riding duels. Incidentally, they each tallied four goals for their respective teams.

With the teams deadlocked at the start of the eighth chukker Puckett pulled a crack shot which he evidently has been hiding in his saddle bags and the white pill went over the goal line for the winning goal. With that done Puckett retired to his Alhambra retreat to celebrate his accomplishments of the day.

The line-ups:

ROSENBLOOM TO BATTLE

Light-Heavyweight King Faces Kaplan Tomorrow; Maloney to Tackle Risko Friday

NEW YORK, Nov. 30. (AP)—The boxing spotlight shifts its rays from New York to various other sections of the nation this week as bike racing occupies Madison Square Garden.

The big fellows of the ring also are regaining their share of interest after yielding to smaller men for several weeks. Maxie Rosenbloom, the light-heavyweight champion who can find few good opponents, is slated to cash in on his title to some extent in St. Louis Tuesday night when he meets "K. O." Phil Kaplan, Meriden, Ct., in a nontitle bout. Rosenbloom has defeated his vetteran rival twice before.

JOHNNY RISKO

Jimmy Maloney, favorite of Boston fans, who grabbed himself a large slice of the calcium light last fall when he beat big Primo Carnera, makes another appearance in the Boston Garden ring Friday night against Johnny Risko, Cleveland's still sturdy rubber man. They have met twice before. In 1928, Maloney won a decision and in 1929 Risko scored a three-round knockout.

Other bouts on the week's national schedule include:

Tuesday—At St. Louis: Eddie Ran, Poland, vs. Vickie Purvis, Indianapolis, welterweights, ten rounds; Sammy Offerman, St. Louis, vs. Ray Alfano, East St. Louis, lightweights, ten rounds; Freddie Haverlak, New York, vs. Lou Terry, St. Louis, lightweights, ten rounds. At Indianapolis: Harry Dillon, Winnipeg, vs. Tony Cancela, Detroit, lightweights, ten rounds; Frankie Jarr, Fort Wayne, Ind., vs. Kid Woods, Indianapolis, bantamweights, ten rounds. At Los Angeles: Sammy Jackson, Los Angeles, vs. Paulie Walker, New York, welterweights, ten rounds. At New York, Broadway Arena: Roberto Roberti, Italy, vs. Eddie Benson, New York, heavyweights, ten rounds.

Thursday—At Cincinnati: Cowboy Joe Willis, San Antonio, Tex., vs. Joe Anderson, Covington, Ky., light-heavyweights, ten rounds.

Friday—At Hollywood, Cal.: Al Fay, Chicago, vs. Al Morro, Burbank, Cal., heavyweights. At Sacramento, Cal.: Dixie La Hood, Butte, Mont., vs. Charlie Miller, Reno, Nev., lightweights, ten rounds.

HOWARD JONES AND TOM LIEB ON KHJ PROGRAM THURSDAY

Howard Jones, head coach at Southern California, and Tom Lieb, the man who led the Irish to a national championship last year during Knute Rockne's illness, will be featured Thursday night over the Don Lee station, KHJ. These two famous grid coaches will give their opinions on Saturday's titanic struggle between Southern California and Notre Dame. They will collaborate with Paul Lowry and Braven Dyer of The Times sports staff to present to you one of the outstanding grid broadcasts of the season. Dial KHJ Thursday night at 9:30 o'clock for this feature. And don't forget that Knute Rockne himself will be heard over KHJ at 9 o'clock Saturday night, giving his impressions of the game played that afternoon.

OUTBOARD RECORDS GO IN SALTON SEA CLASH

INDIO, Nov. 30. (Exclusive)—In a putt-putt water carnival which set a mark for outboar drivers to shoot at for some time to come, twenty-two world's records were shattered on the Salton Sea in the past two days. The carnival which came to a close this afternoon was by far the most startling in the matter of record performances for outboards ever staged this side of the Rocky Mountains.

Among the outstanding record-breaking feats were the following: In Class D, Division 2, for straight-mile trials, the Cuspidor VIII traveled an average speed of 48.739; the California Comet traveled on an average of 48.466 miles per hour. Miss Loretta Turnbull drove the Sunkist Kid as fast as 47.916 miles per hour.

Rogers Swartzwood was the pilot of the Cuspidor VIII, and Fred Gilbert handled the California Comet.

In Class F, Division 2, the outstanding boat was Miss Hollywood, driven by Rogers Swartzwood. She skipped over the desert waters at an average speed of 47.368 miles per hour on a five-mile course.

Pacific Coast League Magnates to Gather in Montreal Today for Special Meetin

DRAFT PROBLEM TO BE SETTLED

Majors Threaten Break With Class AA Circuits

Expect Universal Draft to Be Adopted Today

Presidential Election Also on Confab Schedule

BY BOB RAY

Away up in the wet wilds of Montreal, Can., Pacific Coast League magnates gather today for a special meeting at which they will cuss and discuss the universal draft problem and then perhaps elect a president.

From reports gathered here and there, it seems quite likely that the moguls will come to some sort of an agreement with the majors on the draft situation. If they don't, it means that the big leagues will break off relations with the Coast circuit, as well as the two other Class AA loops, the International and American Association.

Charley Graham, vice-president of the San Francisco Seals, is leading the opposition against adopting the universal draft and has Lew Moreing of Sacramento and the Oakland owners behind him. The other five clubs favor the draft and inasmuch as they constitute a majority it's a safe bet that they'll vote to continue relations with the majors and accept the universal draft.

The Seals claim that the majors are out of line in announcing that they'll break relations with the three big minor circuits unless they accept the universal draft. It's true that the big leagues did make an agreement with the Class AA leagues to use the selective draft system as long as Judge Landis was in office. However, there's nothing in the agreement to force them to buy, sell and farm out players to the Class AA circuits, and if they choose not to there is nothing that Landis can do to them.

The Angels, Stars, Ducks and Indians have more or less working agreements with major league clubs and if they were cut off from this source of players they'd be rather up against it. So it's up to them to see that the universal draft is accepted.

Concerning the election of a league president, Harry A. Williams, the incumbent, is said to be sure of the San Francisco, Los Angeles, Sacramento and Portland votes, which means that either he'll be re-elected or will hold office until the opposition can figure some way of getting a fifth vote. Rumors have it that the Oakland owners will shift their vote to Williams and assure him of re-election.

Opposing Williams for the presidency are Cal Ewing, former Oakland club owner, and Joe Bearwald, at present vice-president of the Missions.

field Oilmen, who have gone four games without being defeated. They even threatened to upset the brilliant Magyars, when Cove placed the oval in the net for the only score in the first half. However, the Mags spoiled the Oilers' hopes when Felix scored in the second half to tie matters up.

The tie game at Pasadena also proved to be equally as interesting as the Loyola games. Dr. A. A. Brix and Pelve tallied for the Vikings, while Grubb and Summers scored for the Scots. Both teams displayed great offensive work, but weakened at critical moments in their defense.

Tigers, Bears Clash Tonight

The Shell Oil Tigers will be battling to hang on to the top of the Southern California Amateur Hockey League standings when they meet the Sunfreze Bears tonight at the Winter Garden.

The Shell team has been the class of the circuit during the early games, but the others have been improving right along and a close race is being predicted for the rest of the schedule.

Doc Claman, manager of the Shell sextet, plays goal, while Horsfall, Comber and Wells give the team a strong attack. The Sunfreze club is well balanced for all-around strength.

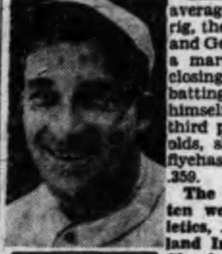
Thursday night the Los Angeles Millionaires will return to the Winter Garden to face the Oakland Shieks, last year's champions of the California Hockey League.

SIX-DAY BIKE RACE STARTS

NEW YORK, Nov. 30. (AP)—New York's semiannual sleepless week started promptly at 9 o'clock tonight when the starting gun was fired for the fifty-ninth international six-day bicycle race at Madison Square Garden. A crowd of about 8000 highly enthusiastic fans were on hand to see the fifteen teams sent away on the long grind that will not end until next Saturday night.

AL SIMMONS CAPTURES 1930 AMERICAN LEAGUE BATTING CHAMPIONSHIP

Al Simmons, heaviest hittier of Connie Mack's two-time World Champion Philadelphia Athletics, is the 1930 American League batting king, according to the official averages released today.



AL. SIMMONS

LOU GEHRIG

Simmons, finishing with an average of .381, beat out Lou Gehrig, the junior member of the Ruth and Gehrig home-run company, by a margin of two points in the closing days of their hot race for batting supremacy. The Bambino, himself, wound up in a tie for the third position with Charley Reynolds, slugging Chicago White Sox flychaser, both having a mark of .359.

The others finishing in the first ten were Mickey Cochrane, Athletics, .357; Urbar Hodapp, Cleveland Indians, .354; Eddie Morgan, Cleveland, and Heinie Manush, St. Louis-Washington, .350; Sam Rice, Washington, .349, and Joe Cronin, Washington, .346.

Ruth, although losing his major league home-run crown to Hack Wilson, topped the junior circuit in his specialty with forty-nine circuit clouts. Hodapp rapped out the most hits, 225, but Gehrig gathered the most total bases, 419. Earl Combs of the Yanks was first in triples, Hodapp led in doubles, Mule Haas of the A's set the pace for sacrifices, and Marty McManus of Detroit stole the most bases. The averages follow:

STRIBLING TO START WORK

MACON (Ga.) Nov. 30. (AP)—W. L. (Young) Stribling left here today for Chicago to begin training for his bout December 12 with Tuffy Griffith.

DE PALMA BELIEVES ASCOT ONE OF TOUGHEST COURSES

Ralph De Palma, who has raced on practically every important speedway in the universe, believes that the Legion Ascot track is one of the toughest of them all. The great Italian said so yesterday. As proof of his contention he pointed out the fact that four wheels and one tire were thrown from cars in the races eight days ago.

"Taking the turns at Ascot is the big job," said the Latin star, "The straightaways are short and a contestant is continually working over his steering wheel getting around the bends. Such labor is what tires the drivers. It takes a pretty strong fellow to stand the gaff going full blast for 100 laps. Going into the turns also is responsible for wheels being broken off. Both car and driver have to be in real shape to win one of these Ascot races."

ERNY PINCKERT READY FOR NOTRE DAME GAME

Wilcox can play, and it's a cinch the former will not be ready, then the burden falls on Howard Joslin, a little chap who has a fine battling spirit. While Joslin performed capably against Washington, Jones wants additional fortification at the left wing position and for this reason may shift Tay Brown from tackle to that spot. Brown played halfback in high school and end as a freshman last year.

Loss of both Sparling and Wilcox hurts the Trojans in an offensive way as well as defensive, for Jones's ends always play an important role in advancing the ball, whether it be via the air or otherwise.

Everybody is interested in getting a first-hand line on the Irish. The writer's father, Dr. Frank Dyer, attended the Notre Dame-Northwestern game in Chicago, and has the following observations to report:

(1.) Northwestern played Irish so even that it should have been a tie.

(2.) Notre Dame looked bad in first quarter, a very tantalizing slow attack after they were in position. I can see how it might make their opponents very nervous and perhaps get them offside frequently.

(3.) Carideo has a perfectly educated toe, not only for goal kicks, but in placing his punts on the 1 or 2-yard line.

(4.) Notre Dame's passing attack against Northwestern was plenty smart, but it should not bother Southern California so much, for Howard Jones has faster backs than the Purple. However, every receiver must be closely guarded at all times.

(5.) Notre Dame looked quite helpless against Northwestern's line. They ought to look the same against Southern California. (The Irish have an off-tackle play and end run which are dangerous, plus passes, but nothing else seemed worth a great deal.)

(6.) If the game should take the same form in the first half December 6 Southern California should score three times in the half. I am sure the Trojans would have done so here today if they had driven into Notre Dame territory as Northwestern did.

(7.) I think Howard Jones should go after his touchdowns early, for the reason that Rockne's men hardly seem to get interested in the first half, but always get their Irish up later.

(8.) I can't quite believe that Notre Dame played its best possible game here today. If they did, then Southern California can make four or five touchdowns on them this year. At any rate, the Irish looked far from a wonder team.

(9.) Southern California must, of course, keep an eye on Schwartz and move swiftly when he does.

(10.) Tell Mr. Jones I think this is his year to beat the Irish."

That's the dope from a nonexpert fan who has seen a lot of football in his day, however.

WHITE LOOSE AGAIN

Now comes Russ White, the Sage of Santa Monica, with his official prognostication on the game. Mr. White is the chap who has called every Coast game correctly this season, which is more than any of us grid writers can say. He declared S.C. was likely to lose to Oregon State or Washington State. He picked the Trojans to score at least five touchdowns against Stanford and said the Cards would get two.

His letter, which was received prior to the Washington game, said the Trojans would score seven touchdowns against the Huskies. They got five and the sixth was caught just one step over the end zone.

But read what he says:

November 24.

Well I certainly had a rainbow 'round my shoulder when I wrote you October 21 picking the winners of the concluding thirty-four games on the schedules of Pacific Coast Conference teams. They have all come through in the twenty-six games played to date and I wouldn't change the selections in the remaining eight games on account of anything that has transpired since. (Gasconnade.)

Washington hasn't shown any offensive against a first-rate team and with a pair of weak ends hasn't a chance of halting a pair of ball carriers like Mohler and Duffield. If, in addition to this, the Trojans unleash their sharp-shooting passing game it is liable to be pretty terrible, or to be more specific, about seven touchdowns.

Notre Dame is in for a pasting next. I don't believe there is a football team in America that can stop the Trojans short of four touchdowns. If that team exists it is either Notre Dame or Alabama and I think Jones could "take" them on successive Saturdays. Again that eleventh position, quarterback, to make the difference. Carideo, with superb strategy, like the conductor with the baton keeping that rhythm, but seldom carrying the ball, against the supercharging of Mohler and Duffield, who have scored twenty-nine touchdowns between them this year. And don't overlook it — both these boys are valve-in-head quarterbacks, who know when and how to use Pinckert and Musick. Mirabile dictu.

Dartmouth will think Stanford is using more than one ball when the Cards start passing at Palo Alto. Oregon should hold St. Mary's to a couple of touchdowns if the Oregon rooters don't sing, "Mary Had a Little Lamb," between halves. Fordham tried that. Oregon State, now showing her real class, will spill West Virginia. Washington State, a senior team that left its punch back in October, will take Villanova easily, but what of it. U.C.L.A. could do it. If Spaulding's team can shed its defensive complex for an afternoon they should be three touchdowns better than Idaho. Each team has a peculiar idiopathy. Idaho later takes a much-needed rest-cure trip to Hawaii for a couple of games but who cares about hula football.

Now you know how it all looks out here at Santa Monica and I must go take my ovaltine.

RUSS WHITE.

P. S.: Braven, there is only one team that could beat these Trojans and that's the 1931 Trojans.

UNDERWOOD LOSES TO RIGGS AT NET

Pulling a surprise upset in the final round, Bobby Riggs defeated Bobby Underwood in straight sets, 6-4, 7-5, in the boys' singles finals of the annual Midwick Country Club junior tennis tournament for boys 13 years and under, which concluded on the club courts under the direction of Walter Wesbrook, professional. Riggs was seeded second, while Underwood was first. Paired with Bob Braly, Underwood figured in winning the boys' doubles finals from Torrey and Caulk.

In an exhibition singles match held between the finals of the two events, Walter Wesbrook and Norval Craig, professional of the L.A. T.C., split sets, Wesbrook winning the first, 6-2, while Craig took the second at 6-3.

REFEREE TIFF LOOMS

Bout Tomorrow Night Between Sammy Jackson and Paulie Walker Causes Wrangle

Possibility of a clash over the referee for the Sammy Jackson-Paulie Walker bout tomorrow night looms with both principals asking that they box straight rules.

California rules call for clean breaks, but some referees permit boxers to mix it up more than others.

That the Negro youngster and the New York Italian figure on a bitter fight goes without saying.

PAULIE WALKER

The winner will get a Young Corbett match probably this month.

Anybody who fights Corbett will draw down a purse of $5000 or more, handy change for the Christmas shopping.

It is believed that Walker would have an advantage if the referee lets them tangle at close quarters, since he has the shorter reach.

Walker thinks he will win by a knockout. The Italian likes rough going. He is a good short puncher with either hand.

The betting odds favor Jackson at 10 to 8. His splendid stand against Corbett proved his caliber. Walker, on the other hand, has been seen here but once and that only lasted forty-nine seconds.

Jackson and Walker are in good shape. The weight—147 pounds—give or take a pound, didn't give either any worry. They will probably weigh the same at 2 o'clock tomorrow.

George Leonard will be Walker's chief second. Harvey Petitt usually handles Jackson himself. Leonard worked with Johnny Vacca when he boxed Newsboy Brown here several years ago.

Matchmaker Wad Wadhams is seeking an opponent for either Tod Morgan or Baby Joe Gans for the show the 9th inst.

Plans for a big Christmas week show featuring Fidel La Barba and Earl Mastro are in the making for the Olympic. Mastro has started training. La Barba is expected home soon. Chicago is also bidding for this one.

Maple Leafs Picked to Cop Game Tonight

The Maple Leafs, declared by ice hockey critics to be one of the fastest sextets ever entered in the Senior League, will be favorites over Art Palfrey and his Los Angeles Bruins when the fast-skating outfits tangle on the Palais De Glace ice tonight.

Although his team was in first place, Manager Ralph Weaver of the Leafs was dissatisfied with the squad so he stepped out and signed two new players. The pair—Ted Cooper and 'Leaping Joe' Josephs—will be used in the forward line. Both are huskies, adding more weight to the already heavy Leaf line-up.

Bill Chapman, young Canadian wingman, who returned to the Maple club last Thursday and scored three goals against the Hollywood Monarchs, will be back tonight. He announces that his leg, injured several weeks ago, is again in shape.

The Bruins have been traveling fast and may upset the dope by winning this evening. Palfrey and Noel Proulx, who have been doing the sharpshooting for the squad, are expected to again lead the scoring.

BULLOCK'S STORES FOR MEN

964 Men's Suits lowered to $34.50

How's this for value! 964 single and double breasted suits. Light and dark worsteds, cheviots, twists, tweeds and oxfords. A wide range of very particularly made garments. They have hand-tailor-work in them, naturally. In fact, they are Bullock suits—actually taken from Bullock's higher price ranges.

Now then—since they have been on hand long enough, and since there are too many of them, although they are really excellent suits—Bullock's has done some very generous subtraction from their original figures (almost division in some cases)! Today, and until they are sold, all 964 suits will be shown at this one reduced price—$34.50!

GEORGE GETS TITLE BATTLE

Star Local Wrestler Given Return Match Against Sonnenberg at Olympic; Meet the 10th Inst.

"Dynamite" Gus Sonnenberg, world's mat king, will meet Don George, local star, in a finish title match at the Olympic, December 10.

GUS SONNENBERG

The match was signed yesterday when Sonnenberg, who had turned down two previous offers for the bout, accepted Daro's third offer, which was said to have been the biggest ever given the title-holder for an indoor match in this section of the country.

It was revealed that George was so anxious to get the return bout at this time that he agreed to take a very small percentage of the gate receipts as his end of the purse so that the promoter could meet Sonnenberg's demands to come to Los Angeles for the match.

The first meeting between George and Sonnenberg was one of the hardest fought title matches seen at the Olympic in several years, and the promoter received many requests from fans who witnessed it, as well as many who were unable to be there that night, to try and sign the champion for a return bout with the former national amateur mat king.

The rematch is a popular one. George began his career as a top-notch grappler here last May when he disposed of the rough Balkan, Dan Koloff, in a one-fall battle, with ease. He proved a sensation in that battle, and in the eight others he had here before meeting Sonnenberg, displayed steady improvement in his mat work.

It took Sonnenberg, however, to bring out the best in the youngster. After being outwrestled for a little more than a half hour before the first fall, he kept the champion on the defense throughout the remainder of the match, and several times had the title in his grasp while competing for the deciding fall.

George showed such a wonderful defense against the tackles that Sonnenberg was able to get over very few effective ones in that bout, while the challenger, who has also become proficient in the use of that grip, won the second fall with one of them, and had the champion out of the ring for the count of seventeen at another time. The tackle that George had expected to bring him the title ended the bout. Sonnenberg had intended to use the tackle at the same time, and as a result they met head-on. George was knocked out and had to be taken to the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital to be revived. Sonnenberg revived in the ring and was declared the winner.

ROYAL GIANTS COP PAIR FROM COMMERCIAL NINE

The Royal Giants, Winter League leaders, advanced a couple of notches nearer the first-half championship yesterday at Wrigley Field by defeating the Commercial Club in both ends of a double-header, 12 to 0, and 4 to 3.

Successive singles by White, Wells and Wilson broke up a hurling duel between Hollerson and Britt in the final inning of the nightcap. The first game, though, was a walkaway for the colored stars, who hammered Turner and Qunz for nineteen hits, including homers by Suttles, Dixon, Harris and White. Cooper pitched for the Giants and let the Clubmen down with five hits. Sensational fielding by Wells and Wright featured. Scores:

Bill Fiestner's Shell Oilers strengthened their hold on second place in the Winter League standings by taking a 12-to-7 slugfest from the Kelley Kars yesterday at Long Beach. The Shells bunched hits off Gabler in the third and fourth innings to pile up a nine-run lead. Darkness Halts Tie Net Match

With several brilliant matches being held, finals in the first annual Beverly Hills Tennis Club open junior tennis tournament were held on the club courts yesterday afternoon under the direction of Fred Alexander, former world's doubles champion, now a professional, and Milton Holmes. Cups in the four events were donated and presented by Wallace Smith.

The feature match of the day was the battle for the junior boys' singles, 18-years-and-under title, which was called because of darkness. Leonard Patterson, the third seeded star, had taken the first set from Billy Doeg, Pacific-Southwest junior champion, who was seeded first, by a 6-3 score. Patterson also led at four games to one in the second set and at 40-5 in the seventh game, but Doeg staged a sensational rally to cop the set at 6-4. The final was postponed until Saturday at 1 o'clock, when the affair will be played over.

Carolyn Babcock, seeded second in the girls' division, upset Dorothy Workman, ranked first, in the final match by a 6-3, 7-5 score. Both girls played well, but Miss Babcock outsteadied Miss Workman in the long run.

Frankie Parker, national boys' doubles champion, who was seeded third in the boys' singles 15-years-and-under, pulled another upset when he won the title in his division by defeating Jay Cohn, two-times national boys' singles titlist, in straight sets, 6-3, 8-6. May Doeg, seeded first in the girls' division, won her final battle by defeating her cousin, Dorothy Bundy, seeded second, after a hard three-set battle, 9-7, 4-6, 6-3.

Boys' singles 18 years and under—Boyd Georgi defeated Jess Millman, 5-7, 6-2, 6-3; Billy Doeg defeated Howard McDavitt, 6-3, 6-1; Leonard Patterson defeated Boyd Georgi, 6-4, 6-3.

Girls' singles 18 years and under—Jane Shapp defeated Gracyn Wheeler, 6-3, 4-6, 6-1; Dorothy Workman defeated Jane Sharp, 6-2, 6-4; Carolyn Babcock defeated Dorothy Workman, 6-3, 7-5.

GOLDEN STATE LAUDED ANEW

Panama Pacific Line to Tell World of Attractions

Novel Guide-book Sets Forth Charm and Opportunity

November Port Commerce Shows Slight Increase

BY WAYNE B. CAVE

California's charms and opportunities are to be set forth in a novel guidebook titled "California — a Guide to Newcomers" just off the presses and to be distributed in thousands of copies throughout the world by the Panama Pacific Line.

Under a vividly colored cover are 100 pages of rotogravure replete with pictures, rhyme and business prose describing impartially all sections of the State. The author is Winfield M. Thompson, field agent of the line.

In addition to much compressed information for the traveler, the book varies from the usual form of guide by providing enlightenment for prospective residents. Analyses are given of living conditions, climate, clothing, marketing, house rents, home building and financing, fruit culture and even chicken raising and such topics of interest to strangers.

One section is devoted to agriculture, with details on the State's $750,000,000 income from products of the soil. Another dwells on industry. There are historical highlights, the romance of the missions and the stories of oranges and gold and such.

A first edition of 50,000 copies will be distributed domestically and abroad by the line and affiliated steamship services.

HARBOR TRADE ESTIMATES GIVEN

November commerce in and out of Los Angeles Harbor totaled 1,675,588 tons, valued at $80,681,430, according to estimates last night by the Marine Exchange of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce. Values disclose a slight gain of $300,000 over October, but are almost $15,000,000 under values of November, 1929.

Coastwise trade disclosed the only gains over November, last year, shipments being $14,911,311, against $13,792,678, and receipts being $16,688,690, against $15,810,322.

Foreign exports were down a half to $6,572,845 and imports dropped a quarter to $2,742,835. Hawaiian shipments of $788,498 and receipts of $558,975 were off 25 per cent; while intercoastal shipments dropped from $17,202,087 to $10,484,291, and intercoastal receipts shaded off $2,000,000 to $27,933,935.

Oil shipments were off 500,000 barrels to 9,597,030. There were 655 arriving ships during the month, compared to 686 in November, last year.

Disruption of the Pacific Westbound Conference threatens with the resignations set for February 22, 1931, of the Oceanic and Oriental, the States Steamship and the Tacoma and Oriental lines. Dissatisfaction is declared based on the homeward rates, which do not come under the conference, such as silk from the Orient, the rate on which has dropped from $7 to $1 during the year. Other sore spots are copra rates from the Philippines and South Seas and various differentials to outports. The conference also faces a possible break with the Atlantic Far East Conference.

The Harbor Traffic Club will dine at the Breakers Hotel, Long Beach, tomorrow night and hear Col. Haskell of the Better America Federation of California, just returned from a study of economic and political conditions around the world. The Foreign Trade Club of Southern California, Inc., will elect seven directors on Thursday.

Six offshore passenger movements are listed for today. The Panama Pacific liner Pennsylvania and the Panama Mail liner El Salvador will sail for New York, and the Dollar liner President Cleveland will depart for the Orient. Arriving will be the N.Y.K. liner Ginyo Maru from South America, the Norwegian-owned Olsen liner Abraham Lincoln from Antwerp and the British-owned Furness motor liner Pacific Shipper from Manchester.

C. L. Wheeler, vice-president and general manager of the McCormick Steamship Company, will be down from San Francisco the 4th inst., to remain the rest of the week. He will preside at the directors' meeting of the State Chamber of Commerce on Thursday and Friday, will visit his terminals at the harbor, witness the U.S.C.-Notre Dame football game and return north.

Although Benny Lom's All-Stars, enlisted from the gridirons of California, St. Mary's, St. Ignatius and Santa Clara, will be slight favorites, Southland sympathy remains with the Longshoremen.

"GRUDGE BATTLE" AT CULVER CITY

Bruins Open Practice for Cage Season

With the football season behind, the U.C.L.A basketball squad will go into the most strenuous practice of the year this week in preparation for the opening of the practice-game season next week. The Bruins will play the Whittier Poets on the 12th inst., Friday night, in the season's opener, and will then go out to Claremont the following evening to meet the Pomona Sagehens.

As usual, Coach Caddy Works's squad figures to win all or nearly all of its practice games, particularly so this year. The canny Bruin mentor has the best material in U.C.L.A. athletic history, and will make a strong bid for the championship of the southern division of the Pacific Coast Conference.

KNOCKOUT IN FIFTH WINS FOR GUERRERO

Joe Guerrero scored a knockout victory over Stafford McCoy Saturday night at the Main-street Athletic Club. The end for Stafford came in the fifth round when Guerrero fighting at close quarters delivered the knockout punch, a right to the chest. In the other six-round bout, Joe Pimenthal scored a win over Luis Ramos via the decision route. Vincent Martinez knocked out Damaso Anchstegin in the second of a scheduled four-rounder. Pete Savedra and Harry Garbell drew in four rounds and Peter Pinna won a decision from Eddie Bagio in the curtain raiser.

PRODUCING & REFINING

IN THE EARTH

HUGE KEROSENE REFINER READY

Union to Start New Plant Unit Tomorrow

Project Said to Be Largest of Type in World

Capacity Per Day Reported at 7000 Barrels

The world's largest kerosene plant, a 900-ton Edelanu unit, capable of treating 7000 barrels of kerosene stock per day, will be put into operation at the Los Angeles refinery of the Union Oil Company tomorrow. Construction of the plant started six months ago. It is the second of its kind to be built by the Union Oil Company. The first, a 125-ton unit, was installed at its refinery at Oleum—near San Francisco—in 1926.

The kerosene developed by this process has found a ready market domestically and abroad. It is understood from Union officials that the output of the local plant will be used almost wholly for export.

From the standpoint of electrical control it is one of the most advanced refining units in the country. Its five vacuum pumps, five compressors operated by synchronous motors, and fourteen centrifugal pumps can be stopped or started by pushing a button at the master control board. Three men per shift can operate the plant.

The product of the plant is obtained by treating crude kerosene stocks with sulphur dioxide, which is removed along with the undesirable portions of the crude kerosene stocks during the final refining operations.

HUGE TEXAS AREA TAKEN FOR POTASH

American Corporation Takes Lease on Tract of 4000 Acres

Announcement was made at the El Paso offices of the Potash Corporation of America yesterday that the corporation had just acquired 4000 acres of mineral leases in Ector and Midland counties, Texas, and with the co-operation of the Bureau of Mines will explore the lands for potash deposits.

The exploration will be under the supervision of the government, which has been assisting potash companies in the Southwest in their drilling and surface work. When the potash deposits have been found and surveyed, the Potash Corporation of America will deepen the holes with the expectation of finding commercial oil and gas under the potash deposits.

The work for the potash corporation will be under the supervision of C. S. Peterson of Los Angeles, who has just been promoted to vice-president from secretary-treasurer, and placed in charge of the oil-and-gas division of the corporation.

Two Belridge Projects Make Good Headway

The Texas Company and the Associated Oil Company are both making good progress with wells they are drilling in the Belridge field.

Offsetting the Richfield Oil Company's well in the North Belridge district, the Texas Company has its J. D. Martin No. 1 down 2500 feet. This well is on Sec. 22, 27-20.

The Associated is drilling Ward No. 1 as a direct offset to the Belridge Oil Company's No. 15 producer. The Ward project is down 1500 feet.

New Fruitvale Well Completed

FRUITVALE, Nov. 30. (Exclusive) Flowing by heads, the L. C. Osborn-Forney No. 1 well on Section 11, 19-30, at Fruitvale, is doing 275 barrels of 21-deg. gravity oil from a depth of 4063 feet, following its completion November 19 for an initial flow of oil estimated at about 500 barrels, it is reported here. The oil registers a cut of approximately 20 per cent.

HUGE YULE FUND RELEASE PENDS

Bank of America to Distribute More Than $6,500,000 to Club Members

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30. (AP)—Californians will get more than $6,500,000 from the Bank of America National Trust and Savings Association tomorrow when the Christmas Club funds are distributed to 175,000 depositors.

The funds will be distributed in several hundred communities, where the bank has branches. Amounts released in San Francisco and Los Angeles will exceed $1,000,000 each and will total more than one-third of the entire amount.

KERN FIELD OPERATIONS REPORTED

Start of Three New Oil Wells Principal Event of Past Week

BAKERSFIELD, Nov. 30. (Exclusive)—Oil development activities during the past week in Kern county included spudding in three wells, testing the water shut-off in seven and redrilling two.

New wells reported are Standard Oil Company McPhail No. 1 on Section 36, 27-20, and Shell Oil Company "D," on Sec. 14, 28-20, Belridge and Superior Oil Company No. 1 on Sec. 32, 29-25, in the Goose Lake area.

Tests for water shut-off were made on Standard Oil Company's No. 112, Sec. 33, 31-24, Midway, and No. 118, Sec. 31, 12-23, Sunset; Texas Company's Martin No. 1, Sec. 22, 27-20; Ohio Oil Company's Bloemer No. 1, Sec. 36, 27-20, and Shell Oil Company's Core Hole "D," Sec. 14, 28-20, Belridge; General Petroleum Corporation's Sill No. 8, Sec. 26, 28-27, and California Star Oil Company's No. 1-40, Sec. 22, 28-27, Kern River.

NEVADA MINING DEAL REPORTED

RENO (Nev.) Nov. 30. (Exclusive) The Gold Coast Mines Company of Los Angeles has acquired the Mt. Lincoln group of seven gold-silver claims in the Como district, near Virginia City, and is planning comprehensive developments.

The vein-system of the district has long been considered closely allied with the Comstock Lode, and several properties have produced large amounts of gold and silver. The Mt. Lincoln is said to contain considerable ore of commercial character, with large areas of virgin country available for exploration. Former executives of the Tonopah Mining Company are interested in the corporation.

The Interstate Mining and Investment Company has completed construction of an electric power line to its properties at Como and resumed sinking of the shaft to the water level. From this point a drift will be extended to prospect a vein which yielded rich ore in an old shaft. The management intends to later provide more powerful pumps. The Pony Meadows and other companies are also active in the Como field, with Southern California capital interested in most of the corporations.

The ore body opened recently on the 120-foot level of the Sullivan mine at Manhattan by the Gold Metals Company of Los Angeles is developing splendidly, according to a statement given out in Reno by A. Homer Black, general manager. The vein on this level is thirty feet wide and samples $25 per ton.

The company is negotiating for the old War Eagle mill, located near the mine, and plans to convert it into a cyaniding plant. The ore is stated to be showing strength in the botom levels and is expected to persist to the andesite contact, several hundred feet from the present face. Future plans call for installation of a powerful pump and sinking of the shaft to greater depth.

SULPHURIC ACID OUTPUT LIMITED

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) Nov. 30. (Exclusive)—In the Calumet & Arizona smelter here is the only sulphuric acid production plant of the Southwest, started to provide acid for the leaching pits of the New Cornelia operations at Ajo, these recently abandoned.

The main consumer now is the Inspiration Copper Company of Miami, which has closed down its big mill and now wholly is producing by leaching operations. Some acid, of somewhat better grade, is furnished the Apache Powder Company, a corporation owned by the larger copper producers of Arizona, with a modern plant south of Benson, in this county.

Most of the local acid product is said to come from fumes from only a single roaster in the smelter yard. A former superintendent stated that enough acid for the nation could be produced were all the roasters harnessed for similar operation. Some of the pyritic copper ores of the State have about 25 per cent of sulphur, nearly all of this to be eliminated in the roasting and smelting operations, with much left to go through the stacks and be absorbed by the atmosphere.

At present there appears no way of making this sulphur a by-product of value, any more than value may attach to the thousands of tons of iron daily run by Arizona smelters into their slap dumps.

There has been little trouble over sulphur fumes, though financial arrangements have been made, in bygone days, by the mining companies with farmers. The city appears little affected, as the furnaces are at a distance. Only in the Verde Valley, around the works of the United Verde and United Verde Extension companies, has there been complaint that has resulted in litigation of material sort.

NEW FEATURE NOTED IN TEXAS OIL RULE

AUSTIN (Tex.) Nov. 30. (Exclusive)—The new State-wide proration order of the Railroad Commission which fixed the maximum allowable oil production at 680,232 barrels daily for the sixty-day period beginning the 25th inst., contains a new feature which invokes the common purchaser act and meets the Federal Trade Commission's exactions by authorizing pipe lines to interchange oil.

GOLD QUEST HELD REVIVING

Survey of Mother Lode in Tuolumne, Calaveras and Amador Counties Shows Activity Gaining

Ray D. Harris, who has been actively identified with Los Angeles stock-and-bond circles for more than ten years, has just returned from a three weeks' tour of inspection of mining districts along the Mother Lode in Tuolumne, Calaveras and Amador counties.

He reports that mining activity there, both in lode and placer properties, is undergoing a remarkable revival, with Los Angeles and Southern California capital playing a conspicuous part in the new era of development.

"As in the days of Civil War strife, when they poured forth their treasure and contributer in no small way to the preservation of the Union, the Mother Lode of California seems destined to help materially in relieving the present shortage of gold," says Mr. Harris.

ACTIVITY SURPRISES

"In a tour of the various camps in Tuolumne, Calaveras and Amador counties my observations amazed me, so great is the renewed and steadily increasing activity, particularly in Amador and Calaveras counties. I found that capital from all parts of the nation, but especially from Los Angeles and San Francisco, is taking hold of both old and new lode and placer properties and obtaining remarkably good results in most instances. The mine and claim owners are doing their bit to help the situation by turning over their properties on attractive terms to incoming capital.

"Jackson, in Amador county, is a particularly active center of operations. There are located the famous Argonaut and Kennedy mines. While it is not generally known, the Argonaut mine is controlled by interests closely affiliated with one of the big automobile factories, a giant of the automobile industry.

"At a depth of 5800 feet on the dip of the vein, or a vertical depth of around 4200 feet, the Argonaut is opening up on ore body running better than $25 a ton for over fifty feet, and with only one wall of the vein exposed. The real magnitude of the discovery is yet to be determined.

GOOD RESULTS

"At similar depth the Kennedy is obtaining excellent results. Both companies are operating mills at capacity and profits are rapidly piling up. Due particularly to these ore disclosures at great depth other properties not only at Jackson but for miles north and south are sinking or preparing to do so.

"Among the properties I visited in which Los Angeles capital is heavily interested, is the Boundary Cone Consolidated at Mokelumne Hill. The company has done a great deal of development work on its placer estate and the conditions I found prevailing there indicate that it should attract much attention from now on. From the bottom of a 500-foot incline shaft, which gives a vertical depth of 200 feet, the management has extended laterals along the bedrock in exploratory operations. Gravel of varying value has been found.

PLACER PROMISING

"At the time of my visit about a week ago, one of these laterals was exposing rich pay dirt and indications justifying the belief that the main gold-bearing channel is being entered or approached. Two prospector's pans of dirt weighing twenty pounds each, yielded small nuggets and dust having a value of at least 50 cents to the pan. I saw the gravel dug and placed in the pans and observed the panning.

"The property is equipped with a 200-ton daily capacity gravel washing machine and necessary sluice boxes, and everything is in readiness for extensive washing when the development of the new pay channel has been advanced sufficiently for breasting.

"In the same locality William Prather of Beverly Hills recently took over the Casey lode property on Lookout Mountain. Within a few days thereafter he installed a compressor and air drills, and is now making fast progress in extending a tunnel. Rock being extracted is carrying encouraging values and the future of the property, which is being operated as a private enterprise, seems bright."

TEXAS OIL CONCERN SOLD TO MARATHON

DEL RIO (Tex.) Nov. 30. (Exclusive)—The 4200-barrel refinery here of the Del Rio Refining Company and the holdings of the Eagle Distributing Company have been sold to the Marathon Oil Company, subsidiary of the Ohio Oil Company, for a reported consideration of $1,000,000. The plant will probably be enlarged. Included in the transfer are forty-three filling stations in this part of Texas.

WORK SUSPENDED ON WELL INDEFINITELY

Drilling on the Cochrane No. 7 well, near Naples, twenty-six miles north of Santa Barbara, has been suspended indefinitely, while operators and geologists confer. The hole is at 4362 feet.

NEW COPPER PLANT BUSY AT CLIFTON

Phelps Dodge Smelter Active in Turning Out Red Metal Castings

CLIFTON (Ariz.) Nov. 30. (Exclusive)—Many cast copper articles now are being manufactured at the Clifton smelter of the Phelps Dodge Corporation and are being sold direct to dealers. Orders have been filled from the Marshall Field store at Chicago for such items as book ends, made in a variety of artistic designs.

The local smelter has been experimenting for months on direct marketing of a part of its product. Much of the production is of copper that has close approximation to purity and which is available at once for casting. Nearly all Arizona smelted copper needs to be sent east or to El Paso for purification in electrolytic refining plants, which separate gold, silver and other valuable metallic elements, while at the same time there is rejection of the small percentage of valueless material.

At Inspiration also is produced copper of near approximation to absolute purity, this in a leaching plant, in which success has been known in handling semisulphides, in combination with the surface oxide ores. Here most of the production is from the smelting of sulphide concentrates from the corporation's great Morenci mill.

MINES NEWS AT KINGMAN TOLD

KINGMAN (Ariz.) Nov. 30. (Exclusive)—Several small faults are reported to have been cut in Tom Reed Oatman workings on the 1100 level, where a crosscut is out about 300 feet on the way toward the Aztec vein. The vein already is being developed on the 800 level, with ore showings in lenses of good size. Much water is being handled, but the shaft pumping equipment is reported ample.

There is report of a new stock issue by United American, to assure funds for work now in progress toward connection with Tom Reed workings and better access to the property's ore, in continuation of the Aztec enrichment. There has been suggestion that economy might be secured by operation of the American through the Reed shaft.

From the management of Big Jim has come suggestion that a leasing plan is probable on the property, one similar to that in effect for years past on the Tom Reed claims. Work is to start soon on diamond drill exploration from the Big Jim 500 level toward the Aztec vein, reported to cross Big Jim's side lines. One of the holes is to incline to 900 feet of vertical depth, in an effort to contact with the vein.

Reorganization is reported under way of the United Republic Mines Company, which has a group in the southern part of the Oatman section and another in the north end of the Wallapai Mountains.

Important road work is under way on the Boriana property, to the new mill and to the portal of the 2000-foot tunnel. A large tonnage of tungsten ore is stated as ready for stoping and for milling.

IDAHO-MARYLAND EXPANDS

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 30. (Exclusive)—The Idaho-Maryland Company has reconditioned its Brunswick twenty-stamp mill near Grass Valley, and is arranging to ship to the plant from its main properties. Motor trucks will be used in ore transportation. Before the end of December the management expects to have the Idaho-Maryland and Brunswick mills crushing around forty tons of ore daily. The product is expected to average better than $18 per ton in gold. Development of the Doresy vein is reported to have placed a large tonnage of splendid ore in sight, with the reserves sufficient to assure steady production several years.

Development of a five-foot ledge of gold ore sampling $15 per ton is reported by the owners of the historic Amosky mine, five miles northeast of Oroville. The strike was made below the faulted area on the 600-foot level, and the new find is believed to be the continuation of the ore body which produced a large tonnage of rich ore years ago. It is planned to deepen the shaft 220 feet, open new levels, and develop the vein comprehensively. Early production is contemplated.

Development of the Sierra Queen gold group near Oroville, has exposed five veins of promising ore, according to the management. A hoist, compressor and three-stamp mill have been installed, and it is planned to build a larger reduction plant when the present development campaign has been finished.

The Dix Butte Company, working placers in the Magalia district of Butte county, reports a substantial body of profitable gravel exposed, and is preparing for production. The channel has been opened by a 3500-foot tunnel and 175-foot raise, and is claimed to show considerable coarse gold. Equipment has been installed and late storms have provided water for sluicing. Many Southern Californians are interested in the company, which has been developing the placers nearly two years.

LEASE TAKEN IN WILDCAT FIELD

Argus Oil Gets 1600 Acres of Rancho Mugu

Exploration Due for Start Early in January

Location Already Selected for First Hole

More than 1600 acres of Rancho Mugu, formerly known as Royal Palms, in the vicinity of Oxnard, has been leased by the Argus Oil Company, Ltd., for oil exploration shortly after the turn of the year. The first wildcat well is to be drilled on the south end of the Utt Development Company's ranch.

The lease calls for the customary royalty, with no rent the first six months and $1 and $2 per acre each month thereafter. Drilling is to start within sixty days. Among the oil men who are reported to be interested in the drilling campaign are George Gage and C. B. Edington of Los Angeles, W. A. Bushon of Portland, Or., and A. J. Belport and R. P. Trimble.

The land was geologized by A. J. Belport, Jr., and the work checked by Dr. Noel Stearn. The Argus Oil Company did some of the original exploratory work in the Poso Creek oil field and was an early explorer at Venice.

PAY ROLL OF RAY COPPER ESTATE CUT

Sharp Slash in Working Personnel Announced by Nevada Consolidated

RAY (Ariz.) Nov. 30. (Exclusive) Several hundred men have been cut from the pay roll of the Ray branch of the Nevada Consolidated Copper Company, with a corresponding decrease in personnel at the corporation's great mill at Hayden. Decrease of tonnage is reported to have been at least 40 per cent.

At one time the train delivery of ore at Hayden approximated 10,000 tons a day. Mining costs here have been brought to a low level [illegible] efficiency in caving operations, shown on the surface by the dropping of large sections of the hillside that rises to the westward of the camp and of Mineral Creek. Delivery of the ore to the spreaders that work above the train delivery bins is almost automatic.

Material improvements also have been made at the mill, in processes and in equipment, and costs there have been cut to a degree considered remarkable, in view of the average low grade of the material handled.

One feature of local operations lies in the long-hole method of prospect drilling, with statement that 700 holes have been drilled to ninety feet of depth. By this method is being secured much data of value in development and at much lower cost than in the older prospecting methods.

COPPER REFINERY CURTAILS OUTPUT

EL PASO (Tex.) Nov. 30. (Exclusive)—Tonnage of the Nichols Copper Company's refinery here has been reduced from 8500 tons of copper a month to 6600 tons, according to Charles W. Nichols, chairman of the company's board of directors. He states that hope is entertained that no further curtailment of production will be found necessary.

NOTED OLD GUNSIGHT TO REOPEN

Preparations Reported Making for Operations on Large Scale

AJO (Ariz.) Nov. 30. (Exclusive) Preparations are being made for extensive operations at the historic Gunsight mine, sixteen miles east of Ajo. The property had croppings of almost pure silver, the name gained when a prospector hammered a piece into a sight for his rifle.

Installation is being made of a fifty-horsepower oil engine to furnish power for an air compressor, from which 600 feet of line have been extended into the mine. A 120-horsepower Deisel is on the ground to be used for operation of a new mill and for power for the pumps situated at Wall's well, five miles away.

There also is a thirty-five-horsepower gasoline engine. The ores, said to be in large supply, mainly are galena, sampling high in lead and with a fair silver assay. Walter S. Wheeler of Detroit, is manager and J. D. Mitchell of Chandler, Ariz., is superintendent.

LARGER OUTPUT ON MINE SLATE

TONOPAH (Nev.) Nov. 30. (Exclusive)—The Gold Hill Development Company is arranging to enlarge its shaft, preliminary to more extensive work and handling of a large tonnage of ore, according to reports received from Round Mountain. November production is said to have approximated $24,000. The working force has been reduced, and it is reported that developments will be halted until the enlarged shaft is finished.

The Southern Investment Company has ceased work on the Mina Mercury property, east of Mina, and laid off the force of miners. It is reported that work will be resumed when refinancing of the corporation is completed. The company is composed of Los Angeles people and had been working the old producer several months. The market for quicksilver has slumped to $106 per flask, compared with $124 a few weeks ago, and many producers have recently reported little demand for the metal.

The Delamar Gold Extraction Company plans to start work on immense piles of tailings at the old Delamar mine before the end of this year, according to Supt. Henry Green. The company has arranged for construction of a large mill, and exhaustive tests are said to have indicated an excellent gold recovery. Underground work in the famous old mine will probably be undertaken later. Several companies have recently become interested in the district, with Los Angeles and Salt Lake capital said to be backing most of the projects.

The Red Rock Quicksilver Company in the Mt. Montgomery district, is arranging for resumption of production. The management for several months has centered all efforts on development of new ore and is understood to have uncovered several shoots of rich cinnabar. The property has been noted for its high-grade product and is owned by Los Angeles interests.

Large Increase in Rail Taxes Cited to Club

MATTOON (Ill.) Nov. 30. (Exclusive)—"In the year 1929 the railroads of this country paid $13.32 in taxes every second of time throughout the year, which meant $799 a minute, $47,945 an hour and more than $1,150,000 every day," declared C. D. Morris of Chicago in an address before the Rotary Club here.

"This made a total tax bill for the year," continued Morris, "of approximately $420,000,000, which had to be taken from the net operating revenues of the railroads before a dollar could be paid to their stockholders in the way of dividends or a single dollar be laid aside for extensions and betterments. Railroad taxes have increased 302 per cent since 1911, while investment in their properties increased but 74 per cent. From these statistics it would appear that, so far as taxes are concerned, our railroads are in a class all by themselves."

Empire Gas Completes Best Producer of Week

Daily Output Estimated at About 7000 Barrels

ARTESIA (N. M.) Nov. 30. (Exclusive)—Oil interest in Southeastern New Mexico now is divided between the wildcats and the Hobbs pool, since development has slackened in the Hobbs area. Only twelve drilling wells are left in the Hobbs pool, since three producers were recently completed.

One of the best wells recently finished is Hardin No. 3 of the Empire Gas and Fuel Company on Sec. 19, 18-38. It gauged 7700 barrels daily on a one-hour test, from 4220 feet. Fowler No. 1 of the Midcontinent Oil Company on Sec. 31, 18-38, is estimated at 3000 barrels, from 4224 feet. The Humble Oil and Refining Company has State No. 2-A and State No. 3-A about ready for a test.

The Bill Meyer No. 1 of the Continental Oil Company on Sec. 28, 22-36, in the Eunice area south of Hobbs, may be completed as a gasser, since trouble has developed in trying to shut off the water found at 3842 feet. The operators are attempting to drill out the cement in the tubing at 3110 feet. Other wells drilling in the Eunice sector have not reached interesting depths.

In Eddy county the F. W. and Y. Oil Company has started drilling a second well south of the Phillips Petroleum Company camp in the Artesia field. It will be used in repressuring operations. The first repressure well was completed in this area several months ago.

South of the Artesia field the Getty Oil Company is installing independent pumping units in three of the producers that furnish road oil to the State Oil and Refining Company's plant at Dayton. The largest of the Getty producers has not been pumped since filling an 80,000-barrel storage tank on the lease.

FISH PARASITES GIVEN MUSEUM

Glochidia of Mollusks to Be Further Studied

Only High Death Rate Keeps Them From Being Peril

If All Lived Rivers Would Soon Be Clogged

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30. (NANA) Nearly 2,000,000 specimens have been added to the zoological collection of the National Museum here.

Approximately 1,265,920 of these animals were contained in a mass of three-quarters of a cubic inch at the bottom of a tiny glass vial. Another 568,000 occupied a half-cubic inch in a similar vial.

Yet they are the young of relatively enormous creatures, said Dr. Paul Bartsch, curator of mollusks, and only an extraordinary death rate among them makes it possible for the great North American rivers to flow to the sea unhampered. And they have one of the weirdest life stories found in animal creation.

HATCH IN GILLS

The little vials contained the glochidia of two fresh-water mollusks of the Upper Mississippi Valley—the Lampsilis Anodon and the Quadrula Tuberculata. They are the pearly fresh-water mollusks used in the pearl button industry and, together with their close relatives, are one of the greatest resources of the fresh waters of Eastern North America, says Dr. Bartsch. The shells of the adult may be from three to four inches in diameter.

These creatures begin life, Dr. Bartsch explained, when they hatch from the eggs in the gills of the adult mollusk. They are retained in the gills until they reach the so-called glochidial stage, represented by the present specimens. Then they are cast forth into the water to shift for themselves.

Each has already a paired shell, like an adult clam or oyster. But the little creature is not prepared yet to make its independent way in the world. The blind, helpless, microscopic organism lies, back down, on the bottom, its shell open, and a fine mucous thread arising from the body and protruding upward in the water.

A fish comes browsing along. The body of the fish brushes against the thread which immediately attaches itself and contracts, drawing upward the little glochidium. When the creature comes in contact with the fins or gills or scales of the fish the shell snaps together, firmly attaching the parasite to its host. The whole happening is too insignificant to attract the attention of the fish. Everything goes like clockwork.

BECOMES PARASITE

But a little spot of irritation is created which then is acted upon by a juice secreted by the glochidium. This eats away a little cavity in the tissue of the fish in which the developing mollusk secretes itself and dwells in comfort and safety until it has developed sufficiently to venture upon an independent life of its own. At the end of its parasite stage it drops out of the body of the fish.

The fish, Dr. Bartsch points out, serves the microscopic creature not only as a home but as a means of transportation. In this way, a species is distributed over a considerable area, limited only by the habitat of its host.

One of the most curious facts, Dr. Bartsch says, is that each species of mollusk appears to attach itself to only one variety of fish. Dr. Bartsch himself demonstrated this with the glochidia of sand clams and goldfish. The little creatures climbed onto the gills and fins of the goldfish, but in twenty-four hours all had dropped off. It just wasn't their kind of fish.

This, the doctor says, is of great importance to industry because it makes it necessary, in order to introduce a new variety of mollusk in a region, to have there already the sort of fish the mollusk will accept as the host of its parasite days. It will die rather than benefit by the hospitality of the wrong fish.

All this behavior, Dr. Bartsch points out, cannot be interpreted as purposive activity on the part of the individual glochidium, which is far from the level of anything akin to consciousness, but is merely an example of the marvelously intricate mechanism of nature, developed through evolution, for the development and adaptation of life.

DIE BY BILLIONS

During this process, he explained, there are many missteps on the part of the glochidia—and it would be a sad day for the world if this were not the case. Actually they perish by the billions. Otherwise the adults with their big shells soon would clog up all the streams, which would be forced out of their channels over the countryside, and the whole economy of nature would be disrupted.

The specimens were transferred to the National Museum from the Bureau of Fisheries, to which Dr. Bartsch was formerly attached, in charge of the survey of the pearl mussel industry ordered by Congress in 1907.

While these varieties are of particular value in the button industry, varieties with similar life habits abound over the North American continent. Some are equipped with barbed hooks—wicked-looking appliances under the microscope—with which the glochidia attach themselves to the fish they select as hosts.

BALLOT FRAUD CHARGES MADE

New Mexico Reveling in Post-Election Fights

Some County Contests Put Under Legal Lens

State Ticket Not Affected by Bitter Battles

SANTA FE (N. M.) Nov. 30. (Exclusive)—Although seers have predicted for the last several years that the constant flood of emigration chiefly from Texas and Oklahoma would leaven the ideas of the populace of New Mexico to a point where politics would cease to be the all-consuming major topic of interest, the recent election has brought about frantic interest in this perennial topic again with charges and counter-charges of vote frauds, illegal casting of absentee ballots, vote buying and all the rest of the post-election thunder New Mexico delights in.

Recounts and court investigations are now going on in McKinley county in West Central New Mexico, in parts of Bernalillo county, of which Albuquerque is the county seat, Socorro county, and minor precinct fights in a half-dozen odd places. One precinct in Rio Arriba county, a northern border county, failed to get any vote at all as the poll books did not arrive in time.

Charges that ballot boxes were tampered with after the original count by the friends of the losing candidates are being made daily. The winners claim that they won fair and square, but that the losers tampered with the boxes and then demanded recounts. The whole State ticket won by such large majorities that only county candidates are affected by the post-election squabbles.

The newspapers of the State are running frantic editorials demanding somebody be jailed, fined or otherwise punished without indicating just who should be so favored. Indications are that the ballot fraud noise will be kept up until Legislature convenes in January when new thunder will be available to amuse the citizenry and excite the political writers and country store wiseacres.

Mexico Makes Loans to Needy

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 30. (Exclusive)—The Mexican government has taken the lead in providing relief to the unemployed peasant class during the economic depression.

Rather than leave those in need of financial aid to the mercy of private charity, President Pascual Ortiz Rubio has ordered the Ministry of Finance to provide 1,000,000 pesos for the purpose of making loans to the needy.

The President's initiative in taking this step received warm praise from the newspapers.

AIR TRAVELERS WILL GET RADIO SERVICE

ROME, Nov. 30. (AP)—Public wireless service from Italian air liners is to be inaugurated soon. The managements of commercial air lines say passengers generally are business men in a hurry or tourists, and they believe the first category of travelers need wireless service and the second will appreciate the novelty of sending air messages.

HOW TO RECOGNIZE A GOOD UTILITY BOND

No. 5 of a series of advertisements

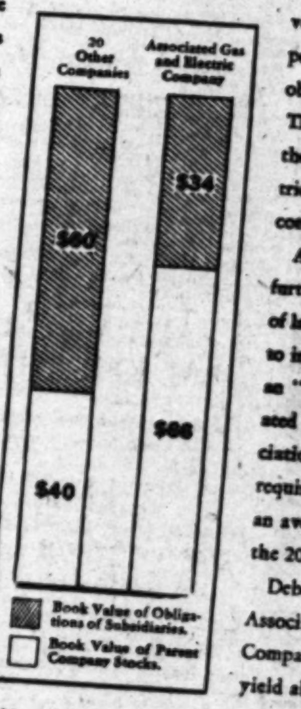
43% Less Obligations of Subsidiaries

THE SAFETY of a holding company debenture bond depends largely upon the amount of mortgage and prior charge securities of subsidiaries. A small amount of subsidiary company obligations increases the earnings directly applicable to the holding company bonds—creating a strength like that of a house built upon a rock.

The ratio of the book value of obligations of subsidiaries of Associated Gas and Electric Company to the book value of parent company stocks is 43% less than a ratio of a composite average for 20 leading utilities. This ratio shows only $34 of subsidiary obligations in contrast with $60 as appears on the chart.



Equally important, the Associated Company has a ratio of $66 of parent company stocks to subsidiary company obligations compared with the average of $40 for the group. The strength of this situation is seen in the fact that the Associated Company could nearly triple its outstanding obligations of subsidiaries and still show as favorable a relationship as that of the 20 companies in the chart as a group.

The Associated Company's policy of retiring securities of subsidiaries has resulted in above average safety for its bonds.

Associated debenture bonds offer the investor diversity—that important factor so difficult to obtain in mortgage bonds. The operating properties of the Associated Gas and Electric Company serve in 2,300 communities in 21 states.

Associated bond holders further enjoy the advantage of larger earnings in relation to interest requirements. On an "overall" basis, Associated earnings before depreciation are 2.22 times interest requirements compared with an average of 2.06 times for the 20 other utilities.

Debenture bonds of the Associated Gas and Electric Company are available to yield about 6%.

HERE'S THE BIG CHANCE:

This is an electric-mechanical age. Factory moving in modern tempo and supplying a product that meets this new demand requires additional capital for expansion. Orders coming in and big government purchase under negotiation. This business developed and not experimental. A thoroughly business-like and clean cut proposition. An exceptional opportunity for a serious investor keen enough to appreciate the merit of a reliable business. 802 Bank of Hollywood Bldg.

gold

Today, with one exception, practically every industry is suffering from over-production...with low prices and unprofitable business as a consequence. The one exception is GOLD. Not only is there today a world shortage but production is steadily decreasing. We invite inquiries from those who can afford to join in the venture of developing these promising gold prospects. The officers of the company have been identified with leaders in the mining industry. No free or promotion shares have, or ever will be, issued.

PARACHUTE JUMPER GETS ADDED THRILL

RICHMOND, Nov. 30. (AP)—Donald Shoemaker, 24 years of age, made his first parachute jump today. He isn't very anxious to make another. He "bailed out" at an altitude of 3000 feet. He pulled the rip cord but the 'chute failed to open. A thousand feet farther down he tried again. It worked. His jump was inspired by a similar feat of his twin-brother, Dave Shoemaker, at Dos Palos a week ago.

COTTON FOR CHRISTMAS SUGGESTED

Commerce Department Requests Gift Buyers to Aid Textile Industry

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30. (AP)—Christmas gifts made of cotton were suggested today by the Commerce Department as a means of relieving unemployment in the textile industry.

Authorized by Congress to find new uses for cotton, the department's textile division called attention to many novel and useful gifts and added that their purchase would benefit the cotton industry.

Suggesting many of the more prosaic necessities for the home or individuals be added to the Christmas list, the department said:

"By adopting such a plan, the joy and spirit of Christmas will be measurably increased and, perhaps more important, shared with those who so sorely need the employment which generous buying of necessities assures."

The textiles division issued "It's a Gift," a booklet listing approximately 300 articles containing cotton suitable for Christmas gifts.

It suggested something for everyone ranging from airplanes with cotton fabric wings down to bean bags, bibs for baby and the very latest in fashionable wear—cotton net hose with lisle or silk heels.

Monkey Used by Chicago Burglar to Get Plunder

CHICAGO, Nov. 30. (AP)—A monkey, according to police, is the latest accessory of the up-to-date Chicago burglar. At least officers say that tiny footprints are conducive to this belief.

Summoned after Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Shorr returned home tonight and found jewelry valued at $12,000 missing, detectives found the prints on the floor and the wall next to an opening used in passing parcels from the back porch into the kitchen of the Shorr apartment.

The back door was found unlocked, and detectives said it seemed likely that a trained monkey had been sent through the parcel door, too small to admit a man, to open a way for its master.

Smoking Rooms for Passengers in Planes Urged

LONDON, Nov. 30. (AP)—Smoking rooms soon may be among the conveniences of British airplanes.

Imperial Airways has applied to the Air Ministry for permission to allow smoking in new 40-place biplanes to be put into service on European and empire routes.

The design of the planes provides a fireproof smoking room, large enough to seat twenty people, separated from another compartment for those who do not wish to smoke.

Police Hurt in Hyde Park Riot

LONDON, Nov. 30. (AP) — Five policemen were injured and an unrecorded number of persons were clubbed by officers during a riot in Hyde Park late tonight.

The incident occurred as police were attempting to arrest some rowdies outside the park. These ran inside and mingled with the crowds around the soap-box orators who, by tradition, are permitted to voice their grievances at a prescribed place near the marble arch.

POLAND PUTS BAN ON PASTORAL LETTER

WARSAW, Nov. 30. (AP)—Poland's appeal to the religious groups within her borders to aid the government in suppressing lawlessness, is not meeting with entire success, it is evident by official action in suppressing several pastoral letters.

The Metropolitan Szeptycki, chief of the Ukrainian Church, recently visited Warsaw, where the government urged him to issue a pastoral letter condemning sabotage.

At first demurring on the ground that such actions were of Bolshevistic origin, the head of the church finally sent out a letter. The pastoral, co-authored by two other dignitaries of Ukrainia, did not meet the government's ideas and it was suppressed.

PLATICAS DE LOS LUNES

POR EL PROF. R. GUERRERO

Encargado de la Sección Española de Este Diario

En el cuarto párrafo del cuento que estamos comentando, nos dice la escritora: "Tantas comodidades reunía el palacio, que, más que una vivienda de personas, parecía morada de duendes." Los "duendes" (elves or goblins) son espíritus que, cree el vulgo, habitan en algunas casas y travesean en ellas inquietando a los moradores con el mucho ruido que hacen de noche y los trastornos que causan. "Andar uno como un duende" o "parecer uno un duende" es aparecerse en los parajes donde no se le esperaba.

Presumo que no carecerá de interés para mis lectores el folklore de los duendes. Tómome, por tanto, la libertad de transcribir aquí lo que sobre el particular nos dice la Enciclopedia de Espasa: Con el nombre de "duendes" se designan en las tradiciones populares unos seres fantásticos, enanos o de pequeña estatura, si bien ésta, según la fantasía popular, es una simple apariencia que los duendes cambian a voluntad. Se les considera como seres intermedios entre los espíritus y los hombres, y con poderes sobrenaturales, como los que se atribuyen a los hechiceros y a las brujas. Este poder mágico les permite adoptar diferentes formas o comunicarlas a los mortales, y hacerse invisibles mediante una capa, un sombrero, o cualquier prenda u objeto.

Viven en comunidad, ocupados con preferencia en la metalurgia, como los gnomos o "kobolds" de la mitología germánica, o permanecen aislados como el "leprechawn" irlandés. La habilidad metalúrgica que se les atribuye se explica por lo misterioso de este arte en las primeras edades de la humanidad, y porque se supone que los duendes viven, en general, bajo la tierra, de donde se extraen los metales.

En el Edda se distinguen dos clases: los duendes blancos o "liosalfar", que viven sobre la tierra, y los negros o "dockalfar", que habitan en viviendas subterráneas. El país por ellos habitado se ha situado en diversos lugares. En Irlanda se identificaba como los montículos funerarios conocidos por "sid", y Gervasio de Tilbury dice que se entraba a dicho país por un pasaje subterráneo.

En otras tradiciones el país de los duendes está en islas fabulosas o en las águas de ciertos ríos, lagos o mares, y es accesible por pozos o por excavaciones profundas. También se ha representado este país como íntimamente unido al nuestro, pero invisible a los mortales.

Los salvajes de las islas Fidji creen en duendes del mar, a los que rinden culto secreto, mientras en Nueva Guinea suponen que existe un pueblo subterráneo habitado por los duendes, semejante al "ingal" de Nueva Bertaña y como él, maléfico y peligroso. En cambio, los célebres "jinn" o "jan" de los árabes, mencionados ya en las "Mil y una noches", también invisibles, viajan en las nubes tempestuosas de arena y sólo se les puede dominar por el hierro o con la evocación de nombres divinos. El pueblo, para congraciarse con ellos, les llama "mubarakin" o "los benditos".

Los duendes son hermosos y bien proporcionados, como los de algunas leyendas españolas, o feos y, en ocasiones, contrahechos, como los "kobolds" germánicos; sus vestidos son verdes, rojos o pardos, como los de los gnomos, o grises como los de las leyendas alemanas. Tienen gran afición a la música, el canto y el baile, a los que se dedican durante la noche, y, en ocasiones, engañan a los mortales llevándolos a sus danzas nocturnas o arrastrándolos a su reino.

Si se les hace algún daño, son vengativos y crueles: golpean, hacen tropezar y caer al que los ha molestado, o le producen graves enfermedades o la muerte. Roban el ganado, dejando en su lugar otro ilusorio, y, en ocasiones, hacen caminar a los mortales durante la noche, recorriendo largas distancias, y hasta les sirven de cabalgadura, cuando no los atormentan de distintos modos. Desaparecen con el alba, pues les disgusta que los sorprendan los mortales. Si éstos llegan a hacerlo, aquellos los embrujan, ofuscan o ciegan. En uno de sus "Caprichos" pone Goya el siguiente comentario a esta escena por él representada: "Luego que amanece, huyen, cada cual por su lado, brujas, duendes, visiones y fantasmas."

SUPERVISORS TO ORGANIZE

New County Board Begins Duties at Noon Today

Wright, Quinn Opponents for Presiding Office

System of Controlling Affairs Likely to Be Changed

HENRY W. WRIGHT

With the chairmanship doubtful up to the last the new Board of Supervisors of Los Angeles county, largest county governing body in the country, is to be organized at noon today.

When the clock strikes 12 Supervisors Graves and Beaty will relinquish their seats to the two new members, J. Don Mahaffey, who defeated Graves for re-election in the Third District, and Hugh A. Thatcher, successful candidate in the First District. Beaty was not a candidate for re-election.

As soon as the new members have taken their oath of office, the business of reorganizing the new board and the selection of a chairman will begin.

TWO IN CONTEST

With Supervisor Shaw announcing on Saturday his withdrawal as a candidate for chairman, the contest simmered down to one between Supervisor Wright, oldest member of the board from the standpoint of service, and Supervisor Quinn, who is serving out the unexpired term of the late R. F. McClelland, who died last May.

JOHN R. QUINN

If the rumors about the Hall of Records are true, Wright has the better chance of being elected, for it is asserted that both Mahaffey and Thatcher have pledged their support to him. Wright was appointed to office by the Governor on June 20, 1921. He has been chairman of the finance committee of the board.

With the reorganization there probably will be some changes in departmental control of affairs of the board. Practically all of the members favor three-men committees instead of one man having charge. This will give each member a chairmanship of some department, or committee, with two helpers. The present system of one man handling each department dates back to the days when the county was much smaller.

The new system also would keep members of the board in closer touch with the affairs of each department, its proponents say.

The business of county government in Los Angeles county has grown by leaps and bounds within the last few years. Not only does the board make the county's laws, but it supervises expenditures amounting to $131,000,000 in annual tax receipts, more than is paid by

Throng Sees Dramatic Return

Pastor Wan and Weak as She Hears Plaudits
Mrs. McPherson reappears on Angelus Temple platform supported by her son Rolf.

ACCLAIM FOR EVANGELIST

Mrs. McPherson, Appearing at Temple, Greeted by Applause That Rocks Structure

A new Aimee Semple McPherson returned to Angelus Temple yesterday to receive a tremendous ovation from her followers.

She had the face and figure of a co-ed and the same radiant smile as of old, although months of illness had left her pale and apparently so weak she was unable to stand without leaning on the shoulder of her son Rolf.

Her appearance, the first at the temple in nearly four months, was intensely dramatic.

It was near the close of the morning service, when the anticipations of a standing-room audience had been fanned almost to fever heat by speakers who assured the faithful that their leader would appear within a few moments.

DRAMATIC APPEARANCE

At the psychological moment the pulpit was moved aside, the plush curtains parted slowly and a baby-spotlight was focused on the right side of the platform. The temple symphony orchestra struck up an appropriate air and an instant later the evangelist, supported by her stalwart son, walked slowly into view. She was attired in a long white robe upon the bosom of which was a glistening cross.

Her appearance was the cue for cheers which fairly rocked the temple. Six girls scattered rose petals upon her blond head from above and, as the applause continued, tears streamed down the evangelist's cheeks. She was unable to speak for a moment and appeared to be on the verge of a collapse. Then she smiled and, in a weak voice, expressed her gratitude for the welcome. A temple official mounted the rostrum and silently presented her with a huge bouquet of red roses as a token of love from her followers.

Her words of greeting and appreciation were few and scarcely audible. She spoke briefly of her illness and dwelt mainly with her

REMEDY FOR FOREST FIRE PERILS TOLD

Education and Strict Law Enforcement Declared to Be Essential in County

"Education and strict law enforcement are necessary in the prevention of forest and brush fires," says a report just issued by the County Conservation Association. The report says that nearly every destructive fire in the county in the past ten years was caused by human carelessness.

"Although approximately 94 per cent of forest and brush fires in the county have been caused by human beings in the past ten years, California as a whole had but 78.9 per cent of man-caused fires during the same period," says the statement. "This records Los Angeles county slightly more than 15 per cent above the average number of fires in this classification."

In commenting on the study, George H. Cecil, executive secretary of the association, said that the only successful method of combating heavy fire losses in the county is through a program of education.

"The fact that man-caused fires are, as a class, more susceptible to eradication through education than those caused by natural forces over which man has no control, indicates that Los Angeles county may ultimately minimize her fire problem, in spite o fthe great natural fire hazards here," Cecil said. "These hazards are chiefly in the proximity of forests to large centers of population and the long, dry, warm summer and fall season."

The report emphasizes the finding that smokers and careless burning of brush were the two principal sources of blazes during the past decade in the county, contributing 750 out of the 1816 conflagrations. Camp fires were the third largest group, but these, the survey indicates, have shown a marked tendency to decrease in recent years.

Most offenders against the forest-fire laws reside within the county, it is believed, as all but seventy of a total of 871 arrests made for this class of offense during 1929 were of county residents.

TEN BADLY HURT IN TRAFFIC

Three May Die of Fractured Skulls and Seven Others Seriously Injured in Crashes

Three persons received fractured skulls which are expected to cause their death and seven other persons were seriously injured in traffic accidents yesterday. Following two of the accidents, which were collisions, the driver of one of the colliding cars was arrested.

Failing to make a boulevard stop, according to witnesses, at Cerrito street and Zinn Road in Downey, Thomas Walker of 1109 West Fourth street, Santa Ana, drove his machine into a Ford truck in which G. E. Hicks and his wife Mary, of 919 Foster Road, Downey, were riding. The truck was wrecked and Mr. and Mrs. Hicks each sustained a fractured skull. At the Valley Hospital in Downey, it was said they are not expected to live. After getting the stories of witnesses, Deputy Sheriffs Hutchison and Brown took Walker to the County Jail to await the outcome of his victims' injuries.

Manuel Moulton, 24 years of age of 1044 Byron street, suffered left leg and knee fractures when the motorcycle he was riding collided with a car driven by Cullen Long of 2037 West Forty-third street at Valencia street and Venice Boulevard.

Eugene Schoelinger, 22, of 5913 Chicago avenue, Lawnsdale, suffered a fractured right leg when his motorcycle collided with a machine driven by Howard Beach of 1537½ West Avenue 46 at Ninety-fourth and Hoover streets. Both were given emergency treatment at Georgia-street Receiving Hospital and later sent to the General Hospital.

L. Mealey, 42, a switchman of 3420 Berwick street, suffered a skull fracture which may cause his death when he was struck down by an automobile at Vernon avenue and Alameda street. He was given emergency treatment at the Receiving Hospital and then sent to the White Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Anna Murray, 29, of 925 West Seaside Boulevard, Long Beach, is suffering from concussion of the brain and painful lacerations as the result of a collision between the automobile in which she was riding and a taxicab at Thirty-eighth street and Long Beach Boulevard. The automobile was driven by W. C. Franklin of 2723 South Main street, according to police. Bert Gillespie of 488 East Forty-

Seven other industries increased their plant facilities or announced plans for so doing in November at an expenditure equaling the cost of the new plants.

Adding another plant to the already important radio industry here, the Horn Radio Manufacturing Company, 210 West Seventh street, was one of the important new concerns which began operations during the month. The company is producing 200 radio sets per day and is now working out a program to increase this production to 500 sets per day within thirty days.

APPAREL MAKE-UP

Three wearing-apparel firms entered the Los Angeles field during the month. Lou Kornhandler, Inc., established manufacturing and sales quarters at 818 South Broadway, where sixty people are employed in the making of women's sportswear in silk and knitted goods.

West Coast Style Shoes, Ltd., started the manufacture of shoes at 343 West Eulalia street in Glendale. Twenty persons are employed in the factory and this number will be increased as the plant reaches its capacity of 400 pairs of shoes per day.

Hirsch, Weintraub & Co., of New York, manufacturers of uniforms, have established a branch plant in Los Angeles at Washington and San Pedro streets, occupying 8000 square feet.

FURNITURE FACTORY

Equipment for the manufacture of bedroom furniture at 1958 East Sixty-fourth street was first used during November by the California Furniture Shops, Ltd., of which H. E. Toor is president. The company is occupying 30,000 square feet of space.

Chicken and egg noodles in tins and spaghetti and chicken in glass are products of the Marney Food Company, 2081 East Randolph street, which started its initial operations in November.

California Fuel and Utilities, Inc., with offices in wholesale Terminal Building and plant at Dominguez, started the manufacture of petroleum coke briquets for domestic use and for orchard heating under the trade name of Robert's Processed Briquettes. The plant has a production capacity of 5000 tons per month.

NEW DUPLICATOR

A new type of rotary duplicator called the Tempograph, using stencils, has been started in manufacture by the Milo Harding Company, Ltd., with offices at 656 South Los Angeles street and factory at Los Angeles and Washington streets. Twenty-five persons are employed.

The Airway Laundry has commenced operations in its new building at 3501 San Fernando Road, where it has 10,000 square feet of floor space and an approximate investment of $65,000.

With a new toy as its first item, the Tumble Tot Company started operations at 2315 West Ninth street with fifteen persons employed. Officials of the company declare present contracts call for increased production after January 1, when ten new toy items will be added for national distribution.

MANY EMPLOYED

More than 250 persons will be employed in the recently constructed addition to the Soronow Furniture Manufacturing Company, Ltd., 509 East Fifty-ninth street, officials of that company have announced. The new building has an area of 30,000 square feet and will be used for the making of upholstered furniture.

Additional space and equipment has been provided by the O-U Dust Company, in the Central Manufacturing District with an approximate investment of $35,000. The firm is producing furniture and floor polishes, mops and dust cloths. Part of the new equipment includes a 9000-gallon oil storage tank.

BLUE BLOOD DOGS YIP AND YOWP

Annual Show Among Most Successful

Here Are Three Prize Sealyhams
Lucille Hutton holding Falcon Emblem, Little Duty and Bankers Duty.

More than 1000 blue-blooded canines yipped, or yowpped—according to their variegated sizes—the fourteenth Los Angeles National Dog Show to a close at the Ambassador Auditorium last night. Prizes aggregating $6000 were distributed to the winners in the many classes.

Adjudged the most valuable dog of all classes in the show was Talavera Toddler, a Scotch Terrier, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Z. B. West of Santa Ana. The dog was born in Scotland and imported here by Mr. West, who is District Attorney of Orange County. Recently he was offered $3500 for the dog by the former owners in Glasgow, Scotland.

The show, which opened for a two-day exhibition Saturday, was declared to have been one of the most successful in the history of the organization sponsoring it. Throngs of dog lovers crowded the auditorium throughout the open hours viewing the dogs that came from all parts of the country. Dogs from foreign countries also shared a fair percentage of the interest.

Adult visitors were by no means in the majority as a large share of the attendance during the two days proved to be children, according to the management. Although puppies did not share in the competition for ribbons and cash prizes, they claimed most of the interest of the youngsters, and the booths sheltering the various varieties of toy dogs were constantly surrounded.

One of the largest and oddest-appearing dogs in the show was Scallywag, a long-haired English sheepdog, the property of Mrs. Herbert Bennett. The smallest dog entered in competition was Orange Benny, a Pomeranian, the property of Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Hammer. Among the most valuable dogs entered was Hongkong King, a Chow, the property of Mrs. Waldo J. Marra of Belmont.

In conjunction with the national show the fourth annual exhibition of the Pacific Coast French Bulldog Club also was held. The judging was done by Andrew J. Albright, Jr., of New York, assisted by Mrs. William Irwin and Frank Foster Davis. Because of the large list of entries the judging was not completed until late last night.

Among the prize-winning dogs in their respective classes and their

Amnesia Victim Believed to Be Aviation Instructor From Chicago

Apparently a victim of amnesia, a well dressed man about 37 years of age who is believed to be an aviation instructor from Chicago was taken to the General Hospital for observation last night after he had been at the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital for twenty-four hours without being able to recall anything concerning his identity or previous existence. He complained of a sharp pain in his head.

Cards and papers found in his pockets indicated that his name is Horace Keeler and that his most recent address before coming to Los Angeles was 1338 South Michigan avenue, Chicago. A business card also indicated that he had been employed as an instructor by the Curtiss-Wright Flying Service in Chicago.

He also had a membership card in the Stick and Rudder Chapter of the Delta Iota Fraternity and papers indicating he is a licensed chief mate for ocean-going vessels. None of these indications of identity or previous experience struck a responsive chord in his memory nor did the photograph of a young woman also found in one of his pockets.

RODEO HAS RECORD CROWD

Live-Stock Show Feature Draws 25,000 Persons; Fat Cattle to Be Judged Today

Contenders for honors in the rodeo of the Christmas Live-Stock Show at the Union Stock Yards yesterday drew the record attendance of the event when approximately 25,000 persons passed through the gates. Officials of the exhibit last night estimated that the attendance was evenly divided between the afternoon and evening rodeos.

The show yesterday was attended by Governor-elect Rolph. Following luncheon in the offices of Chairman J. A. McNaughton, he was presented with a sombrero, otherwise known as a ten-gallon hat. The ceremony over, he joined Richard Arlen, film actor, in leading the parade which opened the afternoon session.

Today the live-stock show will turn to its real business with the judging of fat cattle. Arrangements have been made for the admission of the public and the judges will explain their decisions, so that those attending may learn how buyers select cattle for slaughter and why they choose one lot over another.

Special delegations from Nevada, Arizona and New Mexico will visit the show today. Many of the range representatives from these cattle States have been here since the exposition was opened. A caravan of visitors is expected to arrive today from the San Joaquin Valley, whence much of the fat cattle now used in Los Angeles comes.

Tonight a special show for exhibitors and stockmen is to be held at the Cocoanut Grove at the Ambassador.

The rodeos will be held today at 2 and 8 p.m. The officials state that as the week progresses it may be expected that the rivalry between the winners of the previous days will grow and the performances will be more exciting and hair-raising.

One of the most amusing performances on the rodeo programs is the milking of wild cows by cowboys. The cows are just off the range and have never been milked by man. The cowboys who will attempt the task have never milked a cow. The combination is almost as dangerous as the bucking contests or the bulldogging.

"We have taken every precaution," said Chairman McNaughton of the show committee, "to elimi-

by Harry Carr

You can figure it out any way you like, but Marie Dressler—who was play-acting before most of our cutive movie stars were born—has become America's sweetheart.

There hasn't been one pretty girl rise to popularity since the talkies began to squeak. Even bare legs fail to thrill the tired business man. The beauteous young thing who wins the profile contest in Bingville had better stay home and marry Mike down at the garage. Hollywood has stopped looking and has begun to listen.

BORDER BOORS

If Mexico hopes to build up a real tourist trade there can't be many more incidents like this one—where Theodore Douglas Robinson was arrested at the border because he had been unable to get rid of $320 in Mexican gold. In all countries the efforts of diplomats to build up good feeling are always spoiled by sap-headed officiousness on the part of petty border officials. If you want to know what it feels like to be a criminal with a record of eighteen murders, just try to come home to the United States through El Paso. That's the worst place.

DECLINE OF THE WEST

The appeal of Chicago for Federal help punctuates one terrible fact.

Modern civilization is slipping back. In the end, the domination of the world will pass into the hands of other races. It may be 500 years; but the end is inevitable. We have made a mess of it.

CIVILIZATION

Civilization consists of these elements:

The suppression of physical violence; the reign of law and justice; the ability to make the most of the physical resources of the world; the adjustment of social relationships; the promotion of peace and happiness.

A MESS

Law: Under our system a criminal minority creates a reign of terror. Our courts have been unable to find a way to punish acknowledged leaders of crime armies.

Resources: While our farmers are in the last industrial extremity owing to an overproduction of food which they cannot sell, a large part of the world is terrified by the problem of finding food.

Social relationships (which include commerce:) Financial panics brought on by the scarcity of gold while other money metals have fallen so low that the mines are closed. Homes broken by the necessity of wives working.

Peace: For more than 200 years our civilization has never seen one minute free from war. Our ordinary "peaceful" business life has become a hectic, frightful struggle to wrench from life a share of what exists in such huge quantities that the world is glutted and stifled.

When Herr Spengler wrote "The Decline of the West" he said plenty.

THE PURSUIT OF WISDOM

The new Chicago University plan of abolishing classes and letting students gallop ahead into erudition at their own pace was once tried in the Los Angeles public schools—the "Search System." Had it kept up, I should still have been in the high school. I stopped studying Latin and began reading the army novels of Capt. Charles King.

Woman Held After Slaying of Asserted Paramour During Fight

KNIFE THRUST PROVES FATAL

Glenn Carter Given Wound as Climax to Drinking

Beatings Reported to Have Been Cause of Tragedy

Police Break Down Door to Foil Suspect's Suicide

JENNIE CUVILLIER

A man is dead as the result of a stab-wound in the chest and the woman with whom he is said by police to have been living for ten months is held on a charge of suspicion of murder as the aftermath of a fight in their apartment early yesterday following a drinking party.

Glenn Carter, 35 years of age, the dead man, received the stab wound, police report, when, after administering a beating to Mrs. Jennie Cuvillier he fell against the point of a carving knife held by Mrs. Cuvillier.

Mrs. Cuvillier, who is 34, was found by police in the bathroom of her apartment of 903 West Vernon avenue, where she had gone assertedly to end her life. Officer Dray broke down the door in order to save her.

BEATINGS REPORTED

According to Officers Dray, Roberston and Clark, Carter had been out of work and drinking heavily for two weeks. During that time he had repeatedly beaten Mrs. Cuvillier, neighbors reported, and Saturday night had struck her at a party held in another apartment in the building.

Mrs. Cuvillier left the party and retired. Carter appeared a few minutes later and after dragging Mrs. Cuvillier from the bed beat her severely. He then attempted to choke her with a piece of rope.

Fought off by the woman Carter then went across the hall to the apartment of Mrs. Mae Maetot, where he revealed that he had been living with Mrs. Cuvillier as man and wife since last February and asked her to come to the apartment with him.

STABBING OCCURS

Carter entered the apartment ahead of Mrs. Maetot and leaped at Mrs. Cuvillier, who had armed herself with a carving knife.

The point entered the left side of Carter's chest and he fell, receiving another wound in the hand as he grappled for the knife. He then ran into the hall, where officers, summoned by Mrs. Maetot, found him.

Hysterical, Mrs. Cuvillier ran to the bathroom of the apartment in an attempt to swallow poison, she told police.

Carter was removed to the Georgia-street Hospital, where he died an hour later, and Mrs. Cuvillier was booked at University station on suspicion of murder.

Carter, whose body later was taken to the County Morgue, had been a member of the police department, according to Mrs. Cuvillier, resigning from the force more than six years ago.

THRONG CHEERS FOR EVANGELIST

plans for the future, when she has regained her strength. Several times during her talk she was urged by temple workers not to tax her strength, but she waved them aside with a weak gesture and concluded by declaring that her work is only begun. As she was led away, after a smiling "God bless you all," another burst of applause followed.

It is estimated that more than 6000 persons witnessed the evangelist's return and perhaps as many more were turned away. Only bona-fide members, who bore admission cards, were admitted, and these far exceeded the seating capacity of the building. Hundreds, unable to obtain a glimpse of Mrs. McPherson, remained outside to hear her voice via the loud speakers.

STILL IN NEED OF REST

When she will return to the pulpit was not announced, but, according to her business manager, F. C. Winters, it probably will be several weeks hence. It was apparent that she is still in a highly nervous condition and in need of a long rest.

Newspaper reporters were not permitted to question her, although the evangelist posed for photographers after the temple had been cleared. It was emphasized particularly that no questions were to be asked concerning a face-lifting operation or in any way referring to the rejuvenated personal appearance of the evangelist. This ban later was broadened so as to bar all reporters from the photographing session, and no "close-ups" were permitted.

"I am glad to hear that Sister was back on the platform and very glad to hear that she was wearing a long dress. I told her to do this years ago. The ice is broken and she certainly has my blessing. I wish her God's speed," declared Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, mother of the Angelus Temple pastor, regarding the latter's appearance at the temple yesterday morning.

"I can't for the life of me understand, though, why everything had to be built up so carefully and arranged so dramatically. My personal opinion is that Sister did not need the aid of these temple hirelings, but could have walked out and given her talk," she continued.

Mrs. Kennedy had an open break with Mrs. McPherson four months ago, previous to the nervous collapse of the evangelist. A fistic encounter took place in the McPherson home, according to Mrs. Kennedy, in which the latter asserts she received a broken nose.

"I will not make an effort for a reconciliation as long as I live. They need have no fear of me trying to force my way into Sister's presence. If at any time Aimee wants her mother again, here I am with open arms.

"The talk this morning about her broken heart was a bid for sympathy. She has suffered a broken heart several times, so she has told me—once about her husband, then again on some other matter and now. I pulled down the windows of my soul—my heart was broken once and only once. Why can't those on the pay roll tell the truth? Whose business is it if Sister has her face lifted?

"What I was afraid of when I heard that she was carried in on a stretcher last Sunday was that she might have had an operation on her ankles. I think much of her illness is due to her efforts to reduce. However, these things are all past. I have no immediate plans except that I will take a rest shortly. I wish my daughter all the success in the world and any time she needs her mother I will go to her."

twenty-four State governments. The annual budget for the general fund for government maintenance is approximately $58,000,000 and the remainder goes for schools and bond payments.

NUMEROUS PROBLEMS

There are many questions and projects to be considered by the new board. One of the greatest at the moment is the problem of unemployment, one that was unknown to boards within the last fifteen years.

Frank L. Shaw, chairman of the County Charities Committee, has taken the lead in efforts to relieve the unemployment problem. In fact, it is because of being in the midst of the work of organizing such relief that he has cast aside, according to his statement Saturday, any ambitions for the chairmanship. He is now general chairman of the county-wide citizens' committee organized to study the unemployment situation and is busy forming a fact-finding committee and picking a director for the bureau that will register the unemployed.

The board also is facing many problems of flood control, principal among them a dam, or dams, to take the place of the abandoned high dam project in San Gabriel Valley. Added to the foregoing are huge road improvements and sanitation projects to be considered during the next few years.

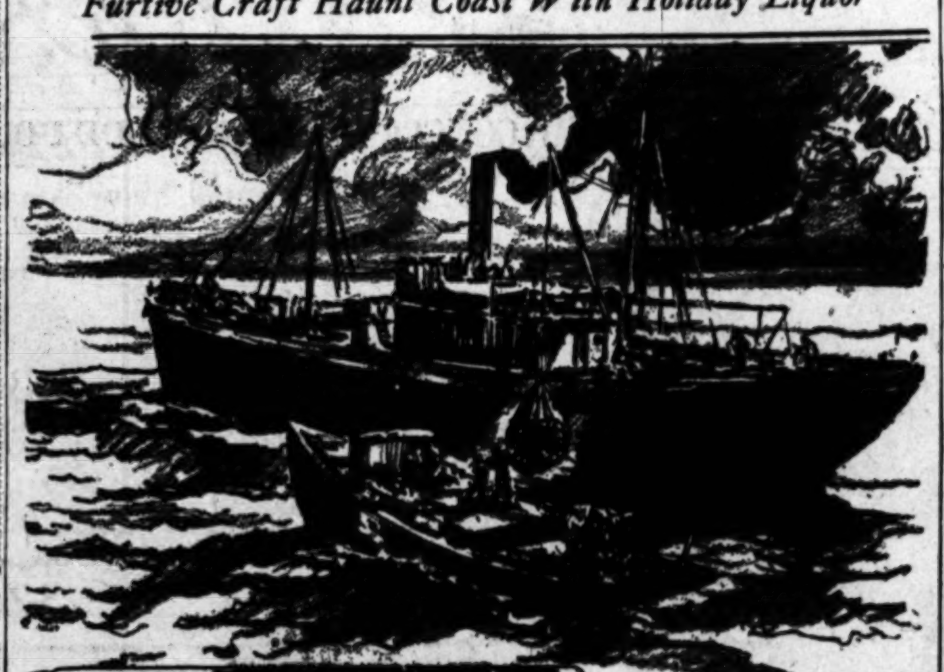
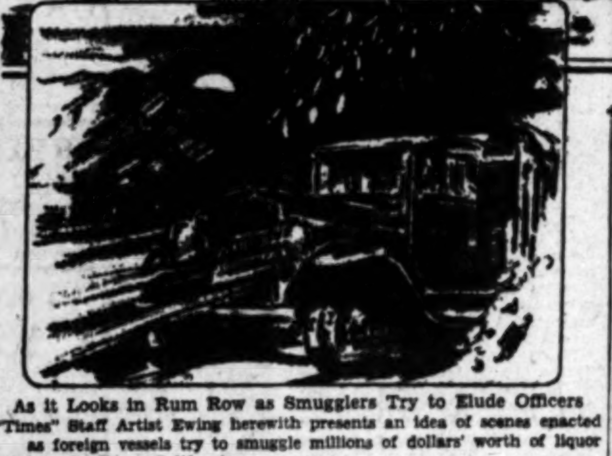
Furtive Craft Haunt Coast With Holiday Liquor





As it Looks in Rum Row as Smugglers Try to Elude Officers

type of so-called luxury and of fear of poison liquor.

"Sixteen deaths from poison liquor have been recorded in the country in the last thirty days," Capt. Benton pointed out.

"We do not know where the poison stuff is coming from and neither do prospective customers. No matter what a bootlegger tells a buyer, there is always the chance that his stuff might be the killing kind and it is this chance that keeps many persons from drinking."

It was stated in Capt. Weyerman's office that only five men in the city act as wholesalers for boat liquor. They declared that after the sea rum once gets into the city it is practically impossible to unearth the large caches and that about the best local operatives can do is to make arrests involving not more than a case or two.

A total of approximately 350 men, including those from the District Attorney's detail, make up the forces which actually will direct their full time to keeping out the expected annual influx of rum into Los Angeles.

Most of these are on duty the year around, but they will be helped during the next month by members of all local law enforcement bodies because of general orders to maintain a special lookout for rum-runners.

GIRL SIMILARLY HURT

June Hatter, 19, of 5009 South Vermont avenue, received similar injuries when struck by an automobile at Santa Barbara and Vermont avenues. From the Receiving Hospital she was taken to the California Lutheran Hospital. The car was driven by Ray Hill of 3658 McClintock street, according to the police report.

Following a collision at Sixth street and Union avenue in which Miss Frances Ricketts, 19, received a possible fracture of the left foot, Paul Sutherland, 19, a tailor, was arrested on suspicion of driving while intoxicated. Miss Ricketts, according to Officers Wilson and Graf, was riding in a car driven by J. S. Roysdon, Jr., of 1226½ East Fifty-ninth Place. Roysdon was not reported hurt.

In a collision at One Hundred and Seventh and Budlong streets between cars driven by David Schwartz, 46, of 1107 West G street, Wilmington, and A. W. Atwell of 1137 West One Hundred and Second street, Schwartz was thrown through the windshield of his car and his left eye so severely lacerated that he may lose the sight of that eye, according to Police Surgeon Maloney of the Georgia-street Hospital. Atwell was not injured.

ONE KILLED IN CRASH NEAR SANTA BARBARA

SANTA BARBARA, Nov. 30. (Exclusive)—One man was killed on the Coast Highway near Naples this afternoon, five others were severely injured and three automobiles were demolished in a spectacular crash. John F. Tulley, 36 years of age, of 215 West Ortega street, Santa Barbara, lost his life when he attempted to pass another car on the highway only to meet a third car in collision.

Miss Adelene Greene, who gave her address as Hollywood, was the driver of the automobile which Tulley attempted to pass, and the third car was driven by George A. Viehman, instructor at the Hancock Foundation College of Aeronautics, Santa Maria.

A. B. De Rossette, 29, passenger in Tulley's automobile, and Mrs. Viehman, riding with her husband, were taken with the two drivers to the Santa Barbara Hospital by State Highway Patrolmen Rutherford and Ellis.

The crash blocked traffic for half an hour.

CHAMBER URGES USE OF SEWAGE

Rectified Waste Water Held Valuable for Farms

Committee Presents Plea in Letter to Porter

Recommendation Follows Years of Study

Reclamation of sewage and waste waters now emptied into the sea through a rectification plant that will make possible the turning back of these waters for agricultural and industrial use is urged upon city officials by the Chamber of Commerce in letters to Mayor Porter, the City Council and the Department of Water and Power.

Following several years of study of the problem by various chamber committees, directors of the organization recently acted upon the findings and will urge that the city officials shall take steps as soon as possible toward the reclamation of so-called "waste waters" said Secretary-manager Arnoll of the chamber.

ARNOLL'S LETTER

Arnoll says in his letter:

"For several years past the Chamber of Commerce, through its committees, has been studying with city and county authorities the matter of reclamation of sewage and waste waters in this general vicinity.

"Notwithstanding the large supply of water which is available in many directions, particularly the Owens Basin and Colorado River, we feel that the reclamation of sewage waters for beneficial use is desirable and we commend most heartily the Department of Water and Power of the city of Los Angeles for the progressive work already accomplished in its experimental rectification station.

CHAMBER PROGRAM

"May we, therefore, earnestly urge your consideration of the following principals and program with regard to this most important matter:

"(1.) That sewage and waste waters are an asset of great and increasing value to the community and that all governmental agencies be urged to give diligent attention to the development and execution of plans for the rectification of such waters and the application of the effluent to beneficial use for agricultural and industrial purposes.

"(2.) In consonance with the foregoing declaration:

"(a.) It should be recognized that the sewage and waste waters of the city of Los Angeles now being discharged into the ocean is an asset of inestimable value;

"(b.) The city should perfect title to this asset by applying this sewage and waste water to beneficial use;

"(c.) To that end the city should proceed at once and with all possible diligence to rectify this sewage and waste water, and devote the effluent to agricultural and industrial use."

WOMAN BANDIT SUSPECT HELD

Arrest Follows Seizure of Three Men in Car

Drug-Store Hold-ups Laid to Dark-Faced Female

Attempt Will be Made Today at Identification

Suspected of being the gum-chewing, dark-complexioned female bandit who has participated with one or two male companions in the robberies of half a dozen drug stores in the last two weeks, Mrs. Dorothy McDonald, 24 years of age, was taken into custody at 1250 East Fifty-first street late Saturday evening by Officers Plummer, Chriss and Cavet of the District Attorney's special investigation bureau. She is held at the County Jail on suspicion of robbery.

The arrest of Mrs. McDonald followed closely the arrest of three men by the same officers near a market at 7123 Mesa Drive. A tip that the market was to be held up led the officers to the scene, they said, where they were waiting when the three suspects appeared in an automobile.

ONE HAS PISTOL

The trio identified themselves as Charles A. Chapman, 38, and Frank Dominguez, 31, of the East Fifty-first-street address, and Allen Raymond, 35, a transient. Raymond had an automatic pistol in his possession when arrested, the officers reported.

Dominguez, according to the officers, was partly identified by Mau[illegible] Iserlis as one of two bandits, accompanied by a woman, who held him up in his drug store at West Fifty-seventh Place last and robbed him of $50.

WOMAN TO SEE HER

Mrs. B. Sollogub, proprietress of a drug store at 2201 East Fourth street, today will be asked to look at Mrs. McDonald and state whether she is the woman who late Saturday [illegible] figured in the robbery of her establishment. A dark-complexioned woman, Mrs. Sollogub reported yesterday, entered the store and purchased chewing gum. Two men then appeared with drawn guns and [illegible] the cash register of $89, after imprisoning Mrs. Sollogub and Miss Liss, 826 South Wilton Place, a customer, in a small prescription room.

Mrs. McDonald yesterday denied participation in the recent robberies.

Designation of the 18th, 19th, 20th and 21st inst. as "Forget-Me-Not" days, the dates of the annual flower sale of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War is included in a proclamation issued by Mayor Porter.

The proclamation says:

"To the citizens of Los Angeles, greetings:

"Realizing the problems that are facing our veterans who were wounded and disabled during the World War, and appreciating the efficacious work that is being performed by the Disabled American Veterans of the World War to alleviate the sufferings of those for whom the war still exists, I, John C. Porter, Mayor of the city of Los Angeles, do proclaim the days of December 18, 19, 20 and 21, 1930, as Forget-Me-Not Days.

"This national Forget-Me-Not drive, approved by President Hoover and former Presidents Coolidge and Harding, should receive, in our beloved city, support second to none in the country.

"I trust that the call of these veterans who responded so nobly in 1917 and 1918, and who came back maimed and scarred as a result of their intense patriotism and devotion to this country in time of national peril, will be met with a generous response from our people."

The rodeo we are holding is under the sponsorship of the State Rodeo Association; the animals are cared for most carefully, and the riders are instructed as to what they shall and shall not do. FLEET IN FINAL GUNNERY TESTS

Battleship Division Sails for Practice Today

Christmas Leave Will Be of Long Duration

Armada Departs on Winter Cruise February 7

The battleship divisions will put to sea this morning for the finale of their gunnery training for the calendar year, all ships running off delayed antiaircraft practices except the U.S.S. Tennessee, which will this week rehearse and fire long-range battle practice.

The Christmas-leave period this year will be of record duration, the fleet being at anchor from November 5 until Jauary 5, when the squadron will again go to the drill grounds to prepare for long-range battle practice, to be fired during the week of January 19. The fortnight between January 23 and February 6 will be spent at anchor at San Pedro, loading supplies, tuning-up machinery and other last-minute preparations for the winter cruise to Panama, on which the armada will depart February 7.

AHEAD OF SCHEDULE

The Tennessee is firing her long-range battle practice this week in advance of the regular schedule that she may go to the Puget Sound Navy Yard on January 2 for annual overhaul. She will not go south with the fleet on February 7 but will leave Puget Sound March 7 and rejoin the fleet at Panama about March 22, stopping at San Pedro for fuel and mail.

The U.S.S. Nevada will go alongside the fleet repair ship Medusa on the 6th inst. for her interim overhaul and when she completes on the 20th inst., her place will be taken by the U.S.S. Maryland, to complete her Medusa overhaul on January 4. Visits to San Francisco for interim drydocking at Hunter's Point by the U.S.S. New York and U.S.S. California in January are also scheduled.

COLORADO SAILS

The battleship Colorado, which has been absent from the fleet since her plotting room fire at Panama early this year, sailed from the New York navy yard, where she has been repaired, on November 28, last, and is due to rejoin the fleet here on the 18th inst. The aircraft carrier Saratoga completed her annual overhaul at the Puget Sound navy yard last week and will sail for San Pedro on the 4th inst., rejoining the fleet here on the 9th inst.

Today's Bible Text

Knowing this first, that no prophecy of the Scripture is of any private interpretation. For the prophecy came not in old time by the will of man; but holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost.—II Peter 1:20, 21.

CAUSE FOR THANKSGIVING

No matter how much one may regret the absorption of the Thanksgiving spirit into the Christmas idea, the fact remains that early shopping will bring more employment to many needy ones in Los Angeles.

NOT HARD TO TAKE

If the newspaper reproductions may be relied upon, and "Miss Prosperity" is as prepossessing as Miss Erlyne Cooper of Pasadena, Mr. Average Business Man will not find it difficult to look her in the face.

RUMINATING

William Wrigley says times are not hard, that people are buying more chewing gum than ever. Maybe they are ruminating on their stock losses and resolving to make better investments, chewing the cud, and not the rag!

CRANK

Nels Berwin of Wahpeton, N. D., stalled his car on a railway crossing. Getting out to crank it, a train whizzed by and smashed it to smithereens, leaving Nels holding the crank. This may account for the large number of cranks in the world. You can't kill 'em.

MADE TO ORDER

Dr. Abbott of Smithsonian institution predicted in a Toronto address that in the near future we may get our heat for the kitchen stove by harnessing the sun's energy. And we predict that Southern California will not lose any of its popularity through such an invention.

SECOND CARUSO?

Competent musical critics, as well as several world-famous musicians, declare that a second Caruso has been discovered in George Stinson, "singing policeman" of Santa Ana. It would be a notable achievement, indeed, for this Golden State to give to the world a voice of such golden melody as that of Caruso's.

UNIQUE CAMPAIGN ISSUE

A "flat-earth" plank in the platform of an independent candidate for Congress in a Cleveland district gained him only 101 votes out of 60,000 cast. Evidently those who ordinarily side with cranks of this class were too much interested in the "flat-beer" planks of the major candidates to pay much attention to the man who would reverse Columbus, Copernicus, Newton and Einstein.

SOPRANOS SUNK

And now the soprano is becoming as scarce as the blonde. William Haddon, head of the music department of the College of St. Elizabeth, says that American girls are "definitely lowering the pitch of their voices."

Sweet sopranos are becoming deep contraltos, and altos are sinking into the depths of bass. He cannot find enough high trebles for his girls' glee club.

Nor is he accusing the girls; he merely says that using their windpipes as flues is smoking up their complexions and voices. The lofty notes are fast becoming dark-colored altos. Another and secondary cause of sinking the sopranos is yelling at football games.

However, it is possible that a further cause may be assigned for these dire results. Can a girl assume the characteristics of a man, put on his pants, affect his stride and take over the male psychology without having it attack her voice? Can she acquire his delinquencies and habits without his characteristics? Can she take over his job, become an executive expert, order the office boy around and growl at the dog without getting the gutturals of a bear?

This may be something on which she has not counted. Radio and the talkies tell the truth about the downward trend of the female voice.

If women insist on being a man, she must not become excited to find herself in ranks fighting among men with her bare fists and croaking his bullfrog, bulldog language.

However, it may not yet be too late for reform. Long skirts may help to return her femininity.

THE PUBLIC DEBT

In consideration of matters pertaining to the public debt, it is necessary to look forward and backward in order to reach sound conclusions. An examination of the immediate present is not sufficient. The proposal of Senator Vandenberg of Michigan to reduce the appropriations for the sinking fund for debt retirement in order that the income tax cut of 1 per cent, granted last year, may be continued for another year, appears to be a case of looking at present conditions to the exclusion of everything else. President Hoover and Secretary Mellon, on the other hand, are taking a long view of the situation and want no changes in the sinking-fund provisions.

The laws establishing the sinking fund constitute a definite pledge of the United States to take certain steps to insure the payment of its obligations when due. To tamper with such a pledge is dangerous. Its effect upon the public credit at the present time might be slight, since there is no likelihood of a large government loan in the near future, but it is the sort of thing apt to be remembered, and if it affected the interest rate by a fractional percentage it would cost the taxpayers heavily. The credit of the United States is superexcellent and keeping it that way is a fine national asset and not one of the smallest items in the national defense. To impair it for temporary advantage would be a serious mistake.

President Hoover is known to be extremely anxious not to increase the income tax over last year's figures and has even suggested that a small deficit might be incurred in order to permit the tax cut to continue. To lower the sinking-fund requirement might avoid this threatened deficit, but the deficit, which, of course, will not necessarily occur, would be preferable. A deficit would be a temporary matter and would entail no permanent injury.

To lessen the public-debt payments by use of surpluses and payments from foreign governments for other purposes would obviously not affect the public credit. Such funds have not been earmarked for that particular purpose and the fact that they have been used for debt reduction in the past does not imply an obligation to so use them always. They can, with perfect propriety, be turned into the general fund and used like any other revenues of the government, to make good any temporary shortage of other revenue. But to dip into sinking funds even temporarily is not good finance.

President Hoover will be supported in the stand he is taking by the best public opinion, even if the stand necessitates a restoration of the income tax to where it was before the 1930 cut. It is not yet certain that it will.

LEE SIDE O' L.A.

BY Lee Shippey

THE grass in Pershing Square hasn't been doing so well the last couple of years and this year the caretakers have gone back to first principles, discarding commercial fertilizers for the old reliable mule-barn variety.

Yesterday we passed through the square. The air was chill. But on every bench were retired farmers from the Middle West, breathing deeply of the scented air with expressions of great satisfaction.

"I swan!" one exclaimed to us, "this is the first time I've felt really at home since I came to California."

Shopping Early

Southern Californians are doing their Christmas shopping early. We began to notice that about November 18, when the Ourville cars became so crowded that a lot of folks had to stand, a situation which has grown less comfortable steadily. Ordinarily, one never has to stand on an Ourville car. But now one has to be an extremely early bird to escape standing. And the fact that many of the standers are bulging with packages adds to the excitement. One can show great nimbleness of wit and even great wisdom in selecting a landing place, and it is becoming a sort of competitive sport. We ordinary dubs usually land on the hard ends of miniature golf clubs or something sharply pointed when the car gives a sudden lurch, but there are other patrons of the rush-hour cars who always land on something soft. Even then, however, selectivity is important. Last night we fell against the business end of a thinly wrapped baseball bat, but felt lucky, at that, when we noted our friend, R. C. With what appeared unerring instinct, he selected the lap of a stout lady as his landing place, but he never landed—because she did. She met him with a "stiff-arm" from which Duffield might have learned something to his advantage. After it was over the egg on the side of his head was twice as big as the knob on ours.

Happy Shoppers, Too

The thing which impressed us most, next to the ball bat, was the fact that these Christmas shoppers are about the happiest-looking Christmas shoppers we ever saw. For, after all, there is nothing else on earth delights a shopper quite so much as getting a bargain, and this is a year for bargains. Even women with arms full of bundles who have to stand (and even on the Ourville line, we must confess, there are some healthy men who let women with arms full of bundles stand) forget weariness as they tell each other rejoicingly of their lucky finds in this, that or the other store. For some years past Christmas shoppers have been weary, worried and harassed when they were homeward-bound on the Ourville car. They were complaining to each other of how rapidly their money disappeared and how few things they had been able to buy. They were scratching relatives and friends they loved off their Christmas lists because food and clothes were so high, and the automobile and radio payments were so stiff, that they "just couldn't give a thing." It is a fact that thousands of people who were skimpy givers in times of "prosperity" are realizing the real joy of giving and are giving to many more people this year of so-called hard times.

The Boul' Holly

The first time Hollywood Boulevard dressed up as "Santa Claus Lane"—and started something which downtown Los Angeles had to follow the next year—real Christmas trees were used. But this year the Boul' Holly is gay with imitation Christmas trees—conventionalized "trees" which look like super-floor lamps—but are pretty, at that.

The fact is that Hollywood Boulevard has "slipped one over" on the downtown district by taking into consideration the growing sentiment against cut Christmas trees. But the downtown trees look much lovelier by day, when most shopping is done.

Joshua Little Says

I never gamble. But I'd be willing to bet you can't find a big university in America which wouldn't gladly trade ten outstanding students in academic or scientific branches for one dumb-bell who could be counted on to carry the ball for a five-yard gain.

Ideas of woman's work have changed a lot, but still it is the wife who is haphazard in her kitchen who is most likely to spill the matrimonial beans.

However, it wasn't machine-gun bandits which killed seventy-two Los Angeles countians in one month. It was the old reliable motor car.

Deploring automobile accidents and building higher-powered cars is like deploring wars while you are making bigger cannon.

One difference between merchants and commercialized doctors is that the former don't brag about the amount of "charity practice" they do when accounts they thought were good prove uncollectible.

A California bride and a Kansas bridegroom were married by telephone. Why not, when so many married people hold a large part of their conversations that way?

Somehow it's very comforting to note, from his latest photographs in the press, that merry St. Nicholas still hasn't been caught by the girth-reducing fad.

DENSITY OF POPULATION

On the basis of the 1930 census, which in the final tabulation places the population of this country at 122,775,046, we now have 40.9 human beings to the square mile in the continental United States, compared with 35.5 in 1920 and 16.9 in 1880. In half a century the density of our population has thus increased much more than twice. Iowa, with forty-four persons per square mile, is nearest the new average of any State.

California shows the greatest increase in population density of all the States since the census of 1920, it then having twenty-two persons to the square mile and 35.6 now. This is accounted for by the big jump from 3,427,861 to 5,677,251 in total population. In both censuses, Rhode Island led all the other States in density, the figure for 1930 being 652.9 to the square mile, as against 566.4 in 1920. Rhode Island has about one-fourth the area of Los Angeles county, which has a density of 534.5 per square mile.

The city of Los Angeles, with an area of 419 square miles and a population of 1,231,830, has 2940 persons to the square mile. San Francisco, with an area of forty-seven square miles, has 13,318.6. New York City, with an area of 320 square miles and a population of 6,958,792, has a density of 21,736.8. Manhattan Island is far more crowded than this, having 53,041 people to the square mile. But Staten Island, Westchester and a few other New York districts are not very thickly settled.

Massachusetts generally has trailed closely behind Rhode Island in population density, but in the new census New Jersey steps out ahead of it, with 537.8 per square mile, as compared to 514.1 for the Bay State.

Some of the States made but slight gains in this respect, Colorado going from 9.1 to 9.9 and Iowa from 43.2 to 44, while Montana slipped back from 3.8 to 3.7. Illinois jumped from 115.7 to 134.6, New York from 217.9 to 255.8. Florida also showed a considerable increase—17.7 to 25.

Texas, with its 5,824,715 people, now has 21.9 to the square mile, as against 17.8 in 1920. But, like California, only 147,464 behind it in population though three-fifths the size, the Lone Star State could have ten times its present population and yet have much less density than either Rhode Island, New Jersey or Massachusetts, now leading in that respect in the order named.

The county of Los Angeles, with 2,199,657 population, is about one-half the size of Massachusetts, yet has only a little over 3 per cent more density. Think of a great State like California, with a Massachusetts ratio of 514.1 to the section of land! Or take Rhode Island, with 652.9 persons per square mile. At that rate California, with its 158,297 square miles, would have a population of more than 103,000,000! Rhode Island's population is even more dense than that of imperial Japan, which is about 420 to the square mile, though greater on the island of Nippon. And it is more than twice as dense as the population of Switzerland. But it will be a long time before California, with five less persons to the square mile than the United States average, will ever have 100,000,000 people within its borders. It took the United States much more than a century to do so, and there are many other places for the population to go besides the Golden State. There is Nevada, with an average of only one human being to the square mile. There is Wyoming, with only 2.8 to the section, and Montana, with 3.6, while Idaho and the Dakotas are as yet but thinly settled.

It would seem, therefore, that we have in this country plenty of room for what native increase of population there may be in the next 500 years. As to immigration, that is another matter and one that calls for wise restriction.

CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS

The holiday dress of downtown Los Angeles is now in place and the city is to be congratulated, not only upon the fine spirit of optimism displayed by its merchants, but also upon the advance in taste which the decorations of 1930 evince over those of 1929. Compared with last year's this year's design is almost classic.

If there is a criticism it is that cut trees instead of living trees have been used. Broadway, unfortunately, is not lined with foliage and genuine rooted trees in soil boxes would necessarily have been smaller than those used, as well as somewhat more expensive, but it is hoped that another year the "Christmas out-of-doors" idea can be carried out with living trees in the downtown area as well as in other sections of the city, to its fullest extent.

The central part of this idea is the decoration of living trees, with lights and otherwise, both so that the Christmas spirit may be shared and so that the forest may be spared. "The most desirable decoration is a lighted living tree on the lawn or near the front of the house," says a committee of one of the civic bodies promoting the Christmas out-of-doors plan, and the adaptation of the plan, so far as may be, to the downtown area is unquestionably desirable. Broadway has no front lawn, more's the pity, but it can have the next best thing.

For "Christmas out-of-doors" in the residence districts, the committee suggests December 20 to January 2, inclusive, as the best period of illumination. While Pasadena is the center of New Year's Day festivities, the decoration of all Southern California for the holiday season adds to rather than detracts from the big show at the Crown City.

DOLLARS AND DEGREES

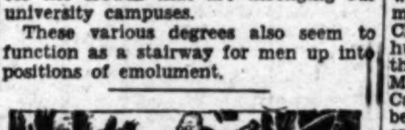
Women's earnings in America are roughly determined by the number of scholastic degrees they hold, according to a report made by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc. The findings were based on a survey made by the business research department of the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor.

A woman with an A.B. degree makes more money, as a rule, than an undergraduate who never completed her college course. A woman with an M.A. usually is more highly paid than her sister with a mere A.B. A woman with a Ph.D. is femininity de luxe in monetary rewards.

High school graduates earn on an average $1463 annually. Normal school alumnae collect $1506 a year. Bachelor of arts bachelor girls command $1759 per annum. Masters of arts are worth $2349 to society each twelve months. But doctors of philosophy and science top the list with earnings averaging $3167 annually.

Degrees and dollars appear to be tied up together. While no people in the world are less guilty of being dollar chasers and gold diggers; yet these cultured women receive the highest remuneration. This may help to account for the crowds that are thronging our university campuses.

These various degrees also seem to function as a stairway for men up into positions of emolument.



RELATIVITY

By James J. Montague

There's allurement in the widely winding wood,
There is magic in the mooing of the moose,
Of the fighting music chorused
By the panthers in the forest,
Of the growling of a grizzly on the loose.
Then the hardy hunter hungers for the chase—
Longs along the lonely trails to range and roam
And to penetrate the vastness
Of the wild untraveled fastness
Where the man-defying creatures make their home.

Deadly danger lurks among the giant trees,
Which conceal the fierce and savage beasts of prey,
Each one standing like a statue
While he grimly gazes at you
In his singularly predatory way.
Then it is one longs to take a trusty gun
And to have a look at nature in the rough,
Teaching bears how vain and futile
Is a life that's merely brutal,
And conveying mountain lions home to stuff.

I should like to seek adventures such as these
Though I'm not particularly stout of heart,
But I have not been a stranger
To more deadly sorts of danger
In the region I shall term the busy mart.
While explosions shoot up rock and brick and planks,
Which are very hard to dodge when they come down,
I should find life far less chancy
In the wildest woods, I fancy,
Than I find it every day right here in town.

THE WASHINGTON WASH

BY STRICKLAND GILLILAN

The ugly and malicious rumor that one of the bids for the St. Louis Zoo's cursing parrot (which was recently sold to a New Yorker) came by telegraph from the White House as soon as Senator Borah came back to Washington and started talking, has been investigated and found to be unfounded. The White House (I came near saying spokesman, forgetting that Calvin had gone) authority interviewed on the subject said the story was evidently started by Jouett Shouse or some disappointed applicant for a foreign ambassadorship. The informant also expressed amazement that anybody in New York who could afford to pay $140 for a blaspheming bird didn't attend a New York play instead. But maybe with a parrot of that sort he could get more cursing for that amount of money than if he bought theater tickets through a speculator.

The equipment of the United States Treasury guards with tear-gas-fitted night sticks causes one waggish friend to remark that raids on the Treasury have always caused plenty of grief, but usually among the taxpayers rather than among the raiders themselves. Old-fashioned fathers used to use a barrel stave that seemed to emit tear gas of some sort. At least the tears were forthcoming.

The following dispatch was just received from Alabama by the conductor of this department:

"I have been out gumshoeing for evidence of fraud in my defeat, and on my return to where they use tablecloths and quill toothpicks, I find that the Pope had thrown a switch opening up the Vatican City's telephone communication with the outside world. I am hastening to Washington by the first airplane to have the ground dug up around the White House for the purpose of discovering hidden wires connecting that place with V. C. I can do this much, anyway, to save my country, before my retirement by request.

The coming boost in income tax—at least back to the precut figures—is now admitted. I don't believe anybody ever did anything more convincing than to hope, in the other direction. Down underneath the surface on which one does one's plain and fancy hoping and Pollyanna ballyhooing, everybody from Andy Mellon down (or up, if you ask Brookhart) knew all the time there would have to be a boost. It was inevitable. But when they see my check—and a good many others—for tax on this year's income, they'll think the cut is still in and has maybe been made deeper.

Giffy Pinchot (husband of that brilliant lady politician, Mrs. Gifford Pinchot) has Washingtoned a few times of late. And when seen he always wears exactly the expression of countenance that must have been worn by the cleebrated cat that had just had a satisfactory session with the well-known traditional canary. If ever any man were elected to a Governorship and handed, along with the badge of office, the tail of the world and given a downhill pull, it is this same South Sea turtle hunter. He rode into office publicly thumbing his nose at the gangsters in the "City of Brotherly Love" (oh, yeah?) and hence is absolved in the eyes of the public from any obli-whatsoevergation to any of the Vare crowd or Wallie Atterbury's adherents. The Philadelphia lobby in Harrisburg when the next Legislature convenes will simply be ain't. I know Giffy is chafing a bit as he wonders if the late strenuous Theodore—his one-time sidekick in Washington—really knows what his little playmate has done and how he did it. His low plurality causes him not a vestige of grief.

Despite the urging of friends who feel they would not deeply miss us, we are not going to Chicago as a volunteer to help hunt racketeers. We know about the open season Atty.-Gen. Mitchell has declared on the Caponista and that no limit has been set on the size of the bag one may carry out without interference by the game warden, yet we are not going. We have never lost any racketeers, so why should we join the hunt? Besides, from what I have heard of these machine-gun addicts, life among them is neither healthy nor long, for those who do not see eye to eye with the holders of bootleg beer concessions. Our address will remain Washington, D. C., and our forwarding address, if the racketeers move in, will be unknown.

I've seen the reedy marshes swarm
With mallard, redhead, teal;
On milk-fed duckling spiced and warm
I've had full many a meal.
I've seen the autumn sky grow black
With ducks migrating through it;
In springtime heard their homing quack
And striven to construe it.

But all the flocks I've heard and seen
On marsh or lake or stream,
(Heads bright with iridescent sheen)
A dearth of birds will seem
Compared with those that soon will limp
About our streets dejected,
In whom the voters put a crimp—
Who were not re-elected.

Feathered Airships Likely

Airships may some day be feathered, according to Lieut.-Col. V. C. Richmond, designer of the R-101. Something in the nature of scales, or feathers or special ducts leading air from the nose of the ship to escape out of various points on the body would reduce air resistance, he said. An increase to twice the capacity of existing vessels during the lives of the present generation could easily be foreseen, he added. Such ships, 1000 feet long and 200 feet in diameter, would constitute the largest moving structures in the world.

HOARDING

By Lannie Haynes Martin

Now that press, pulpit and screen, as well as all sound financial philosophers, are urging us to spend, not to hoard, would it not be well for all of us to take stock of other things as well as money, which we might put into circulation, that is, into actual use.

Scores of women all over the city are dressing dolls for sick, poor and crippled children, who have no one to make Christmas gay with toys and gifts for them. Almost every woman in the world has a scrap bag or box in which she hoards bright pieces of silks and velvets, bits of ribbon and lace, little odds and ends of beaded trimming, which have gone out of style and are useless, but still she clings to them and these would make lovely dresses and bring happiness to dozens of children who have little in their lives to cheer them.

Men have a way of hoarding old ties, old shoes, old hats. After the clothes closets overflow they are taken to the attic and each year accumulate a new layer of dust. These could be brushed up and given to men whose illness or unemployment have made it impossible for them to buy actual clothing necessities.

It is an excellent time to ransack the attic, the cellar, the clothes closet, the trunks packed away with hoarded materials and to give away everything which can be used by some one else.

A famous philosopher declares that just so long as we keep objects and articles which we do not use ourselves that these material things become tentacles which drain our mental strength, because a memory of them is still in the subconscious mind and they draw a certain amount of psychic strength which otherwise could be utilized in a constructive manner. Maybe the seer who said "it is more blessed to give than to receive" understood that psychic law.

DIRT GARDENERS

BY SUZANNE PEHKOFF

The planting and growing of a flower garden is supposed to develop the esthetic sensibilities of the fortunate person who does it. Naturalists recommend it as a means of getting close to nature, and poets and artists insist that it enables the gardener to revel in pure beauty and poesy.

Recently we sat in the lovely garden of a relative and drank in the beauty of the surroundings. Presently the gardener hove in sight. Here was a man who had spent his life among flowers. If the prophets were right, he ought to be fairly dripping with poetry.

"Well, Leon," we remarked, "I suppose it positively inspires you to look at these gorgeous flowers and think you have planted and tended them all yourself."

"No, ma'am, it doesn't. When I look at them I think how I have broken my back pulling up weeds and cultivating around them. And my rheumatism is fierce sometimes from stooping so long on the damp ground. They look to me like hard work."

The owners of the manse hove in sight. Such cultured souls should certainly evince an appreciation of the beautiful. "The garden is lovely at this season of the year," we hazarded. "Yes, but all this idle land certainly sets me back in taxes," quoth the head of the house. "The upkeep, too, is a lot greater than the amount of joy I get out of it. I don't believe he's using the right kind of fertilizer, either, for those plants. Too many weed seeds in it. Darned if a garden isn't just one worry after another."

At least the feminine soul should rise supreme to such considerations, we felt. "What are your most pronounced impressions when you sit in this garden?" we inquired of the lady of the house. "Snails, mealy bugs, armadillo bugs, caterpillars and a host of other pests unclassified," she responded with discouraging promptitude. "Those orange trees there have scale on them; they'll have to be fumigated. And this peach tree has peach curl; it will have to be taken out," glaring at the graceful tree whose limbs sheltered us from the sun.

"There's a snail now," and she hurled him to the walk and scrunched him, shell and all. The possession of a garden, we realized, does not exactly fill one's soul with gentle thoughts. We commented on the fact. "You used to be so filled with love for all creation, even the bugs and snails." "Ah, that was before I had a garden. If you want to get mad clear through, just plant something like this and then watch the pests destroy it."

She sighed. "It is the neighbors who are filled with poetry at the sight of a garden, not the owner."

Instincts of Youth Told

Prof. Olive Wheeler of Cardiff University College of Cardiff, Wales, said recently that investigations showed that the instincts that most easily got out of control in the case of boys were aggressive ones, while in the case of girls, they tended to be passive, tending toward lying and attempted suicide. Prof. Valentine of Birmingham said tha he had found half his students confessed a tendency during adolescence to suicide in the case of girls, and running away from home in the case of boys.

RABBI SAYS MAN CAN MASTER DEATH FEAR

"The fear of death, known as 'thanatophobia,' is a survival from the primitive," declared Rabbi Julius A. Leibert in his sermon yesterday at Temple Emmanu-El.

"To the primitive man, death was a punishment and naturally was dreaded," said Dr. Leibert. "Death, to the primitive, also was a transition that placed him at the mercy of a hostile and malicious spirit world, where indignity, cruelty and beastiality might be practiced on his soul and body. Further, to the sensuously imaginative, death was at all times a grim reaper that annihilated pleasure. Whatever existence there might be beyond the grave, the sensuous lugubriously feared that there would be no room in it for the gratification of the senses. Therefore, too, they feared senses. Due to the fear, death became one of the most potent social paralyzers.

"But the fear of death may be mastered. In fact, the mastery of thanatophobia is one of the aims of all higher religions. Some teach it by denying the existence of death, while others, like Judaism, teach that this world is only a corridor leading to the palace of the world to come and, that that palace is inhabited, not by an angry, sadistic God, but by a God of life and love. Perhaps that is why the Jew, to this day, euphemistically refers to the graveyard as 'the House of Life.' The happiness of man depends upon his emancipation from fear. Wherever there is happiness, there are decency and morality Happiness has the same effect upon the soul as sunshine upon the soil. Both produce a fruitage that gladdens the heart of God and man."

NECROMANCY SCORED IN SCIENCE SERMON

The Christian Science Lesson-Sermon denounced ancient and modern necromancy, mesmerism and hypnotism yesterday in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston.

The sermon was presented in six sections, each containing selections from the Bible and correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy.

The first section included these verses from Deuteronomy: "Thou shalt have none other gods before me. . . . When thou art come into the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee, thou shalt not learn to do after the abominations of those nations. . . . For all that do these things are an abomination unto the Lord, and because of these abominations the Lord thy God doth drive them out from before thee. Thou shall be perfect with the Lord thy God."

The same section concluded with the following passage from Science and Health: "Christian Science goes to the bottom of mental action, and reveals the theodicy which indicates the rightness of all divine action, as the emanation of divine Mind, and the consequent wrongness of the opposite so-called action—evil, occultism, necromancy, mesmerism, animal magnetism, hypnotism."

SISTER-SLAYING CASE NEARS END

Jury May Start Pondering Verdict Tomorrow

Mrs. Weimer Denies State's "Mercy Killing" Version

Alienist Will Testify Today on Amnesia Phase

Closing testimony in behalf of Mrs. Ruth Weimer, on trial for the murder of her sister, Mrs. Mabel Steele, will be heard in Superior Judge Fricke's court today.

The last defense witness, according to Nathan O. Freedman, attorney for Mrs. Weimer, is Dr. Samuel D. Ingham, alienist, who took the witness stand Friday afternoon. He is expected to resume his testimony today under cross-examination by George Stahlman, deputy District Attorney.

JURY TO GET CASE

Thereafter several rebuttal witnesses will be called by the prosecution. With the testimony all taken, defense and prosecution counsel will make their arguments. The fate of Mrs. Weimer probably will be given to the jury some time tomorrow.

The trial of the accused slayer reached its climax Friday with Mrs. Weimer's testimony. She told of how her sister came and stood before her pleading for death, suffering from a hallucination which caused her to believe that she had been crucified. The strain of this scene was too much for her, Mrs. Weimer testified, and she does not recall the events that followed immediately afterward.

STATE'S VERSION

Prosecution witnesses asserted that Mrs. Weimer became enraged at Mrs. Steele, shoved her down onto a couch and berated her for weeping. Then she ran upstairs, seized a gun, and returning to her sister, shot her to death. After that she fired two shots at her own head, but they failed to take effect, according to the witnesses.

Dep. Dist.-Atty. Stahlman declares that he has evidence to refute Mrs. Weimer's assertion that her sister asked her to kill her which will be presented to the jury at the close of the trial.

Early in the trial excerpts from a statement asserted to have been made to police shortly after Mrs. Steele was killed by Mrs. Weimer were read into the record. In this statement Mrs. Weimer is asserted to have declared that she killed her sister to end her suffering and had planned to end her own life afterward.

On the witness stand, however, the defendant said that she had no recollection of making the statement to police and denied any remembrance of the shooting. That last scene she recalled, the defendant testified, was when her sister stood before her saying that she wanted to die

The defense contends that Mrs. Weimer suffered an attack of emotional amnesia brought on by the pleas of Mrs. Steele for death and that the crime was committed while she was temporarily irresponsible.

According to testimony given by numerous defense witnesses, Mrs. Steele had been ill for many months and at one time was confined to the Norwalk State Hospital because of her mental condition. During the last months of her illness, it was shown, she had grieved constantly for her two small children who were in the custody of her estranged husband.

Besides his widow, Mr. Beam leaves a sister, Mrs. Harriet Brundage of Newark, N. J.

Bad Cameraman Snaps Actress at Her Sun Bath

Imagine Greta Garbo's chagrin when she heard a voice in her garden where she was taking a sun bath and turned around in amazement to find she was facing a camera in the hands of a stranger.

The actress's encounter with the mysterious "snooper" cameraman was disclosed yesterday, but it occurred last week.

The wily cameraman, whoever he is, crawled through a hedge which surrounds Miss Garbo's home in Santa Monica and cried:

"Oh, Miss Garbo, will you kindly look this way, please."

Startled by the voice of the intruder, the actress sprang up and looked around.

Click went the camera, and the intruder fled.

Garbo fled also. The identity of the cameraman is still a mystery to Miss Garbo.

STREET WORK FAVORED

The city having obtained title to the land necessary for the development, City Engineer Jessup has recommended to the City Council that steps be instituted for the improvement of Dunn Drive between Tabor street and Venice Boulevard. He suggests that the improvement consist of permanent pavement, curbs and sidewalks, the paving to be thirty-four feet wide. The matter was referred to the Public Works Committee.

DEFENSE WINS IN OIL CONTEST

Court Decides for Whiston and Signal Company

Valuable Kern Field Rights Involved in Litigation

Weimer and Lipp Fail to Get Interest in Holdings

Valuable oil rights are affected by Superior Judge Yankwich's decision, just filed, finding for the defendants in the suit of F. H. Weimer and Lester Lipp against Raleigh Whiston and the Signal Oil and Gas Company. The plaintiffs sued to establish a quarter interest in a drilling permit on eighty acres of Kern county oil land, where five wells have been brought in by the Signal company.

The hearing revealed that Whiston acquired the prospecting permit by transfer. He later agreed to drill a well and furnish equipment, while Weimer, Lipp and Lloyd Addington were to raise a fund for which they were to receive a half-interest. Whiston forfeited the rights of Addington, Weimer and Lipp for failure to raise the funds. He transferred a 40 per cent interest to the Signal company, which later acquired his entire interest and then brought in five wells.

On trial Whiston contended that Weimer and Lipp lost their interest by failing to live up to the agreement. The Signal company contended that it purchased the interest in ignorance of any arrangement with Weimer and Lipp. Finding for the defendants, Judge Yankwich held:

"One who has rights to property must assert them. If he stands by and does not assert them, and the rights of third parties intervene, the law will not aid him in disturbing the acquired rights of others who had no knowledge of any outstanding rights. One dealing with the holder of a record title to property is not charged with the knowledge of claims of others than such holder.

"If some of the persons engaged in a joint enterprise withdraw from the venture by reason of their failure to comply with its terms, or their rights thereto are forfeited for the same reason, the remaining associates may complete the agreement on their own account. And if they do, the defaulting associates cannot benefit by the subsequent success and share in the profits."

Unions to Give Benefit Affair

Aid to union workers and their families in illness or financial emergencies resulting from the current business depression will be provided out of a fund to be raised at a benefit entertainment in the Shrine Auditorium next Thursday evening arranged by the Theatrical and Amusement unions.

The money will be distributed by the Union Labor Benefit League organized to assist members to meet the high cost of sickness.

Actors in vaudeville, on the legitimate stage and the screen will be on the program. Tickets can be bought at the office of the Central Labor Council, 540 Maple avenue; at the office of the Union Labor Benefit League, 1417 Georgia street, and at Mitchell's ticket office, Owl Drug Store, Sixth street and Broadway.

Council Favors Investigators

The request of the department of social service that three investigators at salaries of $125 per month be employed to investigate appeals for Christmas relief has been approved by the City Council.

PLAYGROUNDS SERVE MILLIONS

More Than 20,000,000 Persons of Almost Every Age and Temperament Received Attention on $14,155,000 Worth of Property in Year, Report Says

Property over which the Playground and Recreation Department has jurisdiction served a total attendance of approximately 20,000,000 persons of all ages and temperaments and department holdings and equipment are valued at $14,155,000, according to the report for the fiscal year ending June 30, last, just submitted by Supt. Hoyt to the Playground and Recreation Commission.

Playground attendance, exclusive of that at the beaches or pools, totaled 6,799,158, compared to 5,901,783 in the preceding year, an increase of 897,375. Average daily attendance during the year was 18,628, in comparison with 16,369 for the preceding year. The total operating cost was $413,781.19, compared to $360,934.27 for the year ending June 30, 1929, an increase of $52,847, due to a larger staff required for additional grounds.

ADULT RECREATION

Special emphasis has been given to adult recreation, a symphony orchestra of good amateur players has been formed, music and art were given a more prominent part both for children and adults, with eighty-four new music groups formed during five months, according to the report.

A study of child safety on the playgrounds resulted in a decrease of the accident rate from 1.30 to 1.19 for 100,000 of child attendance. Increased encouragement was given to the training of the staff through university short courses and special courses conducted by the department.

A need exists, it is reported, in most communities for trained leaders of community sings and a community sing leaders' class has been formed. A reorganized and more comprehensive program was carried out at the beaches and winter field sports in the form of a winter carnival at Camp Seeley was inaugurated last January.

During the year new community buildings and field houses were provided, including the James Slauson Memorial Building, Verdugo and Stonehurst Community buildings, Lincoln Heights and Wabash field houses. A new swimming pool and bath-house was constructed at Fernangeles Playground and a swimming pool at Reseda Park. Other construction included a public bath-house on the old Sunset pier and a wading pool and pergola at Stonehurst Playground.

Play facilities added during the year included two tennis courts, one basball diamond, five soft-ball diamonds, two wading pools, five basketball courts, three volley ball courts, one outdoor gymnasium, six slides, thirteen croquet courts, three baby-swing sets and twelve horseshoe courts. The ball diamond at Banning Playground and the entire Lincoln Heights Playground were lighted for night activities.

SERIOUS PROBLEM

The report declares that the department is facing its most serious problem in the oil situation at Venice, the indications being that the public will be deprived of about one and one-half miles of beach south of Washington Boulevard. Steps must be taken, the report states, to replace for the public what apparently has been lost, either by a bond issue, raising the tax levy or by income.

For five years the department has received under charter provisions a 4-cent tax in each $100 of valuation, but the point now has been reached where this and the income from self-supporting activities will be absorbed by the operating and maintenance costs. Further development of improved or unimproved areas at present is impossible, according to the report, which suggests that adults pay at least partially for their recreation through instruction at group rates.

There is need for a downtown recreation center for office folk employed in the congested district, and ways and means must be found for providing a swimming pool in Olympic Park (Exposition Park) to meet standards for the Olympic Games, the report declares.

RADIOLOGISTS MEET TODAY

Noted Men Among Speakers at Annual Convention to Be Held at Ambassador

With a membership containing specialists in X-ray and radium treatment from all States and countries in North America and associate members from many foreign countries, the Radiological Society will today open its sixteenth annual meeting at the Ambassador.

Executives of the society yesterday said the public will be given an opportunity of hearing three authorities of X-ray treatment tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock when Dr. Joseph Colt Bloodgood of Johns Hopkins University, noted cancer expert, will be the first speaker. Dr. Francis Carter Wood of Columbia University and Dr. Douglas Quick of Memorial Hospital, New York City, are the other two, all of whom will appear at Trinity Auditorium.

In addition to the evening meeting at the Trinity Auditorium, Dr. Bloodgood will conduct a series of clinics at the convention headquarters in the Ambassador.

Yesterday trained technicians were busy installing groups of modern X-ray equipment in the Ambassador Hotel ballroom, which will be used as an exhibit hall during the convention. The exhibits will include specimens of the large and intricate equipment used in hospital and office practice of X-ray treatment.

Dr. Lloyd Bryan of San Francisco, has arranged a series of scientific exhibits which will be shown with the commercial exhibits. Almost 100 surgeons and scientists actively engaged in X-ray practice and research are scheduled to appear as speakers during the five-day convention.

Court Quashes Actress' Suit

A demurrer to the $100,000 damage suit filed by Beatrice Lillie, actress, against Warner Brothers, motion-picture producers, has been sustained by Superior Judge Edmonds, and the case is now out of court.

Miss Lillie sued for damages, asserting that she was hired to play in "The Show of Shows" and then the film she made was used as a "shortie" to the detriment of her film reputation.

Policeman Job Advocated for Bible Students

At least six months spent in walking a policeman's beat should be included in the training of every Bible student, Dr. P. W. Philpott, pastor of the Church of the Open Door, declared in an address yesterday at the Salvation Army Citadel, 125 East Fourth street.

"What every preacher, evangelist and missionary needs," he said, with emphasis, "is a better understanding of men. There is no better opportunity to acquire this understanding than to serve as either a policeman or a member of the Salvation Army. If I had my way I would make it compulsory for every Bible student who expects to devote his life to religious work."

The meeting was the second annual observance of "Comrades of Yesterday" day. Brig. Bell, who conceived the idea, presided, and Mrs. H. Kernahan, known as "the Swedish nightingale" in her days with the Army, sang. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cornett gave a vocal duet and E. L. Hawk, another former Salvationist, gave a brief talk. The Salvation Army band, under direction of Capt. Edwin Taylor, opened the program with a concert.

A. R. Valentine, Espee Veteran, Expires Here

Albert R. Valentine, veteran railway employee, died unexpectedly yesterday at his home, 1528 South Manhattan Place. Death was due to cerebral hemorrhage.

Mr. Valentine was 64 years of age. He was born in Maryland and came here twenty-seven years ago, entering the employ of the Southern Pacific Railway, and seven years later being appointed passenger-car foreman. He was a Shriner and a member of the Royal Arcanum. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Kate M. Valentine, and one son, Max Valentine.

Anniversaries Come in Bunch

Today may be December 1 for most people, but for Victor M. Ekdahl, manager of the Parfay division of Swift & Co., it is a birthday anniversary, a wedding anniversary and the twenty-fifth anniversary of his connection with the Swift organization, whose president today is to announce in Chicago Ekdahl's promotion to head the refinery operations of the company on the Pacific Coast.

Ekdahl has trained more than 2000 salesmen and "has never fired a man," he said. He joined the Swift organization in Kansas City and has served as salesmanager for that company in Omaha, St. Joseph, Mo., Chicago and in Canada. He came to Los Angeles about a year ago and has been actively in charge of the Parfay division of the refinery, of which he now becomes general manager, succeeding C. B. Davis, who has retired.

James A. Watt Funeral Today

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p.m. today at the mortuary of the White Undertaking Company for James A. Watt, pioneer Los Angeles builder, who died on Thursday at his home, 3922 Oakwood street. He was born in North East, Pa., seventy three years ago.

Watt came to this city in 1882 and engaged in the building business. He followed the gold rush to Alaska in 1898, but returned after a few years and engaged again in the building business and in real-estate until his retirement several years ago. He leaves his widow, and two brothers in Pennsylvania.

CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE PLEA MADE

Dr. Cuningham Calls Upon Residents for Generosity in Tuberculosis Fight

Dr. R. L. Cuningham, president of the Los Angeles Tuberculosis Association, urges a generous response on the part of the public in purchasing Christmas seals. The asciation has mailed letters containing seals to more than 100,000 residents of the city, and asks that they be purchased in amounts of from $1 to $2. Funds raised through the annual seal sale is the sole source of income which enables the association to maintain numerous activities for the prevention of the spread of tuberculosis, Cuningham said.

He said that one of the most acute problems which the association has been called upon to meet is the furnishing of proper employment to cured or arrested cases of tuberculosis. "The line of distinction between a 'cured' case and one which is 'arrested' is very fine," Dr. Cuningham stated, "but it should be clearly understood that an 'arrested' case represents a case that is 'cured' within the ordinary layman's meaning. An arrested case is one in which the activity of the disease has been defeated and in which it will not again occur if the individual is properly housed and fed and pursues normal habits and occupations.

"The entire value of taking a case of tuberculosis into an institution and fully arresting it may be lost through turning the patient out to starve or suffer unemployment. Very often the better class patients are forced to go back to types of labor that are entirely too strenuous, with the result that they again break down.

"There is no service available to discharged patients from bureaus that are tax-supported. Sufficient funds are needed to do the work in any comprehensive manner. Very gratifying results have been obtained in those instances where our association has been able to devote time to them and the patients have been properly and permanently placed where they could earn their living with safety."

Widow's Money Melts as Nice Salesmen Call

Her $20,000 inheritance melted in a year of down payments because she couldn't resist persuasive salesmen, Mrs. Anna Russell Hawks, 70 years of age, testified in winning a recission of contract in Superior Judge Wilson's court. The Arbuckle-Wright Corporation was named as defendant. The judgment was for $2250 on a $9000 piece of real estate.

Mrs. Hawks came here a year ago with $20,000 cash which she received upon the death of her husband in Watertown, Iowa. Nice salesmen called on her and she could not say no. After making down payments on twelve pieces of real estate her money was spent and she faced loss of all because she could not make subsequent payments. Attorney K. C. Wiseman had Mrs. Penine Shorey appointed guardian to prosecute recission suits. Nine are pending.

Chamber Boosts Use of Air Mail

"There is nothing faster in the matter of transportation in all the world than air mail," declared Clifford L. Rawson, secretary-manager of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, which is backing a speed-up business campaign by the use of the flying letter.

"No regular schedule in the world compares with it. It is three times as fast as the average mail. If a postman has more than he can carry, he takes the air mail first and leaves the rest to a later delivery," Rawson said.

ORPHEUM FILM SMART IN STYLE

"Sin Takes Holiday" Clever in Talk and Plot

Constance Bennett Enacts Secretarial Role

Paul Stein Feature Offers Intriguing Ideas

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

Can a man protect himself from aspiring sirens through a marriage of convenience, and—

What are the consequences if he weds his plain-looking but interesting secretary as such protection, and then immediately ships hers off to Paris in order to have her out of the way?

This dual question is neatly propounded in "Sin Takes a Holiday" now showing at the Orpheum Theater, and a very smart and clever production is the outcome.

You will want to see this feature, starring Constance Bennett, and directed by Paul Stein, for its dressiness and its sophistication. The dialogue is deft and intriguing; the emphasis is on bright repartee.

"Sin Takes a Holiday" is a cultivated picture emanating from the Pathe studio, which but recently produced "Holiday," minus the "Sin." It hasn't the same human qualities as the earlier silkeny affair, but it has a rich and brilliant gloss. The "sin" is just a mere suggestion, mostly in its name.

One is bound to be captured by the light superficiality of this comedy, which so gayly and casually conceals its more emotional undercurrent. A woman's devotion to a man is really at stake throughout, but nothing is done to overstress the heart theme. The show of sentiment is always, one might say, disguised by the smiling taunt of the spoken word.

At the start of the film one finds a young divorce attorney rather hopelessly ensnared with a married woman, whose husband is about to name him as a corespondent in a suit for separation. One of the young attorney's men friends asserts that he has made a mistake in not marrying. It would be a safeguard from the woman who seems bent on his capture in the matrimonial bonds.

The attorney asks his secretary to become his wife pro tem to "get him out of the mess" in which he is involved by the other lady's divorce. The secretary, under the urgency of two girl friends and his own pleadings, finally consents. The real reason, you might deduce, is that she loves the man, but then that's entirely by the way. The marriage ceremony is performed, and she leaves right away for Paris. The other woman is told the disconcerting news.

Naturally, Paris causes many changes, and the wife-in-name-only soon has another suitor—one of her husband's friends. He delicately offers other arrangements beside a marriage, but finally suggests even that.

One can tell almost the entire plot of "Sin Takes a Holiday," without disturbing the appeal of the picture in the least. The conversation is what especially illumines.

In the story itself you may detect dim resemblances to the "unprepossessing duckling" idea once expounded in "His Secretary," and also to even a vestige of the good old Cinderella motif.

However, such similarities never show up palpably while you are looking at the picture on the screen. "Sin Takes a Holiday" really appears throughout as something very smart and very different, and brings laurels to virtually every member of the cast. This includes besides Miss Bennett, Kenneth McKenna, Basil Rathbone and Rita La Roy as the leading principals and even the more supporting players like Louis Bartels, John Roche, ZaSu Pitts and others.

As the secretary, Miss Bennett doesn't qualify as plain in any conventional sense of that word, though it is plausible enough, I think, that her attractions may have escaped her employer in the earlier scenes. She invests with abundant class the later sartorial episodes, to contrast. The role is very much the style she plays best.

Rathbone has a better role than any that he played during his sojourn in the West, and is highly effective in the comedy. McKenna is the one who weds as insurance against the designing married femme. He is efficient in the portrayal as a whole.

Robert Milton and Dorothy Cairns wrote the story of "Sin Takes a Holiday," which was adapted by Horace Jackson. Generally speaking it is a case of a stepping forward along the more glittering talkie highway.

A somewhat unique cartoon, a slow-moving comedy "Moonlight and "Monkey Business' that is funny at times, and one of Bert Levy's novelty "Humanettes," called Crinolin Days" are the short screen subjects.

FILM STAR RETURNS TO FIRST LOVE

Grace Moore Will Fulfill Open Engagements Before Starting New Picture

Despite several contract offers made her since the opening of her first picture, "Jenny Lind," at the Criterion Theater, Grace Moore has returned to New York and her first love, the Metropolitan Opera Company.

The accomplished and beautiful soprano has decided to fill several winter engagements with the opera company before returning to Hollywood in the spring to play in another picture at M.-G.-M.

Reginald Denny plays opposite Miss Moore in "Jenny Lind" as the composer-lover. Wallace Beery and Jobyna Howland provide comedy, relief. Sidney Franklin directed.

'Up Pops Devil' Seats on Sale

Although there is no play current at the Belasco Theater the box office will remain open for the sale of seats for the engagement of "Up Pops the Devil," which will open Christmas night, with two performances scheduled for New Year's Eve.

Ibsen Drama Enacted Tonight

Tom Douglas

Will support the noted star, Mrs. Patrick Campbell, in "Ghosts," which starts this evening at the Vine-street Theater for a limited engagement.

NOVARRO VEHICLE BOOKED

"Sevilla de la mis Amores," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's Spanish film drama, starring Ramon Novarro, will have its first and gala premiere at the International California Theater Friday evening.

Not only is Novarro the star of "Sevilla de mis Amores" but he is its director as well, and his human touches and dramatic highlights are said to do a great deal to make his first Spanish production a masterpiece. His songs in the film range from popular to operatic numbers.

Conchita Montenegro is the heroine, and the cast also includes Rosita Ballestero, Jose Soriano Viosca, Senora Semaniego, Martin Garralaga and Mario Caovo. Spectacular in detail is the replica of the Madrid opera, and another striking sequence is said to be the cantina scene where Novarro and Senorita Ballestero are seen in a drama of their native land.

At the gala opening performance, Novarro and his cast will appear on the stage and indications point to a brilliant event.

Dr. Rodzinski Leads Varied Concert List

BY ISABEL MORSE JONES

The third Sunday afternoon concert of the Philharmonic Orchestra season given yesterday afternoon brought a program of effective, if rather showy music. Dr. Rodzinski programmed the Goldmark "Springtime" overture, the "Fantastic Symphony," by Berlioz and the "Rhapsodie Roumaine," by Enesco. Rudolph Reuter, a Chicago pianist well known in Southern California for his playing and teaching, played Weber's rarely heard "Concertstruck" and the often-heard Liszt Hungarian Fantasy. The audience waxed enthusiastic over the Berlioz symphony and granted Reuter continued applause.

All of the numbers except the two piano and orchestra, works have been recently reviewed in these columns. They grow in the public's appreciation by repetition at the Sunday afternoon concerts after having been played on the regular subscribers' programs.

Mr. Reuter is an intellectual pianist with a fine background of the most thorough German musical education. He approaches his instrument with the surety and poise born of knowledge. The choice of a "Concertstuck" written for an audience of 100 years ago which liked florid exhibitions rather more than great messages in tone, is, in my opinion, not the best. However, the audience liked it and the pianist played it well. The Hungarian Fantasy was brilliantly done and a very rapid tempo was attained.

Artistry of Noted Singer Revealed Here

BY I. M. J.

Lisa Roma evoked for the chosen few new moods of beauty in song at the Music Box Theater last night. She sang the loveliness Schubert, Schumann and Ravel have conjured into music for the voice, and the less serious, but charming songs by Robinson, Chasins and Cadman with two notable operatic arias by Verdi and Weber. Campbell-Tipton's "Crying of Water" and appropriate encores completed the program.

Miss Roma is an excellent artist of whom Los Angeles can well be proud. At present her adopted city seems hardly aware of her. The singing she did last night in Schubert, Schumann and Ravel, especially Ravel, was of that exquisite variety suited to the recital intime. The Music Box is a perfect place for such a presentation, being acoustically good, of the right size and luxuriously comfortable in comparison with other places in Los Angeles where recitals are held. All that was lacking was the audience.

Ably accompanied by Mrs. Blanche Hennion Robinson, Mlle. Roma opened her program with "Ritorna Vincitor" from "Aida." It was a convincing performance. "Gretchen am Spinnrade" and "Auf Dem Wasser Zu Singen," two beloved Schubert songs, opened the German lieder group which included three Schumann songs before its ending. They were done in clear and simple style as they should be and with a tenderness that colored them with a warm, rosy hue.

Of the Ravel numbers, "La Flute Enchantee" and the five "Melodies Grecques," there is little that is tranlatable into words. Fleeting, evanescent glimpses into the Gallic mind, they revealed the art of Lisa Roma as a mirror. One remembers that she learned these songs from the composer and that she was chosen to sing the French master's works on an American tour with him under the auspices of Pro Musica.

The fairy song by Mrs. Robinson proved gay and characteristic of childhood and it was sympathetically sung. "Dresses" dedicated to Mlle. Roma by Abram Chasins proved dramatically interesting and a new Cadman number, "The Voice of You," also dedicated to the soprano, elicited applause from the audience.

Milne Drama Popular Fare at El Capitan

Throngs continue to fill El Capitan Theater, where Dale Winter and Henry Duffy are playing their second week of a limited engagement of "Michael and Mary."

The play is fanciful, as are all of A. A. Milne's works, but the author has injected a bit of melodrama into the atmosphere of whimsy by bringing in a blackmailer to threaten Michael and Mary with prison on a charge of bigamy. How the author breaks down this barrier which confronts the happiness of the young married couple is one of the clever, unexpected twists in the plot.

David Scott, the young actor who appeared last season in "Caprice" with Fay Bainter, plays the young son of Michael and Mary, whose romantic life together is followed from the inception of their romance at a meeting in a British museum in 1905 up to 1929, when their son returns home from college.

Others in the supporting cast are Arthur Clayton, Stephanye Clare, Phillis Coghlan, Wilfred Noy, Frank Dawson, Florence Roberts, Ross Chetwynd, Joseph De Stefani, Elizabeth Wilbur and Donald Campbell.

YOUTH PORTRAYS GANGLAND LEADER

Lewis Ayres

The youthful soldier of "All Quiet on the Western Front" grows up figuratively in "The Doorway to Hell," the current film attraction at both Warner Brothers' Downtown and Hollywood theaters. The young man is Lewis Ayres, who, in the new picture, portrays a baby-faced gangland leader.

Other players in the production are James Cagney, Kenneth Thomson, Dorothy Mathews, Leon Janney, Robert Elliott and Noel Madison. Archie Mayo directed from the original story by Rowland Brown.

CARRILLO SCORES IN "BAD MAN"

Local Favorite Portrays Bandit With Robin Hood Complex at Playhouse

BY MURIEL BABCOCK

Pancho Lopez, plenty "Bad Man," swaggered into town yesterday to bang his six-shooter and cause general merry havoc on the stage of the Hollywood Playhouse.

Mr. Lopez, a rough, tough gentleman from the land where bandits are supposed to be bandits, was impersonated by Leo Carrillo, one of this town's favorite actors. You can imagine that a full afternoon or evening's entertainment is afforded.

The role of Lopez is tailored to fit Carrillo. It is colorful and roistering and it affords a marvelous opportunity to reveal the actor's skill in handling the below-the-Rio Grande dialect.

"The Bad Man," a play by Porter Emerson Browne, written originally for Holbrook Blinn, has been done here before. Blinn brought it to Los Angeles originally and Carrillo followed him a little more than a year ago with a production at the President Theater.

The current effort, again sponsored by Henry Duffy, is a good one. The cast is well chosen and the production runs smoothly as if on well-oiled wheels.

You may recall the story about a young man about to lose his ranch because he cannot pay the mortgage. There is a crochety old uncle who keeps poking his nose into spots it shouldn't be poked, a couple of fair young ladies, a dyed-in-the-wool villain who keeps gulping down his drinks, and other recognizable characters.

At the moment when it seems as if there is no ray of hope for the young rancher, Bandit Lopez gallops into view and does the Robin Hood act. He shoots the villain, steals some money from the bank and pays off the mortgage.

Carillo, of course, has the juicy role and makes the most of it in his own ingenuous, merry-hearted way. Gale Gordon is good as the hero; Lloyd Neal is effective as is the cantankerous uncle, as is George Leffingwell as the villain. Charlotte Treadway is properly attractive as the romantic lead, with Gay Seabrook doing a fetching young flapper. Fernando Galvez was a realistic Pedro. Philip Morris was a bashful cowboy and Hal Price a grasping landowner. Wong Wing, whose culinary skill is not unknown to friends of the Carrillo household, was seen briefly.

NEW FILM ACTED BY FAVORITES

Jeanette MacDonald and Joe Brown Play Roles in "Lottery Bride"

"The Lottery Bride" will have its premier showing at the United Artists' Theater starting Friday. This production follows the current attraction, "Feet First," starring Harold Lloyd.

JEANETTE MACDONALD

Heading the cast of "The Lottery Bride," are Jeanette MacDonald and Joe E. Brown. Others are John Garrick, Zasu Pitts, Robert Chisholm and Harry Gribbon.

The picture is said to include some spectacular scenes, such as the wrecking of a dirigible on ice floes. Though a comedy, "The Lottery Bride" tells a story of drama and romance.

"The Lottery Bride" is an Oscar Hammerstein production. Another feature is some original music by Rudolf Friml.

SHAW PLAY TO RETURN FOR WEEK

"Apple Cart" Scheduled Again at Music Box by Civic Repertory

Popular demand will necessitate bringing back Bernard Shaw's "The Apple Cart" for a fourth week, beginning the 8th inst., according to officials of the Bowl Theater Association, managing the Civic Repertory Theater. The play will be at the Music Box for one week.

"Peter Pan" will be presented by the Repertory Theater, starting on the 15th inst. Marion Clayton heads the large cast.

The current attraction at the Music Box Theater is "The Infinite Shoeblack." This play will close Saturday night.

"The Apple Cart" is now showing in San Francisco where it has been scoring with audiences, according to report.

Linguist Plays in Two Films

Paul Porcasi, due to his able command of Italian, Spanish, French, English and accents of these languages, portrays two entirely different types of characters in the current cinema offerings, "Morocco" at Grauman's Chinese Theater, and "Jenny Lind" at the Criterion Theater.

NEW POLICY ANNOUNCED

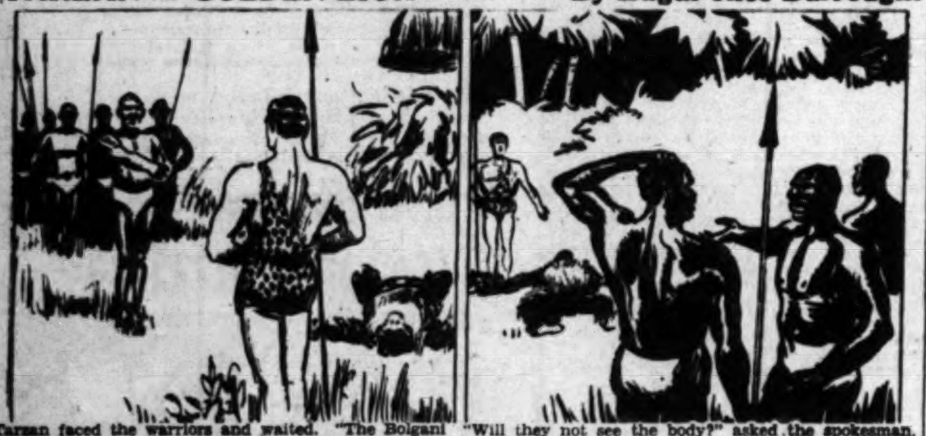
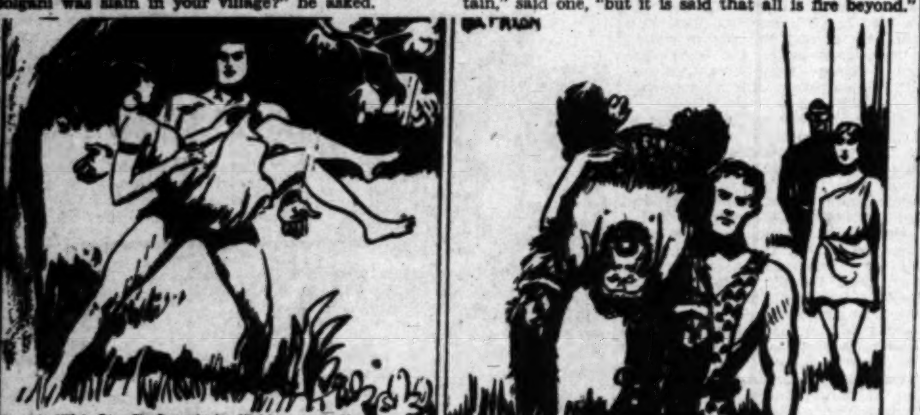
TARZAN AND THE GOLDEN LION

By Edgar Rice Burroughs



Tarzan faced the warriors and waited. "The Bolgani will surely send and slay us all," they said, "unless we can take to them the creature that cast the spear. Therefore Tarmangani, you shall go with us, dead or alive, to the Palace of Diamonds. Perhaps then, Numa will forgive us." The ape-man smiled. What did they think him, to believe he would be easily led into the avenging hands of this Emperor of the Bolgani? But he preferred peace, and thought of a way to get it. "Why need they know that the Bolgani was slain in your village?" he asked.

"Will they not see the body?" asked the spokesman. "Not if you remove it!" replied the ape-man. The simple blacks scratched their heads; into their dull minds had never entered such a solution of their problem. What this stranger said was true. But none of them dared touch the Emperor's messenger. "I will dispose of the body for you," replied Tarzan. "No one will know how he died or where. But first you must show me a way out of your country, for I am lost." "We cannot tell what lies beyond the mountain," said one, "but it is said that all is fire beyond."



Copyright, 1930, by Edgar Rice Burroughs, Inc. All rights reserved.

Realizing now that he must find his way out alone, Tarzan made a decision. "If I take the Bolgani away, will you treat me as a friend? Will you keep here for me my white she, safely, until I return again?" He had thought it best to call La his mate. If they understood she was under his protection she would be safer. After much chatter the blacks agreed to all Tarzan demanded. Raising his voice he called to La to descend. She clambered down from her leafy hiding place to the lower branches and dropped into Tarzan's outstretched arms.

Quietly Tarzan explained the situation to La. "Do not leave me," she cried appealingly. "I must find the way out," he said, "I can travel much faster alone. I shall return for you, I promise!" Stooping, Tarzan lifted the dead gorilla-man to his shoulder. The simple blacks marveled at his strength. A moment later he trotted down the jungle trail and disappeared 'round a turn and was swallowed up by the forest. Then La turned to the blacks. She saw them whispering among themselves. It was plain to her there was a difference of opinion among them.

The accident resulted when the two motorcycles crashed head-on into the coupe. Miller was decapitated and the other two were badly battered, being instantly killed.

MAN WHO TREATED DOG FREED

Earl Sawden Exonerated of Charge of Violating State Veterinary Act

ALHAMBRA, Nov. 30.—Earl Sawden, former superintendent of the San Gabriel Valley Humane Society, is freed of the charge of violating the State Veterinary Act, following the decision of Judge H. S. Farrell, who has dismissed the complaint brought against Sawden by Mrs. Elizabeth McCall of this city.

Sawden was prosecuted on the grounds that he had violated the veterinary law by treating a pet dog belonging to Mrs. McCall. The dog afterward died. The case was tried before Judge Farrell in the local Justice Court, with State Veterinary License Inspector J. P. Davidson and Dep. Dist.-Atty. McClure appearing for the prosecution. The State attempted to show that Sawden, who, it was asserted, is not a licensed veterinarian, had no right to give any kind of treatment to the sick dog. The treatment, it was brought out, consisted only of a "washing out."

The case was taken under submission and Judge Farrell, in making his decision, declared that, in his opinion, Sawden did not violate the law, in view of the fact that no evidence was introduced to show he had injected any drugs into the animal.

New Petitions for Recall at Arcadia Planned

ARCADIA, Nov. 30. — The ruling made last week by City Attorney Walter F. Dunn, when he declared that petitions submitted to the City Council for the recall of Mayor Walshe and Councilmen Emil Bolz and Henry Seaman, were invalid, has resulted in the preparation of new petitions to be circulated.

Whether the new petitions will contain the names of all Councilmen or whether they will be similar to the rejected ones, is not yet definitely announced.

The names of Councilmen Harry A. Link and John J. Bottema were not included in the rejected petitions, but Councilman Link has urged that they shall be included in the new ones as he feels it will simplify matters for the voters to remove all members. An alternative suggested by Link is for all the Councilmen to resign immediately and then submit their names for re-election.

It has also been suggested that a mass meeting be held at the City Hall, with members of the Council present, to publicly discuss the various aspects of the recall.

The recall movement was started last month when the City Council dismissed Chief of Police A. N. Coberly. Whether the dismissal is the sole reason for the recall has not been voiced.

Redlands Opens Holiday Season

REDLANDS, Nov. 30.—Redlands holiday shopping season will open with a celebration and unveiling of windows and the holiday downtown decorations on Tuesday night. This time was set by the Merchants' Association at a meeting last night and feverish work to get everything ready for the opening was started.

The street decorations for the holiday season this year will be more elaborate than they have ever been. Live deodar trees, eight feet in height will be used in tubs along the sidewalks. They will be decorated with red and green lights, and there will be strings of colored lights all along the streets.

The opening of the holiday season will be featured by a concert by the Redlands Drum and Bugle Corps preceding the opening. Then a Boy Scout will give the bugle call and the lights will be turned on along the street and also in the windows of the stores.

Merchants are looking forward to a busy holiday season and report they have larger stocks on hand for Christmas buying than ever before.

REDLANDS WEEKLY CEASES

No Issue of "Fress Press" This Week After Two Had Been Published With Hiatus Between Them

REDLANDS, Nov. 30.—An effort which has been made to establish a weekly newspaper here, where their is one daily newspaper and no weekly seems to be having difficulties. Two issues of the paper have been printed but this week there was no issue of the Redlands Free Press, as it was called, and it is stated that there is not likely to be another.

The first paper was printed three weeks ago with Horace Bristol as the proprietor and editor. The paper was printed in the plant of the Citrograph Printing Company. The next week there was no issue of the weekly, but the following week it was printed again with an explanation that the owner had been making inquiries into the new ordinance which has been passed by the City Council.

The ordinance provides that no handbills can be distributed in this city, thrown in yards, placed on porches or put in automobiles. Newspapers, regularly accepted by the postoffice as second-class matter, are excepted. The owner of the weekly had intended to put the paper in every house in the city but was told that he could only place it where there were regular subscribers who had paid the subscription price. It is understood he was advised later that his newspaper could not be barred.

Alhambra Has Free Bureau to Provide Jobs

ALHAMBRA, Nov. 30.—Under the direction of the Alhambra committee on unemployment relief, a free employment bureau has been established here to function both for the employer of labor and for the worker in this end of the San Gabriel Valley. Scores of jobless men and women have already registered and many jobs have been found for them. The applications range from common labor to highly skilled trades and professions.

The committee was organized as the result of a recent meeting of industrial and civic leaders, called together by the city to discuss a program for unemployment relief during the winter. W. W. Nuzum, City Commissioner, is chairman of the group, which includes James B. Scullin and E. F. Elfstrom. Several subcommittees have also been appointed to assist.

Citizens have been urged to cooperate by taking part in a "clean up, fix-up" campaign, and to encourage local business by "buying now."

While local unemployment conditions are far from serious, civic leaders believe that those out of work should be assisted in every way possible to secure jobs. Wherever possible the new bureau is giving preference to the heads of families.

Wine Salesman Evades Police in Twin Cities

ONTARIO, Nov. 30. — Through a desire to stock Ontario and Upland homes with wine for holiday consumption, a suave solicitor has flagrantly defied all city ordinances against peddling, soliciting and taking orders for wine, and has successfully eluded police, it was learned today.

The wine salesman is said to have rung the doorbells of many homes in the two communities, and through his gracious manner taken housewives clear off their guard against solicitors, and through clever conversation let it be known that he was taking orders for Christmas wine, made from the choicest California grapes.

The well-dressed solicitor was extremely courteous in calling at the homes, and offered his "excellent" holiday wares which he said was "genuine wine," two years in the aging process, and full of "enough" alcohol. He told the householders he was taking orders for amounts ranging from one gallon to a barrel, and promised delivery without fail, payment to be made upon receipt of the goods.

He offered no samples of his wares, according to some of the folks he visited.

MUNCHAUSENS IN "DRY-BLOW"

Old Salts of Santa Barbara Yacht Club Spin Yarns to Outdo Each Other in Annual "Lyin' Match;" Tale of Preston Butcher Leaves Others Astern

SANTA BARBARA, Nov. 29.—The annual "dry-blow" of the Santa Barbara Yacht Club was held Thanksgiving Day, although results of the event were successfully shielded until this afternoon.

The "dry-blow," for those landlubbers who know little of the ways of a sailor, is a downright "lyin' match," always held on a rainy Sunday or holiday in the snug lobby of the yacht club. All the old salts in town—and a lot who never get nearer town than the first grocery store—get together before a blazing fire and let fly with all their personal experiences for the past year. Easy to see what might happen.

Fish stories, storm yarns, race thrills and whatnot are told, retold and rehashed from yesterdays. One tells a story and if another happened to be in on the same thing, he makes himself a big "liar" proving the other fellow a same-such.

Preston Butcher, a respectable attorney and commodore of the club, it was revealed by a "listener-in" today, won the "blow" with the following tale:

"Well, we were headin' for Santa Cruz Island one sunny Sunday morning and with a spankin' good breeze behind us, were making knots pretty fast. Along out in the channel about halfway, the darned wind died down on us—and left us just standin' still.

"We didn't have a motor, so we just had to wait pleasure of the wind—but there wasn't such a thing that afternoon. We tried fishin', but fish won't bite when the water is so calm they can see whiskers on your face—no, sir, we were out of luck. Pretty soon, one of the boys got out a pail and said, 'You watch me, I'll get you to the island.' What did he do?"

A dead silence greeted the respected commodore's query.

"Well, he took that pail and baled water out of the channel so that we could wade to Valdez! But did we?"

Again silence greeted his question.

"What did happen?" asked George Gourley, himself one of the leading "blowers."

"Well, about the time this fellow gets the channel down to wadin' depth—and that was a two-hours' job—the wind started to blow. Blew like the devil, but we couldn't move, cause the darned boat was jammed in mud. See, our friend and mate had baled too much water out from under us, and we naturally hit bottom.

"Well, to make a long story short, we got out and formed a bucket brigade and threw water under the boat 'til she had enough to sail in under her. And the wind carried us into Valdez but we sure had to watch the channel, cause so much of the water was gone we were afraid of tearin' her bottom out."

Completion of the tale, so 'tis told, brought plaudits from the assembled crowd and inasmuch as it stopped raining, no more stories were told—

You understand, it's against "dry blow" rules to yarn while it isn't raining.

AIRWAY WILL BE LIT SOON

San Diego-Los Angeles Route to Be Illuminated by Federal Government Early in New Year

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 30.—The San Diego-Los Angeles airway will be lighted by the Federal government soon after the new year. This was assured today when Capt. F. C. Hinsburg, chief engineer, airways division of the United States Department of Commerce, advised Thomas Bomar, manager of the aviation department of the Chamber of Commerce, that bids for the installation of revolving beacons will be called for this week.

Contracts for this work are expected to be awarded early in January, with completion scheduled for the middle of March.

The contract, according to Capt. Hinsburg, will call for the installation of revolving aerial beacons every ten miles between San Diego and Los Angeles, placement of boundary lights on the Eddie Martin Airport at Santa Ana, which has been designated as an emergency landing field, and erection of radio directional beacons at Lindbergh Field and at the northern terminal in Los Angeles.

SON OF MRS. SCRIPPS IN PETITION

Asks Superior Court for Probate of Her Last Will and Testament

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 30.—Robert Paine Scripps, through Curtis Hillyer, attorney, has filed a petition in Superior Court for probation of the will of his mother, Mrs. E. W. Scripps, who died the 16th inst. on her ranch at Miramar. The will provides for disposal of the property of the deceased to nineteen heirs and legatees, named in the petition.

Most of the estate was left to Mrs. Nackie Scripps Meanley, a daughter who married Thomas Meanley. The value of the estate covered in the will was not made known by Hillyer, who is the attorney for the estate, but he said it amounted to several million dollars.

The will contains provisions for the disposal of a $1,000,000 trust fund.

Exchange Club Plans Relief Headquarters

NEWPORT BEACH, Nov. 30.—The Newport Harbor Exchange Club is planning to organize the Harbor District to care for the relief work here. The club will establish central charity headquarters in an effort to have a clearinghouse and thus avoid duplication.

At the headquarters all unemployed may register and any person having work to be done may also register their work here, too. Work on cleaning up property and painting buildings now ready for spring and summer vacationists, may be started soon and help in the relief campaign.

H. O. Ensign, principal of the Newport grammar school, suggested the clearinghouse idea at the meeting of the club, and Chief of Police R. R. Hodgkinson, president of the organization, named a committee to co-operate with other organizations. Harry D. Hyde was named to head the committee. Others serving are Lew Wallace, Ensign, A. J. Twist and Rev. Russell Stroup.

Ensign stated that the Parent-Teacher Association is ready and willing to co-operate and other organizations have declared their willingness to support the undertaking.

RATTLESNAKE DEN AT VENICE PLUNDERED

VENICE, Nov. 30.—Saturday night several boys forced an entrance into the "Rattlesnake Den," a concession on the Venice pier. The youths, according to the owner, were seen entering the place by other concessionnaires. Their plunder, the reptile expert stated, included one 'possum, one six-inch lizard and 350 rattlesnake fangs. And the fangs, which required fifteen years to collect, retain their poison indefinitely, Allman pointed out. Hence, if any of the young thieves accidentally scratches himself with one of them, he is certain to become seriously ill, he warns.

Appeal Filed in Ring Case by Attorney

SANTA BARBARA, Nov. 30.—Maintaining that a diamond ring given by Mrs. Florence Visee to A. M. Cobb of the Piggly Wiggly stores was security for a legitimate debt, Attorney Major McGregor yesterday in Superior Court filed an appeal in Cobb's behalf from judgment of Justice of the Peace Tom Poole.

The case, started by Mrs. Visee to recover the ring, involved sensational charges of intimidation by Cobb. The justice of the peace ordered the ring returned to Mrs. Visee following a bitter three-day court fight recently.

An agreement signed by Mr. and Mrs. Visee, whereby they were to pay $100 to Cobb in weekly installments of $5 each for goods asserted by Cobb to have been stolen from one of the Piggly Wiggly stores, of which he is manager, was filed with the appeal.

The Visees maintained that the goods were "planted" on them and that they were framed into pawning the ring in order to avoid police prosecution. Cobb maintained the debt was legitimate and that he was within his rights to demand certain payment.

SANTA BARBARA, Nov. 30.—First link of the proposed Foothill Boulevard, which eventually will serve as a new entrance to the city from the north, was opened today without ceremony. Hope avenue, extending through the populous and rapidly growing Hope district, is the southern terminus of the new road. The new boulevard, which when completed will afford one of the most scenic drives in this section of the State, will not be connected with San Marcos Pass until spring, engineers have announced. The two-mile strip between Hope and the foot of the pass is the only section of the boulevard not completed.

WORKER AND JOB TO MEET

Committee to Speed-up Business and Employment Makes Appeal for Pasadena "Fix-up" Campaign

PASADENA, Nov. 30.—There is plenty of work and an adequate supply of labor in this city, and what is needed to stimulate prosperity is to foster optimism in employers and the buying public while bringing worker and job together. This is the contention of Pasadena's "committee to speed-up business and employment" which will fire the opening gun in the local paint-up and fix-up campaign Tuesday, when local residents will be asked individually by mail to list the amount of work they will agree to have done in the interests of returning prosperity.

Never again, it is asserted, will home owners have an opportunity to brighten-up their premises and provide needed improvements at such a low cost as is possible at the present time.

In addition to the phase of the prosperity campaign aimed to encourage residents to improve their homes and grounds, the committee is contacting city officials who already have promised that considerable public works will be ordered this winter as the city's share in the movement. The city already has agreed to finance posters and other advertising incidental to the campaign, and members of the committee believe they have located additional funds which can be used to perform work immediately which might otherwise be postponed.

The city has several hundred acres of farm land which is not being farmed intensively and it has been proposed that 200 men might be employed to develop this property as a truck garden.

Speakers conversant with the fundamentally sound economic condition of the country will address civic organizations and service clubs with a view to creating an intelligent optimism in the minds of business leaders.

Another campaign activity will be directed toward wealthy residents with a view to encouraging them to construct tennis courts and outhouses at once which they may have been planning to erect in the future.

An honor roll will be published giving the names of citizens who cooperate in the campaign by hiring additional work done at this time.

The Pasadena Merchant Plumbers' Association has announced that plumbers in this city will inaugurate a five-day working week tomorrow, but the committee is reported to hold the opinion that if residents who require the services of a plumber would order the work done now, instead of waiting until their stocks and bonds soar to new high levels, the plumbers would have ample work seven days of the week if they desired it.

School officials are co-operating by checking the condition of the schools and grounds with a view to having all necessary repairs made.

CITY VOTES ON BONDS FOR BEACH

Santa Barbara Residents Tomorrow Will Decide on Purchase of Water Front

SANTA BARBARA, Nov. 30.—Voters of Santa Barbara will go to the polls Tuesday to decide whether the city shall be authorized expenditure of $200,000 for the purchase of 1019 feet of beach frontage at the foot of State street and East Cabrillo Boulevard.

Should the water front bonds carry in Tuesday's election, the city of Santa Barbara will become sole owner of more than two miles of beach property extending along east and west of Cabrillo Boulevard. The property involved in the $200,000 issue is owned by the Santa Barbara Lumber Company, but has been vacant since that firm moved its plant in 1929.

If purchased by the city, the former lumber company site, it is planned, will be cleared and beautified in harmony with landscaping of surrounding beach lands. Practically every civic organization in the city has given the proposed bond issue support, while in a recent Council meeting, Mayor T. R. Finley and the City Council unanimously indorsed the proposition.

It became known yesterday that a group of local business men, headed by Walter Charlesworth, president of a string of service stations, had offered the lumber company $305,000 for the site. Charlesworth declined to state for what purpose his group meant to use the land if acquired, but it is believed that a large hotel would be erected there.

Webb Coming to Beach Park Meeting Soon

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Nov. 30. Gen.-Atty. U. S. Webb will attend a meeting here of the property owners and a representative group of Orange county citizens to discuss plans for the State beach park proposed to be located between here and Newport Beach.

W. R. Osborn, president of the local chamber, and the board of directors have made arrangements for the meeting and have asked Attorney H. W. O'Melveny, State park head; the Orange County Supervisors and all interested persons to attend the meeting.

Condemnation proceedings have been instituted by Attorney Webb to retain 12,600 feet of beach frontage and 344 acres back from the frontage for the park.

President Osborn stated that the persons holding up the price are the owners who have property which does not touch on either the beach frontage or the Coast highway. Other land is obtainable at a lesser price and unless the land already included in the plan can be secured at a fair price, the proposed boundary lines can be changed, he declared. President Osborn said that the ocean frontage prices are fairly reasonable. He is asking a special committee working on the plan to get the assessments on the land for a period of years past in an attempt to set a fair price.

Scout Exhibit's Winners Named

ONTARIO, Nov. 30.—Lex R. Lucas, Chaffey district Scout executive, today announced winners in the Boy Scout merit-badge exposition which was held in a circus tent here over the week-end.

In the outdoor division another new troop won honors when Upland troop No. 1, recently organized in Upland Methodist Church, took first place with its demonstration of camping. Ontario troop No. 4 of Mountain View school placed second in the vocational division with an exhibit of agriculture.

The judges gave special mention to two other troops, Upland troop No. 3, for its metal work, and Alta Loma troop No. 1, for a display of wood carving.

Kiwanis clubs of Ontario, Pomona and Claremont sponsored the exposition this year.

INGLEWOOD, Nov. 30.—Frank D. Parent, widely known throughout the Centinela Valley where he has operated as a real estate broker during his twenty years of residence in Inglewood, will this morning assume the duties of local police judge, succeeding Judge A. F. Monroe, who has occupied that position for nineteen years. Judge Monroe's resignation was tendered to the City Council here last Monday night, and was accepted effective December 1.

Parent, who is now president of the Rotary Club, has been prominent in every activity looking to the public good in all the years of his residence here. He has served three terms as president of the Chamber of Commerce, two terms as president of the local Realty Board, and is identified with numerous other units working for the development of the community. He is a member of the local Bar Association, having majored in law at the University of Kansas, and although he has engaged in the real estate business here, he was admitted to the practice of law in this State many years ago. Mrs. Bessie Ramsdell has been named by Parent to act as clerk in the court.

Judge Monroe will continue in his capacity as justice of the peace of Inglewood township, which position he has until the present time filled in addition to the post of police judge.

OLD ROAD MAY COME TO LIF

Butterfield Trail May Agai Become Bustling Artery

Imperial Highway Body Jo Routing Over It

Historic Stage Way Woul Connect With No. 80

EL CENTRO, Nov. 30.—Plans of the Imperial Highway Association for the development of a new highway approach from the east to the Los Angeles area and possible reconstruction of the old Butterfield trail as a modern highway, moved a step closer to realization last night when 110 delegates representing twenty-six Southern California towns assembled here in conference.

While four routes leading from Imperial Valley to the western terminus of the proposed highway at El Segundo are under construction the discussion last night indicated that part of the old Butterfield stage trail connecting with United States Highway No. 80 near Coyote Wells and running northwest through Warner Hot Springs, Elsinore, Corona and thence by way of One Hundred and Fourteenth street, Los Angeles, to the Pacific Ocean, is favored at the present time. It is seventy miles shorter than any present route from Imperial Valley to Los Angeles.

HOWE CHAIRMAN

Loren Howe, secretary of the Hawthorne Chamber of Commerce, is chairman of the committee which is to make a final recommendation as to the most feasible routing. He is scheduled to have a report ready for the association at the next meeting, which is to be held in Elsinore the last Saturday in January.

Walter E. Mellinger of Lynwood presided as chairman at last night's meeting, which followed a banquet in the Barbara Worth Hotel. One of the most interesting addresses delivered during the program was the recital by Reverdy Harris, secretary of the San Jacinto Chamber of Commerce, of his experiences in coming to California on the Butterfield stages as a boy of 15 years of age in 1890. He quoted from a diary kept by his mother during her trip across Southern California on the old pony express.

COL. FLETCHER SPEAKS

Col. Ed Fletcher of San Diego told of the pioneer work necessary to open the first transcontinental road into Southern California by way of Imperial Valley. The most difficult task which confronted the early road building was in spanning the drifting sand between Yuma and Holtville. He said the increasing popularity of this route was proved by the fact that twelve years ago an average of twelve cars a day entered Southern California by this route, while today the average is 8000 motorists a month.

Other speakers on the program included R. B. Whitelaw, president of the El Centro Chamber of Commerce; George Kellogg, executive secretary of the Imperial Highway Association; E. Q. Sullivan, representing the State Highway Commission, and J. W. McKenney, author of a recent story of the Butterfield Trail.

The visiting delegates had breakfast this morning as guests of the El Centro Chamber of Commerce, and then were taken on a motor sight-seeing trip through Imperial Valley.

"HECK OF A JUDGE" SUSPENDS SENTENCE

CUCAMONGA, Nov. 30.—She used the woman's right to change her mind, and after a woman who gave her address as Los Angeles, but refused to divulge her name, other than Jane Doe, called Judge James Sharp "a heck of a judge" she thought it over a few hours, and then termed him "Mr. Mayor" and other consoling words. She went to Judge Sharp's home in the evening and while in the yard created such a disturbance the neighbors took a hand. She was placed in Ontario jail overnight, and in the morning repented of having called him "a heck of a judge" and other things, and sought many other expressions to prove that she was sorry. Judge Sharp gave her a suspended sentence.

DISPUTE MAY BE SETTLED

Huntington Beach Land Company Reported in Overtures to City in Case Involving Water Front

SANTA ANA, Nov. 30.—Possibility of reaching an amicable settlement in the battle that has been fought between the city of Huntington Beach and the Huntington Beach Company for the possession of the ocean front a that city, loomed today when it was learned that overtures to that end have been made by the land company to the city.

City Attorney Lew W. Blodget of Huntington Beach stated today that he understood that an offer to settle the dispute outside of court, thus saving time and money for all concerned, has been made by the land company. He added that a conference meeting regarding the matter was held a few nights ago in Huntington Beach.

Blodget was not in a position to state whether or not the city administration was willing to entertain a compromise offer in order to drop the lawsuit, but thought that if a reasonable portion of the beach was set aside for public use, such a proposal might be entertained. He made it clear, however, that his opinion was merely a conjecture.

The suit is now at issue in the Superior Court of San Diego county where it was taken on a change of venue from Orange county.

Mrs. George Kilgen and Daughters Carol and Joan

AMONG the attractive young matrons who are especially interested in philanthropic and civic affairs is Mrs. George Kilgen of 256 South Maple Drive, Beverly Hills. She is president of the recently organized Mothers' Study Club of Hollywood School for Girls. She has two daughters, Carol, 5 years of age, and Joan, 11, who are taking an important part in school affairs. The former is interested in dancing and the latter in music.

Mr. and Mrs. Kilgen came to the Southland from St. Louis, Mo., last year and have renewed acquaintanceship with many former friends who have come also from the East to make their homes here. The Mothers' Study Club, organized by Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Black, head of the elementary department of Hollywood School for Girls, has for its secretary and treasurer Mrs. Ruth Timpkins. Mrs. Andrew Rudgear is publicity chairman. Mrs. Black is chairman of the program committee, assisted by Mrs. Fred Weddington, Mrs. Dana Latham and Mrs. Don Repp.

Nine-tenths of the auto trucks in India are from the United States.

Two Must Pay in Triple Crash

Damages to an automobile, amounting to $5.10, were argued over for a half day by three attorneys in Municipal Judge Sheldon's court. The suit was the outcome of a complicated automobile crash on Pasadena avenue February 26, last.

Charles B. Ryan, who filed the suit, testified that a truck driven by C. Hillhoff collided with one driven by A. Leko, forcing the latter's machine into Ryan's car. A damaged bumper and a torn tire cover resulted, he said.

At the conclusion of the trial, Judge Sheldon gave Ryan judgment for the $5.10 and costs, to be paid by both defendants.

WHEN THE SANDMAN COMES

by THORNTON W. BURGESS

THE YOUNG MUSKRAT IS FOUND

Pain and helplessness and fright,
Pity those in such a plight.
—Jerry Muskrat.

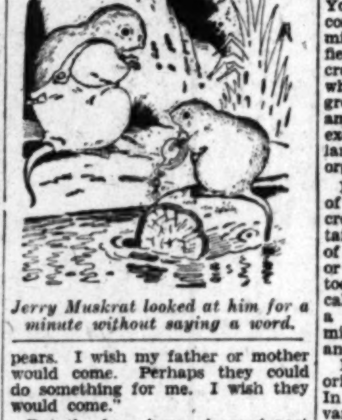
Beautiful Mistress Moon, looking down on the Green Meadows, the Green Forest, the Smiling Pool and the Laughing Brook, saw as pitiful a sight as was to be seen in all the Great World. Yes, sir, she did so. On the bank of the Laughing Brook below the Smiling Pool she saw an old log, half in the water and half on the bank. She had seen that old log for longer than she could remember. Often she had seen it unoccupied and often she had seen a little person in a fur coat sitting on it. Sometimes that little person was Billy Mink pausing for a rest on his way up or down the Laughing Brook. More often it was a Muskrat, one of Jerry Muskrat's relatives. Sometimes it was Jerry himself.

On this night when she had first looked down on the old log no one was there. Then she had seen a young Muskrat, one of Jerry's children whom she had often seen playing in the Smiling Pool, start to climb out on that log. He was only part way out when she saw him plunge back into the water and there splash and kick and kick and splash, yet remain right there. She knew what it meant. She had seen that dreadful thing many times before. That young Muskrat was caught in a trap, a dreadful thing which had seized one leg in cruel, steel jaws, and now hung on with a grip that no amount of struggling could loosen. A chain fastened that trap securely to the log.

Gentle Mistress Moon pitied that young Muskrat as many, many times she had pitied other trapped little people of the Green Meadows and the Green Forest. And there was nothing she could do about it. All she could do was to look down on that little sufferer and pity him and wish and wish that she could help him.

The pain was bad enough, for the bone of that leg had been broken by those cruel steel jaws and the leg was badly swollen. Added to this was the dreadful feeling of helplessness and fright.

"If only I could do something," the young Muskrat kept saying over and over. "If only I could do something. Oh, oh, oh, how that leg hurts! What will happen next? What will be done to me? If Reddy Fox should come along, or Hooty the Owl happen this way, I will be killed and eaten. I cannot even try to escape if one of them appears. I wish my father or mother would come. Perhaps they could do something for me. I wish they would come."



Jerry Muskrat looked at him for a minute without saying a word.

But the long hours dragged past and no one came. Some clouds had hidden the face of gentle, pitying Mistress Moon. It was nearly time for jolly, bright Mr. Sun to begin his daily climb up in the blue, blue sky when the young Muskrat heard a faint sound out in the water. Some one was swimming toward him. He held his breath and watched. He could see a silver line approaching and he knew it was made by the swimmer. He knew, too, that it was a Muskrat approaching. A moment later he could see who it was. It was his father, Jerry Muskrat!

The young Muskrat was so glad that he started forward to meet his father. He forgot for the moment that he was held fast by one leg. The result was that he tumbled with a splash into the shallow water beside the old log. Whimpering, he crawled back, dragging that dreadful trap. It was with the greatest difficulty that he managed to get back on the log.

Jerry Muskrat looked at him for a minute without saying a word. When he did speak all he said was: "So here you are. I've found you at last, and I've found you just as I feared I would. The question now is, what is to be done?"

Chef Wyman's RECIPES

Every Friday at 2 o'clock Mrs. A. L. Wyman will conduct a free class and demonstration of good cookery in the lecture room of the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway.

CARROT LOAF

Scrap four large carrots, and cut them in quarters lengthwise, cover with boiling water, and allow to cook until tender, drain, and press them through a sieve or ricer. To two cupfuls of the pulp add one cupful of chopped pecan nut meats, two eggs beaten lightly, a seasoning of salt and paprika, a teaspoonful of worcestershire sauce, and one tablespoonful of grated onion pulp, and a tablespoonful of finely chopped parsley. Mix thoroughly and add enough fine bread crumbs to form into a loaf. Oil a baking pan, place the mixture in it and bake for thirty minutes in a moderate oven, basting two or three times during the baking. Serve with a cream sauce which has been made with part of the water the carrots were cooked in.

VEAL HEARTS MEXICAN

Mix six finely rolled soda crackers with four tablespoonfuls of finely chopped salt pork or fat bacon. Two finely chopped stalks of celery, one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, and one-quarter of a medium-sized onion chopped fine, place in a saute pan, three tablespoonfuls of chopped fresh pork, and cook until lightly brown. Skim out the pieces of fat and add one chopped stalk of celery, one small carrot sliced, one-half of a bay leaf, two sprays of parsley, two whole cloves, and six whole pepper corns. Stuff three veal hearts with the cracker-crumb mixture, tie with a string, roll in flour, and brown in the fat the vegetables are cooked in. Place in a casserole, add to the pan two cupfuls of tomato puree, one chopped onion, one chopped green pepper, one chopped pimiento, one cupful of water, and one level tablespoonful of Spanish seasoning. Bring to a boil, pour over the hearts, cover the casserole and cook slowly for one and one-half hours. Lift out the hearts, season the sauce with salt and paprika and pour around them.

LEMON SPONGE PIE

The yolks of two eggs, three-fourths of a cupful of milk, one cupful of sugar, three tablespoonfuls of flour, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of melted butter, two egg whites. Beat the egg yolks until light, add the milk, mix together the sugar, flour and salt, and stir in to the egg yolks and milk, add the melted butter, and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites, pour the mixture into a pastry lined dish. Place in a hot oven for the first ten minutes, then reduce the heat and finish the baking in a moderate oven.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY
Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

ICE CREAM IS A GOOD FUEL FOOD

You may think it odd that recommend ice cream as good food to use in winter. As a matter of fact, ice cream is as valuable to use in winter for its high caloric value as it is in summer for its refreshing quality. A dish of ice cream may make you feel a little cooler temporarily, but it will make you better able to resist the cold for several hours after it is digested.

The formulas used by the different manufacturers vary slightly, but most of them contain the following ingredients: 10 per cent to 15 per cent milk fat, 14 per cent to 18 per cent cane sugar, 1 per cent edible gelatin, and the remainder consists of whole milk with its proteins, milk solids and flavoring. You can see by this that ice cream contains more than twice as much milk fat as the best grade of certified milk. For this reason, ice cream is very rich in vitamin A, which is so essential to the proper growth of children. The large amount of milk solids furnishes an excellent kind of protein and a large amount of lime and other organic minerals.

Ice cream contains a large amount of calcium. A half pint of ice cream has been estimated to contain as much lime as a half pound of butter, or four pounds of meat, or three and a half pounds of potatoes. Many foods are deficient in calcium, but ice cream furnishes a large supply of this valuable mineral which is essential to bone and cell structure.

Ice cream is thought to have originated in Italy about 1600 A.D. In its original form it consisted of various frozen punches, wine, custards, etc., the term "cream" being used for anything of a soft, thick texture.

According to present usage, ice cream must contain a certain amount of pure fat, and the frozen custards or ices may not be called ice cream. At one time cornstarch was extensively used to thicken ice cream, but this practice has fallen into disuse since gelatin has been found to give a smoother texture, a better flavor, and a more wholesome food product.

When ice cream is used with a regular meal it is wise to serve only small portions because of its high food value, but I would suggest that you use ice cream as the principal part of a meal, in which case it is all right to use as much as a half pint at a time, using with it any one kind of the acid fruits, such as cherries, peaches, oranges or berries, or, in place of the fruit, use whatever is desired of the cooked and raw non-starchy vegetables. With this meal it is better to leave out meat, potatoes, bread and other heavy foods, as they are not needed with such a highly nutritious food as ice cream.

That Squeaky Sweeper

Why is it a woman can let a sweeper squeak until it is weak before she realizes that all it needs is a little machine oil in its various parts? She will find the sweeper will work 100 per cent better and easier after she has oiled it besides going about its duties in a quiet manner.

HOW WOULD YOU BROADCAST IT?

Here's Chance to Educate Football Announcer

Do You Like Endless Jabber or Colorless Report?

Write Your Prescription for Uncle John

The Times Forum, KHJ, at 1:30 p.m. Clint Brush and L. C. Fox, instrumentalists; "Snowy" Baker on Sports. World-Wide News at 12:30, 4:45 and 10 p.m.

BY JOHN S. DAGGETT

"Could I ask football radio fans a few questions through your column, Uncle John," asked a prominent announcer of sports on the air.

"You certainly may," I told him, and here they are:

"With football games commanding country-wide attention from radio fans this department is interested in learning specifically what type of broadcast grid followers appreciate most. Not a Saturday goes by but what hundreds of thousands of fans tune in on games played in all parts of the nation and by this time the majority of listeners-in have made up their mind regarding various announcers.

Do you prefer a colorful broadcast, one which is "dressed up" by flowery phrases from the announcer who seeks to keep you interested with a constant flow of language?

Do you aim to dial a straightforward, play-by-play report which tells where the ball starts from, who carries it, through what part of the line he goes and where he ends up?

Do you seek entertainment, or facts pertaining to the game itself?

Do you dial the announcer who excites you or the one who sticks to the football game?

Do you want a constant flow of language, regardless of what it's about, or do you yearn for a pause now and then so you can catch your breath along with the announcer?

If you don't prefer any of these things write in and tell this department what it is you do want in the way of "radio reporting" on the coming Notre Dame-Southern California game.

Local stations are making preparations to offer football fans the most accurate and colorful broadcasts of the season. Perhaps you have some suggestions. KHJ, the Don Lee station, will feature Braven Dyer of The Times sports staff, who will have as his right-hand aide that afternoon, Tom Lieb, coach of the Loyola University team. Last year, while Knute Rockne was ill, Lieb coached the Irish through an undefeated schedule. This broadcast will go over the Columbia network and will be picked up all over the country."

Football is the great national disease during the fall months. It touches young and old, rich and poor, and makes "experts" out of us all. What are your reactions to recent broadcasts? We would like to know.

Your Baby and Mine

by MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

This department offers leaflets on weaning and feeding the child from 6 weeks to 6 years, prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother, constipation, eczema, outfits for the new baby, sleeping, walking, teething, thumb sucking, ammoniacal urine, bed wetting, training in cleanly habits, periods of nursing, cod liver oil, orange juice, hives, worms, vomiting, refractory children, prune juice, lime water, rupture, styes and boils and cradle cap. Before asking a personal question about one of these subjects, it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the leaflet you need. If your particular problem is not covered in the above list, Mrs. Eldred will be glad to give you a personal reply.

WHAT THE MOTHER-TO-BE WANTS TO KNOW

All prospective mothers encounter the same problems. The mother of several children shortly learns most of the answers, but the new mother is just as distressed by uncertainty as if her own problems were original and unique. Here is a letter from Mrs. D. P., who asks all the questions about which every prospective mother has wondered from time immeasurable:

"Please answer these questions. I'm wondering about the baby's layet. They are expensive, I know, so would I have to buy the whole outfit or just pieces here and there? How many and what things would I need? I don't want too many clothes at the beginning. What if I should choose the wrong color?

"I am going to a hospital and would I have to take the baby's clothes with me, and which ones? What do I need for myself? I suppose most of the clothes in a layet are the same size and material, are they not?"

THE NECESSITIES

Our leaflet on "Information for the Prospective Mother" offers a full list of clothes, sizes, suggested material, nursery equipment, and your questions about the hospital are also answered. Any mother who is interested in this leaflet may obtain it by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope with her request to this department.

Layets are not indivisible by any means. A whole layet, which includes each of the baby's necessities, can be bought from $25 up, depending on the number of pieces and the quality and workmanship. Any layet should contain enough garments to keep baby clean. As changes of clothes are necessary both day and night, at least three articles of underwear, plenty of diapers, three pairs of hose, and a dress for each day make fewer washings for the mother and insure that baby can be kept fresh and dry. Most mothers prefer making at least a few of the dainty little dresses, and buying the knitted shirts, bands and nightgowns. Too elaborate an outfit is unwise. Sometimes, sad to relate, it is not needed, and even if it is, baby outgrows these first, tiny garments so quickly that it is nicer to be able to buy new clothes with a clear conscience.

ANY COLOR SATISFACTORY

There are no "wrong" colors. White with touches of pink, blue, pale green or canary yellow are used for all babies. The ideas of blue for girls and pink for boys has met the kind of oblivion it so well deserved. We don't label the sex of our babies any more.

Call the hospital you have chosen and ask the officials any question that puzzles you. The requirements of each hospital vary. For yourself you will need sufficient nightgowns for a daily change—they can be washed twice weekly at home and brought back—a kimono, slippers, your own toilet articles, and clothes to go home in.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Orange and Lemon Rind

Never grate orange or lemon rind until you have scrubbed the fruit well. The fruit has been handled by doubtful hands and has gathered many microbes before it has reached us.

Sweet-Smelling Brushes

Scrub brushes and cleaning brushes get very sour and evil smelling if put away wet after using. A hook outside the house in a sunny spot is a good place from which they may be hung and dried in a sanitary manner before they are put away.

Three Bottles Helped Her

"I cannot praise your good medicine enough. After my baby came I was rundown. I had to go to bed often through the day. I took three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I felt like a different woman. If any other mother has those tired feelings like I had, I advise her to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Harold Goodnow, 36 Cane Street, Fitchburg, Massachusetts.

Since news has spread that The Texas Company (TEXACO) has leased approximately 1200 acres—a portion of REPETTO PARK—BICKNELL PARK—and TRI-CITY PARK—we have had an overwhelming response from wide-awake and thoughtful salespeople throughout Southern California.

Drilling Starts Within 30 Days

Engineers are now ascertaining exact location where well will go down.

More enthusiasm here than you ever dreamed of. More sales, too! We have a sales force of money-making men and women. We still have some openings—for salespeople who will stick to the truth. We ARE SELLING GOOD, HONEST-TO-GOODNESS REAL ESTATE—PRICED RIGHT—with participation in oil if discovered.

That's a mighty hard combination to beat at low prices we are asking.

REMEMBER WE ARE DEVELOPING TWO BIG, POWERFUL SELLING ORGANIZATIONS FOR REPETTO PARK AND BICKNELL PARK.

Have a chat with our PERSONNEL MANAGER any morning before 11 o'clock. He'll tell you the rest of the story.

LANDLORDS MAY BE PROSECUTED

Evictions Without Warning to Be Investigated

Johnson Cites State Laws Fixing Procedure

Offenders Cautioned About Tenants' Rights

Following complaints that families, in many cases with children, have been evicted from apartment-houses without warning on account of nonpayment of rent, City Prosecutor Johnson has issued a warning to apartment-house owners that in every such case eviction must follow due process of law.

"I have been informed that in many cases families have left their apartments for the day with their children, to find on their return that they have been locked out by the landlord," Johnson said. "Eviction and retention of baggage to cover rent are legal in this State, but only after due process of law, which includes a three-day notice to vacate and filing of a lien on the baggage, which must be enforced by a third party.

"In cases where the legal procedure is not followed this office may find it necessary to file a criminal complaint for unlawful detainer, which is a misdemeanor, against offending apartment operators."

PETITION HELD UP

Because the expense of the project will outweigh its advantages, the City Council has declined to issue a petition to be circulated for the opening of Burlington avenue from Twelfth to Pico streets.

BIRD CALLER SAYS OWLS STAY IN OWN BAILIWICKS

Using a trick of imitating the call of birds which he has developed from childhood, Prof. Loye Holmes Miller of the department of biology at the University of California at Los Angeles has been able to make accurate studies of the way birds divide territory between them and establish boundaries to their hunting grounds over which they will not cross.

Dr. Miller has written a report on one such study with Great Horned Owls at Saragosa Springs in Holcomb Valley of the San Bernardino Mountains. The report appears in "The Condor," ornithological magazine edited by Prof. Joseph Grinnell, curator of the University Museum of Vertegrate Zoology.

At 4:30 o'clock in the morning Dr. Miller and a friend began walking through the territory of the Great Horned Owls. Dr. Miller imitated the call of the owls and immediately attracted the attention of one of the birds. This bird moved with them as they walked, seeking to discover where the imitation owl could be. This continued for one-quarter or one-half mile, until the biologist crossed a glade of trees.

Standing on the farther side of this glade Dr. Miller called again and again but could not get the owl to follow them over it. Suddenly, while they were standing there, another owl with a deeper voice answered from behind them. This owl in turn followed them for about a half-mile.

After some forty minutes of walking Dr. Miller and his friend returned to the spot where they had last seen the second owl and began imitating the call once more. The second owl immediately appeared in sight and followed them as they retraced their steps to the glade. But he in turn would not cross with them. When the call was repeated a number of times, owl number one appeared on the scene to follow them back to camp.

Dr. Miller says, "The Bubo owl hoots from a point within his chosen territory. Within that he generally responds quickly to the note of a supposed invader. Calls from without his estate do not bring him to the spot though they may rouse him to send out his own challenge. The male bird is the more aggressive and is recognized by the deeper voice and more regular cadence. When reacting to the invader, the owl is not disturbed by people. I once brought a bird to a desert camp where there were seventy-five people laughing and talking, about their several cook fires, or pointing at the owl and exclaiming at its erect horns and cat-like face. There is honor, or fear, among thieves, for each bird seems to respect the other's territory."

Streeter Case May Be Dropped

Accused of three charges of evading the income tax, Clarence C. Streeter, wealthy broker of Los Angeles, is scheduled to appear today before United States District Judge Hazel to have the cases set for trial.

The cases have been pending for several months. It was intimated the cases may be dismissed because of a reported settlement with the government.

PIPE LINE FRANCHISE UP

The City Attorney has been instructed by the City Council to draw up a notice of sale of an oil pipe line franchise along Fifty-fourth avenue in Venice, as requested by the Transcalifornia Oil Company.

DIAMOND BETRAYS TROTH OF ACTRESS

Frances McCoy

A romance which had its beginning in the East where she was appearing on the stage was revealed yesterday in Hollywood when Frances McCoy, motion-picture actress, announced her engagement to Chick Howard, son of a New York business man.

According to Miss McCoy, a Fox player, no date has been set for the wedding, but they expect to be married some time next summer. Miss McCoy said she was not ready to announce her betrothal, but when her friends noticed a huge diamond engagement ring on her finger she disclosed the name of the man.

BANDITS ROB MANAGER OF PLAYHOUSE

Downtown Theater Scene of $1472 Robbery by Pair Who Bind and Gag Victim

A theater audience at the President, 744 South Broadway, sat last night quietly watching a play unfold on the screen unaware that a drama in real life was being enacted within a few feet of them. While a story of African perils was being unfolded two bandits entered the back-stage office of the Assistant Manager Edward McKinney, trussed him up under the threat of two guns, and took $1472.15 in cash.

The bandits then walked quietly out through the audience and disappeared. McKinney managed to work himself loose after fifteen minutes' effort.

The President has numerous back stage dressing rooms, and McKinney was in one of these rooms counting the Saturday night and Sunday receipts when a knock came on the door. Without waiting to be asked in, two men quietly entered the office and covered him with guns. He was trussed up with heavy twine which they brought with them and was gagged with a towel.

One of them was of slight build and small stature and the other a larger man, McKinney told the police. At no time did the audience know of the hold-up which took place almost in front of them.

WIFE ACCUSES MATE

Accusations that her husband informed her, immediately after their wedding, that he was going to be a bootlegger were made by Mrs. Mildred B. Gregory in her suit for annulment of marriage to Floyd Gregory. They were married in Santa Ana, October 18, last, she said. Her complaint also sets up that Gregory falsely represented himself as a furniture salesman earning $50 a week. Superior Judge Bowran announced he will consider the testimony before announcing a decision.

BANDITS STILL ON RAMPAGE

Gang of Eight Mexicans Stabs and Robs Victim; Motorist Brutally Beaten on Head

Banditry in the city continued seemingly unchecked over the week-end, bringing November totals to a new high record. While exact figures were not obtainable as the police statistical bureau is closed on Sundays, November's robberies reached the approximate total of 265, more than doubling the total for October and for November of last year, and setting a mark fifty-four robberies higher than the greatest monthly total in the history of the city.

Attacked by a gang of eight Mexicans armed with knives and ice picks, Manuel Cisneros of 409 South Bixel street, was painfully injured and robbed of $65 and his watch at Macy and Alameda streets, he reported to police. Cisneros said he had just left a barber shop when the assault took place.

DRIVER BEATEN

Brutally beaten on the head and then stripped of his gloves, overcoat and $80 and thrown from his car, Oscar M. Chagnon of 240 South Figueroa street, reported an attack by two bandits early yesterday to University police.

Chagnon said the two men leaped on the running board of his car as he slowed down to make a turn at Santa Barbara and Vermont avenues.

As the men boarded the moving automobile, one of them beat Chagnon over the head with a heavy object. He regained consciousness an hour later in a gutter. The bandits took his car.

After T. K. Morse had been shut in a glassed-in office in his vacuum-cleaning establishment at 1301 West Washington Boulevard, he had the satisfaction of observing the two bandits who had held him up flee suddenly when called away by a confederate in a parked automobile in front. The bandits obtained nothing.

HOTEL CLERK HELD UP

Armed with a large caliber automatic pistol, a masked bandit early yesterday robbed Theodore Zimmerman, clerk of the Salvation Army Hotel, 208 West Fourth street, San Pedro, of $13, the victim told police. The robber threw a woolen glove on the counter in front of Zimmerman and demanded that he fill it with cash. After complying the clerk was made to lie on the floor. The man then fled.

A bandit who wore kid gloves held up Walter L. Scriven in his market at 6114 Pasadena avenue and obtained $7 in currency. He was scared away by the arrival of customers before he could collect the silver coins.

JOB OFFERED

Approached by a man who offered him a job William H. Masusige of Route 2, Box 471, Long Beach, was held up at Third and Los Angeles streets and robbed of $12. The man produced a pistol a few moments after he made his offer of work.

A drug store was held up at 790 Melrose avenue by two bandits. O. S. Button, proprietor, reported being robbed of $75.

A quartet of youthful bandits forced Vair Le Beau to lie down on the floor in a service station at 12342 West Pico Boulevard while they emptied the cash register of $14.

Seventy-seventh-street police reported Don Fowler, robbed of $12, and a customer, R. M. Scarlet of 8910 Elm street, robbed of $6 in Fowler's barber shop in their district.

Two women were victims of purse snatchers late Saturday evening. Miss Nellie Nitchfield of 945 Winfield street was robbed of $58 and a $100 diamond ring in front of 944 Cottage Place, and Mrs. Jennie Bernstone reported losing $3 near her home at 1019 West Pickett street.

MARRIAGE ANNULLED

There's a girl in Havana—the old song ran. Sugar, cigars and romance flourished under the Cuban sun. Irving Benveniste, medical student, testified in Superior Judge Rankin's court that he wooed, won and wed the Havana girl, but that she refused to be imported or to be domestic. They married in the Cuban capital August 27, 1927, he added, but the marriage stopped at the altar. Judge Rankin annulled the marriage.

AVIATRIX DUE TODAY FROM EAST

Ruth Nichols, Society Flyer, Expected to Beat Record of Mrs. Miller

Expecting to clip approximately eight hours from the present east-to-west transcontinental air record for women, Ruth Nichols, Rye (N. Y.) society flyer, is scheduled to land about noon today at United Airport, Burbank, from Kingman, Ariz.

The pilot's elapsed flying time from New York when she reached Kingman yesterday at 1:22 p.m. after a hop from Albuquerque, N. M., was 15 hours and 26 minutes.

If Miss Nichols makes today's trip at speeds she has demonstrated so far she is certain of breaking the existing record of 25 hours and 44 minutes, set on October 10, last, by Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, now believed lost between Havana and Florida.

Weather reports from Transcontinental and Western Air offices here last night indicated that Miss Nichols will have a tail wind over the 275-mile course between Kingman and Los Angeles this morning. Her Lockheed-Vega cabin monoplane, powered by a 450-horsepower Wasp motor, is capable of covering the distance in 2 hours and 30 minutes at the most.

Mrs. Miller made her record in the same little Eaglerock Bullet cabin monoplane which is believed to have been forced down in the ocean during her Havana-Florida attempted sea hop.

MAN BADLY BURNED BY ELECTRIC CURRENT

Stumbling against a "booster" coil in the Los Angeles street railway power-house at 2640 Huron street, yesterday Duke Cochran, 39 years of age, of 5115 Dahlia street, suffered third-degree burns which may prove fatal. Police reported 15,000 volts passed through his body when he came in near contact with the highly charged machine. He was given emergency treatment at the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital and transferred later to the Methodist Hospital.
